Biggest Red Offensive Reported Near by UN Commanders

Tokyo, Thursday, May 17 (AP)—Red troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night.

It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive, or new probing in force.

They struck strong blows from Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, eastward to the Sea of Japan.

The attacks came not long after Maj. Gen. William Hoge, commander of the U. S. Ninth Corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday. Hoge said his troops would welcome it.

The general said if the Chinese follow their "previous pattern of attacking on the full moon, the blow should come soon. The moon comes full on the 18th of the month. That gives him two days."

(The World Almanac and the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey say the full moon comes next Monday.)

Striking Force Ready

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 390,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

One United Nations divisional officer said the Communists "will have to do more probing" before the attack. "They are not too familiar with our defense lines."

Allied patrols reaching across the 10 mile wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese buildups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from self-propelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners were being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

Peiping radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the "United

Wiley Tells Russell He Objects to Way He Brings in Partisan Issue

To Make Decision

Senators Will Discuss Bradley Giving More Details

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Senators voted 19 to 6 today to excuse Gen. Omar Bradley until next Monday as a witness in the MacArthur hearings. Meantime, they will decide whether to insist that he testify about private talks with President Truman on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wrangle Breaks Out

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Senators inquiring into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur fell into a sharp wrangle today with Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) protesting "huddles" among the Republicans.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees inquiry, told his colleagues:

"I have tried to sit here not as a Republican or Democrat but as an American. I have devoutly hoped from the moment these hearings opened that they would not degenerate into a partisan fight where the Republicans would have huddles here and the Democrats would have huddles there."

Waits to Testify

Russell's flare-up came while Gen. Omar Bradley waited to testify for the second day.

It developed out of the demand by Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) yesterday that Bradley tell what was said at conferences with President Truman on firing General MacArthur.

Bradley protested then that he had talked with the President in a "confidential relationship" and he thought he should not relate anything about it.

Russell, in speaking of "huddles," referred to conferences among some of the Republican committee members as to whether Wiley should insist that Bradley tell of the talks with Mr. Truman.

The chairman spoke his mind at considerable length, despite efforts by Wiley to interrupt.

Did Not Like Attitude

When Wiley finally got in a word, he declared he did not like the way Russell "suggested that because a few of us Republicans got together and talked the matter over that it was a partisan matter."

Wiley said Russell had implied that "some of us are not judicial, are not bipartisan."

Russell retorted he had said nothing about being judicial, but "did challenge the non-partisan aspects of your meeting."

When the committee met today, Wiley himself suggested it delay until tomorrow a decision whether to support a ruling by Russell that Bradley did not have to answer the question.

Russell objected to the delay, calling for a showdown vote on the question. Democrats contend that Russell's ruling will be upheld if it is tested.

Can Be Appealed

Under a Senate rules, a decision such as Russell's can be "appealed"—meaning a senator who thinks the ruling is wrong can ask for a committee vote on whether the chairman acted correctly.

Wiley told Russell he didn't want to delay the testimony of Bradley, who is to be excused after today's hearing to attend Armed Services Day functions Friday and Saturday in California.

Russell replied that he thinks the committee ought to decide on the issue raised by Wiley before it proceeds with testimony.

Senator Morse (R.-Ore.) backed Russell's view. He demanded that the committee go ahead and decide the issue.

The conference Bradley was asked about was at the White

Egan Is Counsel For Racing Probe

Wicks Says Inquiry Is Aimed at Tightening State's Control

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—A legislative committee to investigate horse racing in New York will aim at tightening the state's control of the sport to plug any revenue leaks.

The committee, composed of five Republicans and two Democrats, was organized yesterday to conduct the $25,000 probe. It was one of 22 joint legislative committees formed.

John A. Egan, Kingston attorney, was appointed committee counsel.

The inquiry will get underway "within two weeks," Chairman Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston said. Wicks, State Senate Republican leader, proposed the investigation during the 1951 legislative session.

He said he did not intend to investigate off-track betting "at the present time." There had been reports that the committee would look into a news conference that the group would set up new "rules and regulations" to make sure that the state got its full share of racing revenue on pari-mutuel betting at tracks.

The senator described the committee's principal concern as the overhauling of the "operation and administration" of racing to give the state racing commission a firmer grip on the sport.

Wicks said the committee would recruit experts, particularly in the financial field, to assist in checking any leaks in revenue.

The probe will cover both flat and harness racing.

The senator also said he did not know when the probe would end. A report will be submitted to the next session of the Legislature.

The 1951 Legislature authorized the investigation the first since pari-mutuel betting was legalized 11 years ago—and set aside $25,000 for the work. Wicks said the appropriation would be adequate.

College Draft Halted

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Drafting of college students was ordered postponed today until they have a chance to provide their draft boards with aptitude-test scores or evidence of scholastic standing. Selective Service headquarters said however, there were no indications it will be postponed beyond Aug. 20. The aptitude tests will be given at college testing centers throughout the nation during the next two months. Draft boards may use either the scores made in the test, or the regular scholastic record, in deciding whether to grant student deferments.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The position of the Treasury May 14: Net budget receipts $104,842,506.30; budget expenditures $136,840,058.44; cash balance $6,401,879,518.45; customs rcts for month $23,900,610.19; budget rcts fiscal yr July 1 $39,328,471,960.62; budget expenditures fiscal yr $35,949,503,662.36; budget surplus $3,378,968,298.26; total debt $254,499,191,868.16; increase over previous day $9,810,110.21; gold assets $21,755,307,204.97.

Was Planning to Kill Iran's Premier, Is Report by Police

Tehran, Iran, May 16 (AP)—A Moslem terrorist was arrested after a gun battle today with police, who said he was plotting to assassinate Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh.

The Moslem was identified as Abolghassem Rafiee, the number two man in Fedayan Islam, the fanatical religious secret society which is held responsible for the slaying of former Premier Ali Razmara in March.

Premier Mossadegh has taken refuge behind locked doors in parliament, fearing threats against his life.

Police quoted Rafiee as saying "Mossadegh is lucky I am caught. Otherwise he would have been shot within the next two or three days."

This was the latest incident in restive Tehran. The parliament's action in nationalizing the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has focused world attention once more on this potential trouble spot in east-west relations.

Tempers are running high. An editor who is a close adviser to Mossadegh says Britons face a "holy war" if they try to obstruct nationalization.

Carried in Editorial

The threat was carried today in an editorial in the newspaper Shahed. Its editor, Mo Saffar Baghaie is a national front member of parliament and one of the closest advisers of Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh.

This was the most violent of the press reaction to wholly unconfirmed reports that Britain plans to send parachute troops to the Iranian oilfields. Western diplomats here took Shahed's threat with a grain of salt, but the campaign is in line with Mossadegh's tactics in rushing through the oil nationalization bill—with vague warnings of unspecified trouble if the bill were blocked.

The premier has taken up residence in the Parliament building—eating there and sleeping there—with the avowed aim of staying until the Nationalist program is carried out.

All Tehran newspapers splashed the parachute troops report, but none was as outspoken as Shahed, which said:

"To reach this holy goal (oil nationalization) Iran will fight a holy war if necessary.

"If oil nationalization is obstructed by the bad policy of British politicians who refuse to face the facts, the day will come when not a single Britisher will dare stay in this country. The Iranian Moslem nation will deal with every British individual as an infidel."

Investigation Begins

Portsmouth, N. H., May 16 (AP)—A double-pronged investigation was underway today at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard after an American Legion official charged a Communist cell capable of sabotage was operating there. The navy at Boston said both navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation were investigating the assertion made public yesterday by Frank Sawyer, adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion. At the same time, Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities Committee to inquire into the charges.

Kills Wife and Self

New York, May 16 (AP)—While horrified spectators looked on helplessly, an estranged husband shot his wife to death in Brooklyn's Williamsburg section today, then ended his life with a bullet in his brain. Police identified the dead couple as Jack Beitz, 27, of Baltimore, Md., and his wife of five years, Carmen, 25, of Brooklyn. They have a four-year-old son, Jeffrey.

House Committee Discusses Taxing Sale of Used Cars

Resistance Is Strong on Ground Seven Per Cent Paid on New Autos

Washington, May 16 (AP)—A proposal to tax the sale of used cars came up for decision by the House Ways and Means Committee today. The committee already has voted to increase taxes of all types about $6,528,000,000 a year.

The used car tax proposal has aroused considerable resistance, on the ground that a seven per cent tax is paid on all new cars at the manufacturers' level. The committee has voted to hike the new car rate to ten per cent, however.

The bulk of this year's proposed tax boosts would come from individual income taxpayers ($2,900,000,000 net); corporation ($2,080,000,000) and excise increases and additions ($1,068,000,000 so far).

In addition, a 20 per cent withholding tax at the source on dividends and interest is expected to bring in $330,000,000 from income which otherwise might go unreported. A similar withholding tax on dividends of co-operatives is counted on for $25,000,000.

Changes Contemplated

All the committee's decisions are tentative and are subject to possible revision before the bill goes to the House floor. As matters stood before today's committee session, however, these are the major changes contemplated:

Individual income tax: Up three percentage points in each bracket. This means a $42 tax increase for a single man drawing $2,000 a year before personal exemption; and increase of $78 for a $5,000 a year married man with two children, and a boost of $678 a year for a $25,000 a year married man with two dependents.

Corporation taxes: The rate applicable to the first $25,000 of profits rises from 25 per cent to 30 per cent; on taxable income above $25,000 from 47 per cent to 52 per cent. Income in the area where the excess profits tax applies would pay 82 rather than

Military Seizes Control of Bolivia; President Resigns

Coup Follows Elections of May 5; Junta Issues Manifesto on Action

The political color of the upheaval in this turbulent, tin-rich nation was not immediately clear.

The military junta, however, issued a manifesto saying the new government would control the mineral resources of the country and that these would be used "for the benefit of the public and in projects for the progress and development of the nation."

The upheaval took place in an atmosphere of tension after the May 6 elections in which Victor Paz Estenssoro, exiled leader of the nation's tin miners, won most votes but not enough to gain a clear majority which would entitle him automatically to the presidency.

Leaves Statement

Deposed President Urriolagoitia departed the capital for Arica, across the border in Chile. He left this statement:

"In spite of my constant efforts to keep the political struggle within peaceful and tranquil processes, I have been unable to extinguish political passions and the

President Against Testimony About Confidential Talks

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The White House said today President Truman does not wish Gen. Omar Bradley to testify about their confidential talks on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told a news conference the president is "against it," and added:

"The president made the decision. Conversations that led up to it are his business."

Short was asked if Bradley had consulted with Mr. Truman as to whether he should answer questions senators put to him yesterday about the conversations. Bradley declined at the time to answer them.

Short said he did not know whether the president had talked with Bradley. He added:

"They appear to be in complete agreement, don't they?"

Will Not Resign

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today he has "no intention" of resigning and intends to stay in the administration "as long as the president wants me to stay."

Acheson was asked about his attitude toward his job at a news conference and made this comment which he later authorized for direct quotation:

"I have no intention of resigning.

"The matter has been talked about many times and my position has been stated many times. I enlisted for the duration and am prepared to stay as long as the president wants me to stay."

Mystery Car Found In Sturgeon Pool; Model Is Obsolete

Old Oakland Discovered Covered to Door Handles With Mud; Its Mileage Low

A mystery which may date back a considerable number of years was uncovered Tuesday during the lowering of the water in Sturgeon Pool at Rifton by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation employes.

An Oakland touring car was found covered to the door handles in the mud and silt of the reservoir some 200 feet from shore and at the foot of a high cliff opposite the Black Swan Inn. The speedometer of the car registered only 3,260 miles. The auto had been submerged so long that the license plates could not be read and fell apart when an effort was made to salvage them.

Kenneth Vanderlyn notified Sheriff Cluett Schantz at 6:05 o'clock Tuesday afternoon of the discovery of the car. Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro was sent to investigate.

Assisting Conro were Walter Eckert, Charles Robbins, Philip Stokes and Winkler Gunther of Rifton and George Lober of Miller's Lane.

Tools Are Found

In the car were tools, still in good condition, but identification marks were absent. It is believed the car had been in the water for several years and the Central Hudson Company reported that water level in the reservoir has not been down to its present level in 28 years, consequently the car had been covered with water since it went into the pool. Mud and slit had accumulated up to the door handles and it was necessary to enter through the top. When an employe entered the car he was faced by a huge eel which caused a temporary hasty retreat from the investigation.

Finding of car was reported to District Louis G. Bruhn and an investigation will be made to ascertain the ownership of the car

Jebb Promises Anglo Stand With U.S. Against Aggression

AEC Says Energy Will Be Employed

Private Companies Will Try to Develop Program to Use Atom

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says private companies will try to chart the way to the super-modern dreamland — industrial use of atomic energy.

If the plans work out, an AEC announcement last night indicated, one of the first industrial products of nuclear fission might be fertilizers.

An AEC spokesman said use of the bursting atom to make industry's wheels go round would add to the nation's atomic war potential, for a by-product would be explosive atomic materials for weapons.

But the announcement indicated

British UN Delegate Defends Nation's Korean, Trade Policies

New York, May 16 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate to the United Nations, was pledged that Britain will stand "whole-heartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Jebb defended Britain's record in the Korean war and her trade policy toward Red China in a speech before the New York City Bar Association.

Great Britain, he declared, "is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression. * * * everything we can do, short of fatally weakening our main position, to assist the general effort, we shall do, even if that results, as it may well result, in some lowering of the standard of living in Great Britain itself, which has been so laboriously built up since the war."

Exports Halted

He said that Britain early in the war halted exports of strategic materials to Communist China, particularly petroleum products, but not rubber. Now, he said, rubber shipments also are embargoed.

The British diplomat predicted that the U. N. general assembly will adopt far-reaching embargo recommendations later this week. The 60-nation assembly political committee meets at Flushing Meadow tomorrow to open debate on the embargo plan, recommended by a 12-nation sanctions committee Monday.

Britain is joining the U. S., France, Australia and Venezuela in presenting the resolution. It calls for halting export of arms, ammunition, atomic energy materials, petroleum and other war materials to Red China.

France has introduced an amendment which also would in-

Manufacturers Have Woes Due to Newsprint Demamds

New York, May 16 (AP)—United States publishers are being squeezed by tighter newsprint supplies and increasing costs. But newsprint manufacturers are having their troubles too.

The American Newspaper Publishers' Association summed up the supply situation in its annual report. It said:

"Publishers getting as much newsprint in 1951 as in 1950 will be fortunate."

Some newspapers already have allocated advertising space from time to time to stretch out their stocks of newsprint.

Some have had to increase circulation rates to keep abreast of rising prices.

Many of the big newsprint mills of Canada and the United States have announced expansion plans. But demand continues to exceed supply.

United States consumption for the first quarter this year totaled 1,407,199 tons, compared with 1,405,458 tons for the March quarter of 1950.

United States publishers get 80 percent of their supply of newsprint from Canadian mills and the entire production of both U. S. and the dominion was 1,622,166 tons in the first quarter this year against 1,491,838 tons a year ago.

On the surface that doesn't look too bad. But not all of that production went to United States publishers. Some of it was for Canada; some went abroad. The exact breakdown is not available.

Recently R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, estimated the United

Egan Is Counsel For Racing Probe

Wicks Says Inquiry Is Aimed at Tightening State's Control

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—A legislative committee to investigate horse racing in New York will aim at tightening the state's control of the sport to plug any revenue leaks.

The committee, composed of five Republicans and two Democrats, was organized yesterday to conduct the $25,000 probe. It was one of 22 joint legislative committees formed.

John A. Egan, Kingston attorney, was appointed committee counsel.

The inquiry will get underway "within two weeks," Chairman Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston said. Wicks, State Senate Republican leader, proposed the investigation during the 1951 legislative session.

Strong Blows Are Struck 45 Miles Northeast of Seoul Eastward to Sea of Japan

Are Called Ready

Biggest Red Offensive Reported Near by UN Commanders

Tokyo, Thursday, May 17 (AP)—Red troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night.

It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive, or new probing in force.

They struck strong blows from Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, eastward to the Sea of Japan.

The attacks came not long after Maj. Gen. William Hoge, commander of the U. S. Ninth Corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday. Hoge said his troops would welcome it.

The general said if the Chinese follow their "previous pattern of attacking on the full moon, the blow should come soon. The moon comes full on the 18th of the month. That gives him two days."

(The World Almanac and the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey say the full moon comes next Monday.)

Striking Force Ready

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 390,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

One United Nations divisional officer said the Communists "will have to do more probing" before the attack. "They are not too familiar with our defense lines."

Allied patrols reaching across the 10 mile wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese buildups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from self-propelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners were being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

Peiping radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the "United

A mystery which may date back a considerable number of years was uncovered Tuesday during the lowering of the water in Sturgeon Pool at Rifton by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation employes.

An Oakland touring car was found covered to the door handles in the mud and silt of the reservoir some 200 feet from shore and at the foot of a high cliff opposite the Black Swan Inn. The speedometer of the car registered only 3,260 miles. The auto had been submerged so long that the license plates could not be read and fell apart when an effort was made to salvage them.

Kenneth Vanderlyn notified Sheriff Cluett Schantz at 6:05 o'clock Tuesday afternoon of the discovery of the car. Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro was sent to investigate.

Tools Are Found

In the car were tools, still in good condition, but identification marks were absent. It is believed the car had been in the water for several years and the Central Hudson Company reported that water level in the reservoir has not been down to its present level in 28 years, consequently the car had been covered with water since it went into the pool. Mud and slit had accumulated up to the door handles and it was necessary to enter through the top. When an employe entered the car he was faced by a huge eel which caused a temporary hasty retreat from the investigation.

Finding of car was reported to District Louis G. Bruhn and an investigation will be made to ascertain the ownership of the car

Coup Follows Elections of May 5; Junta Issues Manifesto on Action

The political color of the upheaval in this turbulent, tin-rich nation was not immediately clear.

The military junta, however, issued a manifesto saying the new government would control the mineral resources of the country and that these would be used "for the benefit of the public and in projects for the progress and development of the nation."

The upheaval took place in an atmosphere of tension after the May 6 elections in which Victor Paz Estenssoro, exiled leader of the nation's tin miners, won most votes but not enough to gain a clear majority which would entitle him automatically to the presidency.

Leaves Statement

Deposed President Urriolagoitia departed the capital for Arica, across the border in Chile. He left this statement:

President Against Testimony About Confidential Talks

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The White House said today President Truman does not wish Gen. Omar Bradley to testify about their confidential talks on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told a news conference the president is "against it," and added:

"The president made the decision. Conversations that led up to it are his business."

Short was asked if Bradley had consulted with Mr. Truman as to whether he should answer questions senators put to him yesterday about the conversations. Bradley declined at the time to answer them.

Short said he did not know whether the president had talked with Bradley. He added:

"They appear to be in complete agreement, don't they?"

Will Not Resign

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today he has "no intention" of resigning and intends to stay in the administration "as long as the president wants me to stay."

Acheson was asked about his attitude toward his job at a news conference and made this comment which he later authorized for direct quotation:

"I have no intention of resigning.

"The matter has been talked about many times and my position has been stated many times. I enlisted for the duration and am prepared to stay as long as the president wants me to stay."

Chairman Is Irked Over GOP Parley

Wiley Tells Russell He Objects to Way He Brings in Partisan Issue

To Make Decision

Senators Will Discuss Bradley Giving More Details

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Senators voted 19 to 6 today to excuse Gen. Omar Bradley until next Monday as a witness in the MacArthur hearings. Meantime, they will decide whether to insist that he testify about private talks with President Truman on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wrangle Breaks Out

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Senators inquiring into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur fell into a sharp wrangle today with Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) protesting "huddles" among the Republicans.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees inquiry, told his colleagues:

"I have tried to sit here not as a Republican or Democrat but as an American. I have devoutly hoped from the moment these hearings opened that they would not degenerate into a partisan fight where the Republicans would have huddles here and the Democrats would have huddles there."

Waits to Testify

Russell's flare-up came while Gen. Omar Bradley waited to testify for the second day.

It developed out of the demand by Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) yesterday that Bradley tell what was said at conferences with President Truman on firing General MacArthur.

Bradley protested then that he had talked with the President in a "confidential relationship" and he thought he should not relate anything about it.

Russell, in speaking of "huddles," referred to conferences among some of the Republican committee members as to whether Wiley should insist that Bradley tell of the talks with Mr. Truman.

The chairman spoke his mind at considerable length, despite efforts by Wiley to interrupt.

Did Not Like Attitude

When Wiley finally got in a word, he declared he did not like the way Russell "suggested that because a few of us Republicans got together and talked the matter over that it was a partisan matter."

Wiley said Russell had implied that "some of us are not judicial, are not bipartisan."

Russell retorted he had said nothing about being judicial, but "did challenge the non-partisan aspects of your meeting."

When the committee met today, Wiley himself suggested it delay until tomorrow a decision whether to support a ruling by Russell that Bradley did not have to answer the question.

Russell objected to the delay, calling for a showdown vote on the question. Democrats contend that Russell's ruling will be upheld if it is tested.

Can Be Appealed

Under a Senate rules, a decision such as Russell's can be "appealed"—meaning a senator who thinks the ruling is wrong can ask for a committee vote on whether the chairman acted correctly.

Wiley told Russell he didn't want to delay the testimony of Bradley, who is to be excused after today's hearing to attend Armed Services Day functions Friday and Saturday in California.

Russell replied that he thinks the committee ought to decide on the issue raised by Wiley before it proceeds with testimony.

Senator Morse (R.-Ore.) backed Russell's view. He demanded that the committee go ahead and decide the issue.

British UN Delegate Defends Nation's Korean, Trade Policies

New York, May 16 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate to the United Nations, was pledged that Britain will stand "whole-heartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Jebb defended Britain's record in the Korean war and her trade policy toward Red China in a speech before the New York City Bar Association.

Great Britain, he declared, "is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression. * * * everything we can do, short of fatally weakening our main position, to assist the general effort, we shall do, even if that results, as it may well result, in some lowering of the standard of living in Great Britain itself, which has been so laboriously built up since the war."

Exports Halted

He said that Britain early in the war halted exports of strategic materials to Communist China, particularly petroleum products, but not rubber. Now, he said, rubber shipments also are embargoed.

The British diplomat predicted that the U. N. general assembly will adopt far-reaching embargo recommendations later this week. The 60-nation assembly political committee meets at Flushing Meadow tomorrow to open debate on the embargo plan, recommended by a 12-nation sanctions committee Monday.

Manufacturers Have Woes Due to Newsprint Demamds

New York, May 16 (AP)—United States publishers are being squeezed by tighter newsprint supplies and increasing costs. But newsprint manufacturers are having their troubles too.

The American Newspaper Publishers' Association summed up the supply situation in its annual report. It said:

"Publishers getting as much newsprint in 1951 as in 1950 will be fortunate."

Some newspapers already have allocated advertising space from time to time to stretch out their stocks of newsprint.

Some have had to increase circulation rates to keep abreast of rising prices.

Many of the big newsprint mills of Canada and the United States have announced expansion plans. But demand continues to exceed supply.

United States consumption for the first quarter this year totaled 1,407,199 tons, compared with 1,405,458 tons for the March quarter of 1950.

United States publishers get 80 percent of their supply of newsprint from Canadian mills and the entire production of both U. S. and the dominion was 1,622,166 tons in the first quarter this year against 1,491,838 tons a year ago.

On the surface that doesn't look too bad. But not all of that production went to United States publishers. Some of it was for Canada; some went abroad. The exact breakdown is not available.

Moslem Terrorist Is Held In Alleged Plot to Murder

Was Planning to Kill Iran's Premier, Is Report by Police

Tehran, Iran, May 16 (AP)—A Moslem terrorist was arrested after a gun battle today with police, who said he was plotting to assassinate Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh.

The Moslem was identified as Abolghassem Rafiee, the number two man in Fedayan Islam, the fanatical religious secret society which is held responsible for the slaying of former Premier Ali Razmara in March.

Premier Mossadegh has taken refuge behind locked doors in parliament, fearing threats against his life.

Police quoted Rafiee as saying "Mossadegh is lucky I am caught. Otherwise he would have been shot within the next two or three days."

This was the latest incident in restive Tehran. The parliament's action in nationalizing the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has focused world attention once more on this potential trouble spot in east-west relations.

Tempers are running high. An editor who is a close adviser to Mossadegh says Britons face a "holy war" if they try to obstruct nationalization.

Carried in Editorial

The threat was carried today in an editorial in the newspaper Shahed. Its editor, Mo Saffar Baghaie is a national front member of parliament and one of the closest advisers of Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh.

This was the most violent of the press reaction to wholly unconfirmed reports that Britain plans to send parachute troops to the Iranian oilfields. Western diplomats here took Shahed's threat with a grain of salt, but the campaign is in line with Mossadegh's tactics in rushing through the oil nationalization bill—with vague warnings of unspecified trouble if the bill were blocked.

The premier has taken up residence in the Parliament building—eating there and sleeping there—with the avowed aim of staying until the Nationalist program is carried out.

All Tehran newspapers splashed the parachute troops report, but none was as outspoken as Shahed, which said:

"To reach this holy goal (oil nationalization) Iran will fight a holy war if necessary.

"If oil nationalization is obstructed by the bad policy of British politicians who refuse to face the facts, the day will come when not a single Britisher will dare stay in this country. The Iranian Moslem nation will deal with every British individual as an infidel."

Egan Is Counsel For Racing Probe

Wicks Says Inquiry Is Aimed at Tightening State's Control

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—A legislative committee to investigate horse racing in New York will aim at tightening the state's control of the sport to plug any revenue leaks.

The committee, composed of five Republicans and two Democrats, was organized yesterday to conduct the $25,000 probe. It was one of 22 joint legislative committees formed.

John A. Egan, Kingston attorney, was appointed committee counsel.

The inquiry will get underway "within two weeks," Chairman Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston said. Wicks, State Senate Republican leader, proposed the investigation during the 1951 legislative session.

He said he did not intend to investigate off-track betting "at the present time." There had been reports that the committee would look into a news conference that the group would set up new "rules and regulations" to make sure that the state got its full share of racing revenue on pari-mutuel betting at tracks.

The senator described the committee's principal concern as the overhauling of the "operation and administration" of racing to give the state racing commission a firmer grip on the sport.

Wicks said the committee would recruit experts, particularly in the financial field, to assist in checking any leaks in revenue.

The probe will cover both flat and harness racing.

The senator also said he did not know when the probe would end. A report will be submitted to the next session of the Legislature.

The 1951 Legislature authorized the investigation the first since pari-mutuel betting was legalized 11 years ago—and set aside $25,000 for the work. Wicks said the appropriation would be adequate.

College Draft Halted

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Drafting of college students was ordered postponed today until they have a chance to provide their draft boards with aptitude-test scores or evidence of scholastic standing. Selective Service headquarters said however, there were no indications it will be postponed beyond Aug. 20. The aptitude tests will be given at college testing centers throughout the nation during the next two months. Draft boards may use either the scores made in the test, or the regular scholastic record, in deciding whether to grant student deferments.

House Committee Discusses Taxing Sale of Used Cars

Resistance Is Strong on Ground Seven Per Cent Paid on New Autos

Washington, May 16 (AP)—A proposal to tax the sale of used cars came up for decision by the House Ways and Means Committee today. The committee already has voted to increase taxes of all types about $6,528,000,000 a year.

The used car tax proposal has aroused considerable resistance, on the ground that a seven per cent tax is paid on all new cars at the manufacturers' level. The committee has voted to hike the new car rate to ten per cent, however.

The bulk of this year's proposed tax boosts would come from individual income taxpayers ($2,900,000,000 net); corporation ($2,080,000,000) and excise increases and additions ($1,068,000,000 so far).

In addition, a 20 per cent withholding tax at the source on dividends and interest is expected to bring in $330,000,000 from income which otherwise might go unreported. A similar withholding tax on dividends of co-operatives is counted on for $25,000,000.

Changes Contemplated

All the committee's decisions are tentative and are subject to possible revision before the bill goes to the House floor. As matters stood before today's committee session, however, these are the major changes contemplated:

Individual income tax: Up three percentage points in each bracket. This means a $42 tax increase for a single man drawing $2,000 a year before personal exemption; and increase of $78 for a $5,000 a year married man with two children, and a boost of $678 a year for a $25,000 a year married man with two dependents.

Corporation taxes: The rate applicable to the first $25,000 of profits rises from 25 per cent to 30 per cent; on taxable income above $25,000 from 47 per cent to 52 per cent. Income in the area where the excess profits tax applies would pay 82 rather than

Reds Drive From Hills On East Line

Biggest Red Offensive Reported Near by UN Commanders

Tokyo, Thursday, May 17 (AP)—Red troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night.

It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive, or new probing in force.

They struck strong blows from Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, eastward to the Sea of Japan.

The attacks came not long after Maj. Gen. William Hoge, commander of the U. S. Ninth Corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday. Hoge said his troops would welcome it.

The general said if the Chinese follow their "previous pattern of attacking on the full moon, the blow should come soon. The moon comes full on the 18th of the month. That gives him two days."

(The World Almanac and the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey say the full moon comes next Monday.)

Striking Force Ready

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 390,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

One United Nations divisional officer said the Communists "will have to do more probing" before the attack. "They are not too familiar with our defense lines."

Allied patrols reaching across the 10 mile wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese buildups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from self-propelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners were being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

Peiping radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the "United

When a "low ceiling" prevails, airliners now begin to reduce their altitude as far as 20 miles from the landing field, instead of flying on top of the clouds until they are directly over their destination. This was made possible by improvements in blind flying methods.

Social Security Law Provisions

It is not necessary to be wholly or permanently "retired" to get retirement payments under the old-age and survivors insurance system, according to George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston social security office. The numbers of people coming into his office confused on this point prompted him to make this explanation.

"Actually," Mr. Johnson pointed out, "the new social security law makes it possible for insured people 65 and over to collect retirement benefits while still earning up to $50 per month on covered jobs. The old limit of $14.99 was changed on last September 1. The $50 limit does not apply to people age 75 or over."

"The law is simply that a person between 65 and 75 years of age cannot collect benefits for any month in which he earns more than $50 from work covered by social security. No amount of earnings or income from other sources will affect his right to benefits. Insured people age 75 or over can collect even though working full time on jobs covered by social security, or for that matter, any job."

"Another point we'd like to get across," Mr. Johnson continued, "is that anyone now age 65 or over very likely is insured if he has worked as much as a year and a half, at any time back to January 1937, on social security—in covered jobs."

Mr. Johnson invites residents of this area who are eligible for benefits under the new law to get in touch with his office, located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

His Theory

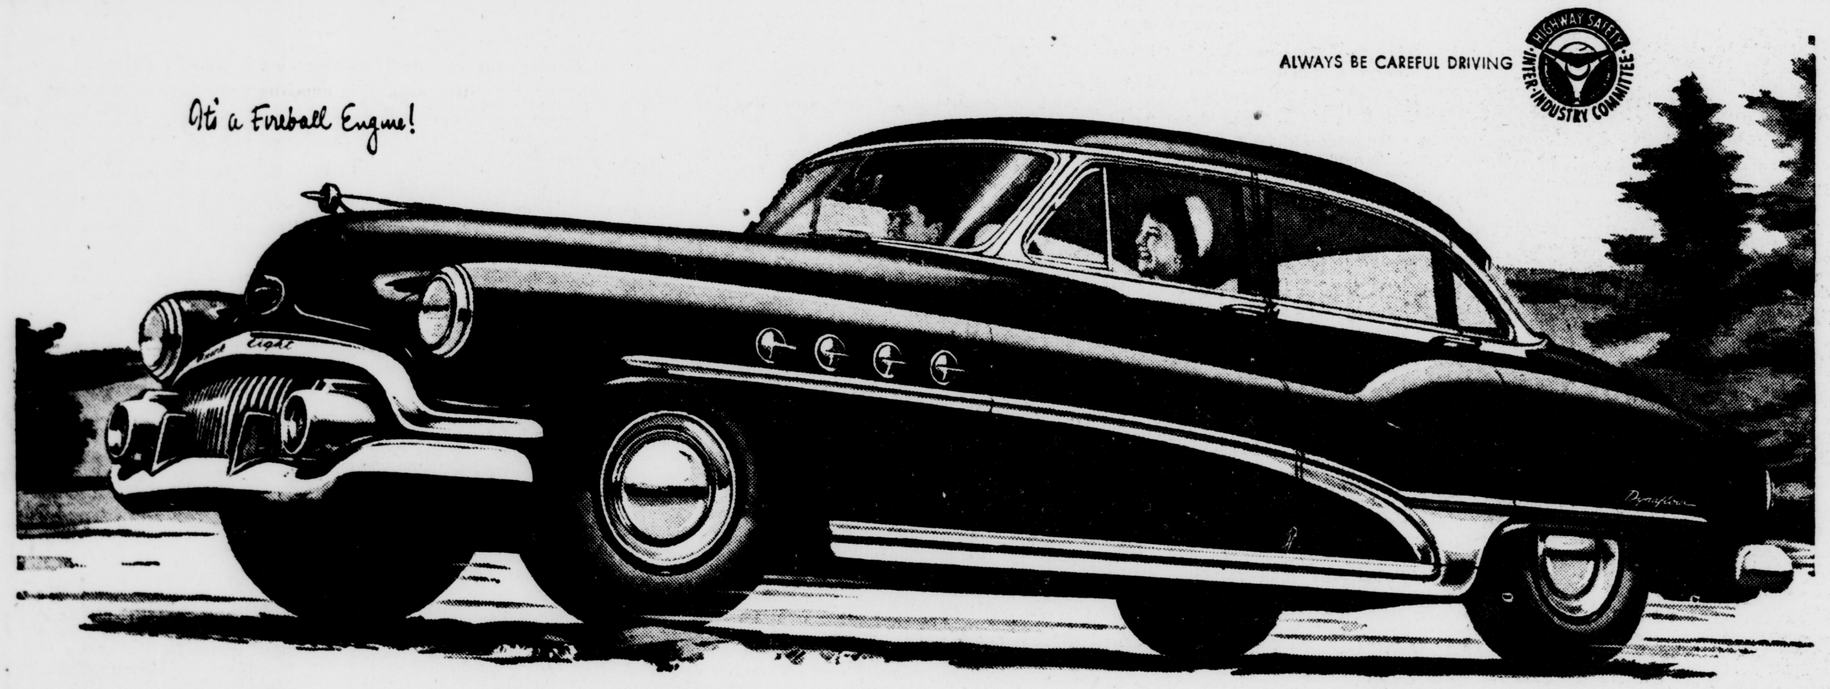
ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING



Here's Where the Pounds Pay Off

FIRST thing that people notice when they take over a Buick is the sure-footed stance this fine automobile has on the road.

You head into a curve and hold firm and true. You travel a turnpike without sway or wander.

While your wheels may dance when you hit a stretch of washboard gravel—your car holds its level course.

A lot of things account for this beautifully poised performance, but it starts with stalwart structure and ample weight—plenty of pounds where pounds are needed.

Please don't get us wrong. This isn't "deadweight." Though a Buick like the one pictured here tips the scales at more than two tons, it's as nimble as an antelope at play.

It has a generous hoodful of valve-in-head Fireball power—packing a powerful punch of velvet velocity.

It comes with the smooth magic of Dynaflow Drive*—a lightness of steering that's gently responsive to a lady's hand—a front-end geometry that's pure genius—the finest brakes ever put on a Buick.

And every wheel rides on shock-eating coil springs that are carefree and trouble-free for the life of your car.

You'll also find—by a few moments of simple arithmetic—that the pounds in this bounteous beauty pay off in another way. On a cents-per-pound basis, it will cost less to buy than anything else near its weight and power and size.

Why not visit us real soon—like the first thing tomorrow—and let us show you why you and your budget will both be happy with this Buick?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE* — saves strain on driver and car

FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel

PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT — combines smart style and unsurpassed protection

WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS — provide greater clarity at night

TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE — steadies ride, improves driving control

4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING — cushions ride, saves servicing costs

SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES — hydraulic—multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum

DREAMLINE STYLING — tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepspears on most models

Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StepOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, Hi-Poised engine mounting, Body by Fisher

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Social Security Law Provisions

It is not necessary to be wholly or permanently "retired" to get retirement payments under the old-age and survivors insurance system, according to George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston social security office. The numbers of people coming into his office confused on this point prompted him to make this explanation.

"Actually," Mr. Johnson pointed out, "the new social security law makes it possible for insured people 65 and over to collect retirement benefits while still earning up to $50 per month on covered jobs. The old limit of $14.99 was changed on last September 1. The $50 limit does not apply to people age 75 or over."

"The law is simply that a person between 65 and 75 years of age cannot collect benefits for any month in which he earns more than $50 from work covered by social security. No amount of earnings or income from other sources will affect his right to benefits. Insured people age 75 or over can collect even though working full time on jobs covered by social security, or for that matter, any job."

"Another point we'd like to get across," Mr. Johnson continued, "is that anyone now age 65 or over very likely is insured if he has worked as much as a year and a half, at any time back to January 1937, on social security—in covered jobs."

Mr. Johnson invites residents of this area who are eligible for benefits under the new law to get in touch with his office, located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

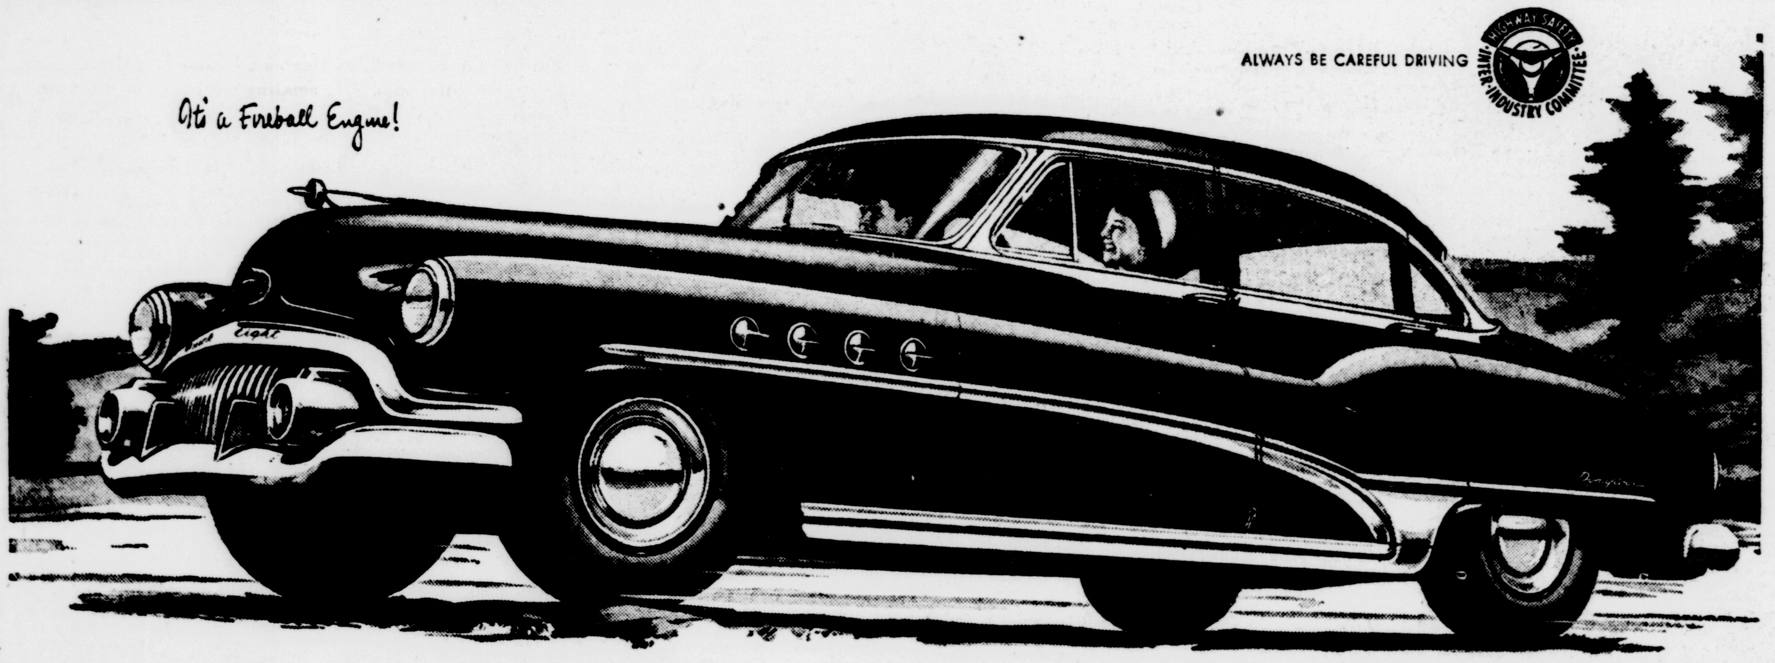
ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING



Here's Where the Pounds Pay Off

FIRST thing that people notice when they take over a Buick is the sure-footed stance this fine automobile has on the road.

You head into a curve and hold firm and true. You travel a turnpike without sway or wander.

While your wheels may dance when you hit a stretch of washboard gravel—your car holds its level course.

A lot of things account for this beautifully poised performance, but it starts with stalwart structure and ample weight—plenty of pounds where pounds are needed.

Please don't get us wrong. This isn't "deadweight." Though a Buick like the one pictured here tips the scales at more than two tons, it's as nimble as an antelope at play.

It has a generous hoodful of valve-in-head Fireball power—packing a powerful punch of velvet velocity.

It comes with the smooth magic of Dynaflow Drive*—a lightness of steering that's gently responsive to a lady's hand—a front-end geometry that's pure genius—the finest brakes ever put on a Buick.

And every wheel rides on shock-eating coil springs that are carefree and trouble-free for the life of your car.

You'll also find—by a few moments of simple arithmetic—that the pounds in this bounteous beauty pay off in another way. On a cents-per-pound basis, it will cost less to buy than anything else near its weight and power and size.

Why not visit us real soon—like the first thing tomorrow—and let us show you why you and your budget will both be happy with this Buick?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE* — saves strain on driver and car

FIREBALL POWER—high-compression, valve-in-head engine gets more good from every drop of fuel

TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—steadies ride, improves driving control

CEREBRAL PALSY DRIVE

In the Book of Life, health is listed as mankind's most precious possession. Whether individually or collectively, on the family level, on the community level or on the national level, health is the yardstick by which strength and prosperity are measured, for, without health, there can be neither.

The current appeal of United Cerebral Palsy affords a timely reminder that the health of a very considerable portion of our population is affected by cerebral palsy. There are some 546,000 American children and adults who were born cerebral palsied; in addition, untold hundreds of thousands acquire the condition in later life—through automobile and industrial mishaps, certain illnesses, strokes, and combat wounds.

Although there is no "miracle drug" or any known cure for cerebral palsy, the condition of practically all the cerebral palsied can be improved. Instead of being burdens to their families and the community, the cerebral palsied can be helped to become self-sustaining, productive members of society.

In normal times, common sense should dictate that every effort be made to accord these handicapped thousands their rightful places in life. In the present national emergency when peak productivity is essential, it is a challenge to our national intelligence to halt this vast economic waste — not to mention the humanitarian aspects of the case.

The united, nation-wide attack presently being waged against this crippling enemy of mankind by United Cerebral Palsy deserves the support of every thoughtful citizen. A contribution to United Cerebral Palsy is a contribution to the public health, a contribution to national strength, a contribution to a great humanitarian cause.

Those who complain that the dollar doesn't do what it did in the old days should remember that they don't do as much for it as they once did.

TWO-PARTY CANDIDATE

The possibility that in 1952 the Democratic presidential nominee, General Eisenhower, may be running against the Republican candidate, General Eisenhower, is foreseen by Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, who has some support for the nomination himself. He thinks that each party might have its own vice-presidential choice and adopt its own platform, but agree on a common head.

Just once in American history was there a real possibility of anything like this, if the uncontested elections of Washington and Monroe are excluded. In 1868 General Grant's political affiliations were not well known. His memoirs stated later that in 1856, when the Republican party was formed, he had voted for the Democrat, James Buchanan. In 1860 he did not vote, but preferred the Southern Democratic nominee, John C. Breckinridge. The party had split into two factions. This suggested that he would be good Democratic timber. On war and post-war issues, however, Grant was more in sympathy with the Republicans, and eventually was nominated by them unanimously. Hostility to the war was still too strong among the Democrats to let them choose the great military hero of the day.

Few Americans indeed have been acceptable as presidential material to all sections and both parties.

We don't object to politics being regarded as a game as long as the rules are not made up as the game goes along.

FRENCH ELECTIONS HAD HOPE

It is welcome news that France is to hold its 1951 elections June 17 rather than next fall. French policy in the defense of Europe and other important world decisions have long been hampered by the need to keep one eye on the uncertain French electorate.

The strong hope both in France and elsewhere in the free world is that these elections will sharply reduce the Communist strength in the French Chamber of Deputies. For four years the Reds have been the biggest single party, unable to hold power themselves but strong enough to upset any coalition government when they wished.

This is the opportunity for the French to lay the foundations for a more stable government in the years ahead.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE DOCTRINE OF PERFECTION

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q—Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done—what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945—what would you have done?

"A—I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q—For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A—I did not catch the question.

"Q—Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists—have gotten them together?

"A—Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q—That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A—It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

POSTURE IS IMPORTANT

Connected with most public and high schools and preparatory schools is a well-trained teacher of physical education. While teaching various group games is the major part of his work, the posture of the growing child is given an important place in the physical program.

In some schools a shadowgraph of the posture of each boy and girl is taken and the rest of the class votes the posture standing of the boy and girl, from A, excellent, to E, poor. At the end of the year, another shadowgraph is made and the class again grades the standing. This shows the boy and girl, and the whole class, the improvement or lack of improvement in posture obtained during the year.

What is good standing posture in the school child? In The Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. Jean Macnamara, whom I have quoted before, states that good standing posture in the school child includes the following points: (1) The child stands at his full height. (2) He holds his head up and his chin in. (3) The chest is held high and the abdomen does not protrude. (4) The lower part of the back is almost straight. (5) The legs are straight with knees only slightly bent (only 5 degrees). (6) The buttocks is tucked under and the weight is borne evenly on both lower limbs.

Good posture follows: (1) protection from deforming positions during infancy and childhood; (2) good general health and nutrition; (3) adequate rest; (4) freedom from infections; (5) good sight and hearing; (6) wearing properly fitted clothing and shoes; (7) use of furniture adapted to the size of the child and use of a firm bed and mattress; (8) freedom for variety of movement and interest; (9) happiness, confidence and vanity; (10) coaching and encouragement in maintenance of good posture.

At most schools the entire staff of teachers watch the posture of the pupils and coach and encourage the careless ones which, from experience, are usually the ones least interested in games and general athletics.

Sitting posture is important; head should be up, chest held high, legs from buttocks to knees should occupy two-thirds of the seat of bench, lower legs should be straight down and feet resting flat on the floor.

Eating Your Way to Health

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

Washington—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplus liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Here is the continued rollcall of the fabulous Greeks and the shipping empire they have amassed—largely at the expense of Uncle Sam:

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line, has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York city.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owners of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callimanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2-½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia de Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation Cia Lama de Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags. On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Dracoulis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sopholocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjipateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London. J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G. Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

Capital News Capsules

Russian censorship—The West German government reports the Russians are using a new trick to prevent Germany's free press from telling the truth about communism. The Reds simply kidnap the newspapermen—have been doing so at the rate of about four a month. Russia theory is: "If you don't like what a newspaperman writes about you, kidnap him." (Here in Washington we have a senator whose theory is: "If you don't like what a newsman writes—call him a Communist.")

Truth About How MacArthur Was Dismissed Comes Out; Disclosures Made

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 16—Now the truth about how General MacArthur was fired begins to come out.

With commendable candor, General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, revealed in his testimony that he thinks a different method of relieving General MacArthur of his command should have been adopted. He made these significant disclosures:

1. That the Joint Chiefs of Staff did not know what the method of changing the command would be nor the timing of it.

2. That he told the joint chiefs that the President was concerned about something on April 5—the day General MacArthur's letter to Representative Martin became public—and would probably ask for a "military opinion."

3. That some one at the White House or the Department of State told him the President was "concerned."

4. That the joint chiefs responded as individuals and not by a formal vote to a request for their view, and this was an expression of opinion that under the circumstances a change of command should be made.

Thus the joint chiefs were, in effect, told that the President wanted to remove MacArthur and they were asked to go along or to offer their dissent. They concurred, as all high military officers do nowadays lest they themselves come under discipline.

Now Secretary of Defense Marshall had also testified that the decision as to the method of relieving General MacArthur and the timing was a matter in which only five persons participated—Messrs. Truman, Marshall, Bradley, Harriman and Acheson.

General Bradley's exact answer as to whether he approved of the method of making the change in command was this:

"I think, frankly, it would have been better had it been handled in a little different way, and it was intended to be handled a different way and then the decision was made to handle it differently."

This isn't too clear but it indicates that what the President wanted done was done—and that the decision was largely, if not altogether, the President's own. That's why it was misleading for the statement to be issued by the Pentagon on the day General MacArthur addressed Congress to the effect that the President's "action" — by which it was assumed peremptory dismissal was meant—was based on the unanimous recommendation of the principal civilian and military advisers "including the joint chiefs of staff." The record now shows that they were asked to concur and they did concur in the change of command, but that they did not recommend summary dismissal.

The Bradley testimony, in answer to questions from senators, made it clear that there were no disagreements between the joint chiefs of staff and General MacArthur in carrying out military directives and that they themselves, in their January 12 message concerning possible evacuation of Korea, steered clear of all decisions on so-called "political" or "policy" questions.

General Bradley in his testimony disclosed another important piece of information. It was that the United States government did not have any information from any reliable source—that is, from its own intelligence or foreign government intelligence—indicating an intention by Red China to intervene in Korea. So President Truman probably put undue emphasis on his statement to a press conference recently that he had relied primarily on General MacArthur's prediction that the Red Chinese would not intervene. Little by little, the facts are slowly coming out.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Las Vegas, Nev., May 15—Being on the ground, and having my satchel with me, I called on Al Cahlan, the editor of the Review-Journal, to show him documentary proof that an eastern letterhead group had hosed about $8,000 into Nevada in the last election. The people of Nevada, of course, knew nothing of this attempt to nullify their votes. Mr. Cahlan said over and over, "Well, what do you know—?" as he thumbed through copies of reports to the clerk of the House of Representatives in Washington. To be sure, it is quite legal for private societies to do this, but I keep saying that if it is wrong for rich corporations to do it, then the same law ought to forbid the same sort of frustration or nullification of the ballot by rich eastern persons who get their heads together and write checks to achieve secret purposes in states where they don't live.

The Committee on National Affairs, of 100 East 50th street, New York, which is actually the Waldorf Tower, sent $5,000 to John Conlon, of Las Vegas, for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr. Franklin was Senator Pat McCarran's opponent in the Democratic primary. Pat beat him easily and now it is going to come up his turn to put some pointed questions to Arthur J. Goldsmith, the Kapok dragon of the Waldorf Tower, whose private apartment actually is the headquarters of the Committee on National Affairs and a lot of other letterhead bunds which use secret slush funds to swing elections, with nobody the wiser in the states thus invaded. Senator McCarran is going to have charge of an equivalent in the Senate of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Such things as the Committee on National Affairs have to report contributions received above $100, and their disbursements for political purposes, to the clerk of the House. And the clerk has got to let you see them but he doesn't have to let you take pictures of them. The upshot is that such groups get the protection of a secrecy which Congress did not intend them to enjoy because you have to copy the reports in detail.

This is such hard, tedious work that few of us are willing to do it.

The roster of this Waldorf Tower thing is a familiar list of weary, dreary old letterhead names. I find George Fielding Eliot, Frederick G. McKee, of Pittsburgh, Dr. L. M. Birkhead, Russell W. Davenport, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, Newbold Morris, and Mrs. William Dick Sporborg. What do they mean to you? Or to anyone else? The late Buchanan committee of the House, which investigated "lobbying," would not investigate this Waldorf Tower gang, whose reason for supporting Pat McCarran's opponent was to bounce old Pat out of the Senate because he put through the anti-Communist immigration bill and then put it through again after Red-Herring Harry Truman had vetoed it. Yes, and old Pat demanded recognition of the government of Spain whereas most of his opposition had cheered Stalin and Tito. There was never any room to doubt that Pat was anti-Communist.

This organization called the Committee on National Affairs with the disguised New York address, reported that it had sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, "for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr.," and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for Franklin. Washoe county is Reno. Mr. Franklin was a combat flier with a good record, but that would hardly explain why his election over Pat McCarran was so important to Mrs. Hannah Troy, 530 7th avenue, N. Y., that she tossed $200 into the kitty, or to Leon Falk, Jr., Farmers' Bank Bldg., Pittsburgh, that he threw in a hundred.

Mr. Goldsmith, the papiermache dragon whom I am supposed to be afraid of, gave $350. Mr. and Mrs. Max Ascoli, 23 Gramercy Park, gave $200 each. John Hay Whitney gave $200. Marshall Field gave $100. But the biggest checks came from Lessing J. and

In the Book of Life, health is listed as mankind's most precious possession. Whether individually or collectively, on the family level, on the community level or on the national level, health is the yardstick by which strength and prosperity are measured, for, without health, there can be neither.

The current appeal of United Cerebral Palsy affords a timely reminder that the health of a very considerable portion of our population is affected by cerebral palsy. There are some 546,000 American children and adults who were born cerebral palsied; in addition, untold hundreds of thousands acquire the condition in later life—through automobile and industrial mishaps, certain illnesses, strokes, and combat wounds.

Although there is no "miracle drug" or any known cure for cerebral palsy, the condition of practically all the cerebral palsied can be improved. Instead of being burdens to their families and the community, the cerebral palsied can be helped to become self-sustaining, productive members of society.

In normal times, common sense should dictate that every effort be made to accord these handicapped thousands their rightful places in life. In the present national emergency when peak productivity is essential, it is a challenge to our national intelligence to halt this vast economic waste — not to mention the humanitarian aspects of the case.

The united, nation-wide attack presently being waged against this crippling enemy of mankind by United Cerebral Palsy deserves the support of every thoughtful citizen. A contribution to United Cerebral Palsy is a contribution to the public health, a contribution to national strength, a contribution to a great humanitarian cause.

Those who complain that the dollar doesn't do what it did in the old days should remember that they don't do as much for it as they once did.

TWO-PARTY CANDIDATE

The possibility that in 1952 the Democratic presidential nominee, General Eisenhower, may be running against the Republican candidate, General Eisenhower, is foreseen by Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, who has some support for the nomination himself. He thinks that each party might have its own vice-presidential choice and adopt its own platform, but agree on a common head.

Just once in American history was there a real possibility of anything like this, if the uncontested elections of Washington and Monroe are excluded. In 1868 General Grant's political affiliations were not well known. His memoirs stated later that in 1856, when the Republican party was formed, he had voted for the Democrat, James Buchanan. In 1860 he did not vote, but preferred the Southern Democratic nominee, John C. Breckinridge. The party had split into two factions. This suggested that he would be good Democratic timber. On war and post-war issues, however, Grant was more in sympathy with the Republicans, and eventually was nominated by them unanimously. Hostility to the war was still too strong among the Democrats to let them choose the great military hero of the day.

Few Americans indeed have been acceptable as presidential material to all sections and both parties.

We don't object to politics being regarded as a game as long as the rules are not made up as the game goes along.

FRENCH ELECTIONS HAD HOPE

It is welcome news that France is to hold its 1951 elections June 17 rather than next fall. French policy in the defense of Europe and other important world decisions have long been hampered by the need to keep one eye on the uncertain French electorate.

The strong hope both in France and elsewhere in the free world is that these elections will sharply reduce the Communist strength in the French Chamber of Deputies. For four years the Reds have been the biggest single party, unable to hold power themselves but strong enough to upset any coalition government when they wished.

This is the opportunity for the French to lay the foundations for a more stable government in the years ahead.

'These Days'

THE DOCTRINE OF PERFECTION

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q—Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done—what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945—what would you have done?

"A—I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q—For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A—I did not catch the question.

"Q—Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists—have gotten them together?

"A—Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q—That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A—It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

POSTURE IS IMPORTANT

Connected with most public and high schools and preparatory schools is a well-trained teacher of physical education. While teaching various group games is the major part of his work, the posture of the growing child is given an important place in the physical program.

In some schools a shadowgraph of the posture of each boy and girl is taken and the rest of the class votes the posture standing of the boy and girl, from A, excellent, to E, poor. At the end of the year, another shadowgraph is made and the class again grades the standing. This shows the boy and girl, and the whole class, the improvement or lack of improvement in posture obtained during the year.

What is good standing posture in the school child? In The Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. Jean Macnamara, whom I have quoted before, states that good standing posture in the school child includes the following points: (1) The child stands at his full height. (2) He holds his head up and his chin in. (3) The chest is held high and the abdomen does not protrude. (4) The lower part of the back is almost straight. (5) The legs are straight with knees only slightly bent (only 5 degrees). (6) The buttocks is tucked under and the weight is borne evenly on both lower limbs.

Good posture follows: (1) protection from deforming positions during infancy and childhood; (2) good general health and nutrition; (3) adequate rest; (4) freedom from infections; (5) good sight and hearing; (6) wearing properly fitted clothing and shoes; (7) use of furniture adapted to the size of the child and use of a firm bed and mattress; (8) freedom for variety of movement and interest; (9) happiness, confidence and vanity; (10) coaching and encouragement in maintenance of good posture.

At most schools the entire staff of teachers watch the posture of the pupils and coach and encourage the careless ones which, from experience, are usually the ones least interested in games and general athletics.

Sitting posture is important; head should be up, chest held high, legs from buttocks to knees should occupy two-thirds of the seat of bench, lower legs should be straight down and feet resting flat on the floor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

Washington—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplus liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Here is the continued rollcall of the fabulous Greeks and the shipping empire they have amassed—largely at the expense of Uncle Sam:

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line, has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York city.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owners of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callimanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2-½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia de Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation Cia Lama de Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags. On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Dracoulis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sopholocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjipateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London. J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G. Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

Truth About How MacArthur Was Dismissed Comes Out; Disclosures Made

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 16—Now the truth about how General MacArthur was fired begins to come out.

With commendable candor, General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, revealed in his testimony that he thinks a different method of relieving General MacArthur of his command should have been adopted. He made these significant disclosures:

1. That the Joint Chiefs of Staff did not know what the method of changing the command would be nor the timing of it.

2. That he told the joint chiefs that the President was concerned about something on April 5—the day General MacArthur's letter to Representative Martin became public—and would probably ask for a "military opinion."

3. That some one at the White House or the Department of State told him the President was "concerned."

4. That the joint chiefs responded as individuals and not by a formal vote to a request for their view, and this was an expression of opinion that under the circumstances a change of command should be made.

Thus the joint chiefs were, in effect, told that the President wanted to remove MacArthur and they were asked to go along or to offer their dissent. They concurred, as all high military officers do nowadays lest they themselves come under discipline.

Now Secretary of Defense Marshall had also testified that the decision as to the method of relieving General MacArthur and the timing was a matter in which only five persons participated—Messrs. Truman, Marshall, Bradley, Harriman and Acheson.

General Bradley's exact answer as to whether he approved of the method of making the change in command was this:

"I think, frankly, it would have been better had it been handled in a little different way, and it was intended to be handled a different way and then the decision was made to handle it differently."

This isn't too clear but it indicates that what the President wanted done was done—and that the decision was largely, if not altogether, the President's own. That's why it was misleading for the statement to be issued by the Pentagon on the day General MacArthur addressed Congress to the effect that the President's "action" — by which it was assumed peremptory dismissal was meant—was based on the unanimous recommendation of the principal civilian and military advisers "including the joint chiefs of staff." The record now shows that they were asked to concur and they did concur in the change of command, but that they did not recommend summary dismissal.

The Bradley testimony, in answer to questions from senators, made it clear that there were no disagreements between the joint chiefs of staff and General MacArthur in carrying out military directives and that they themselves, in their January 12 message concerning possible evacuation of Korea, steered clear of all decisions on so-called "political" or "policy" questions.

General Bradley in his testimony disclosed another important piece of information. It was that the United States government did not have any information from any reliable source—that is, from its own intelligence or foreign government intelligence—indicating an intention by Red China to intervene in Korea. So President Truman probably put undue emphasis on his statement to a press conference recently that he had relied primarily on General MacArthur's prediction that the Red Chinese would not intervene. Little by little, the facts are slowly coming out.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Las Vegas, Nev., May 15—Being on the ground, and having my satchel with me, I called on Al Cahlan, the editor of the Review-Journal, to show him documentary proof that an eastern letterhead group had hosed about $8,000 into Nevada in the last election. The people of Nevada, of course, knew nothing of this attempt to nullify their votes. Mr. Cahlan said over and over, "Well, what do you know—?" as he thumbed through copies of reports to the clerk of the House of Representatives in Washington. To be sure, it is quite legal for private societies to do this, but I keep saying that if it is wrong for rich corporations to do it, then the same law ought to forbid the same sort of frustration or nullification of the ballot by rich eastern persons who get their heads together and write checks to achieve secret purposes in states where they don't live.

The Committee on National Affairs, of 100 East 50th street, New York, which is actually the Waldorf Tower, sent $5,000 to John Conlon, of Las Vegas, for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr. Franklin was Senator Pat McCarran's opponent in the Democratic primary. Pat beat him easily and now it is going to come up his turn to put some pointed questions to Arthur J. Goldsmith, the Kapok dragon of the Waldorf Tower, whose private apartment actually is the headquarters of the Committee on National Affairs and a lot of other letterhead bunds which use secret slush funds to swing elections, with nobody the wiser in the states thus invaded. Senator McCarran is going to have charge of an equivalent in the Senate of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Such things as the Committee on National Affairs have to report contributions received above $100, and their disbursements for political purposes, to the clerk of the House. And the clerk has got to let you see them but he doesn't have to let you take pictures of them. The upshot is that such groups get the protection of a secrecy which Congress did not intend them to enjoy because you have to copy the reports in detail.

This is such hard, tedious work that few of us are willing to do it.

The roster of this Waldorf Tower thing is a familiar list of weary, dreary old letterhead names. I find George Fielding Eliot, Frederick G. McKee, of Pittsburgh, Dr. L. M. Birkhead, Russell W. Davenport, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, Newbold Morris, and Mrs. William Dick Sporborg. What do they mean to you? Or to anyone else? The late Buchanan committee of the House, which investigated "lobbying," would not investigate this Waldorf Tower gang, whose reason for supporting Pat McCarran's opponent was to bounce old Pat out of the Senate because he put through the anti-Communist immigration bill and then put it through again after Red-Herring Harry Truman had vetoed it. Yes, and old Pat demanded recognition of the government of Spain whereas most of his opposition had cheered Stalin and Tito. There was never any room to doubt that Pat was anti-Communist.

This organization called the Committee on National Affairs with the disguised New York address, reported that it had sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, "for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr.," and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for Franklin. Washoe county is Reno. Mr. Franklin was a combat flier with a good record, but that would hardly explain why his election over Pat McCarran was so important to Mrs. Hannah Troy, 530 7th avenue, N. Y., that she tossed $200 into the kitty, or to Leon Falk, Jr., Farmers' Bank Bldg., Pittsburgh, that he threw in a hundred.

Mr. Goldsmith, the papiermache dragon whom I am supposed to be afraid of, gave $350. Mr. and Mrs. Max Ascoli, 23 Gramercy Park, gave $200 each. John Hay Whitney gave $200. Marshall Field gave $100. But the biggest checks came from Lessing J. and

In the Book of Life, health is listed as mankind's most precious possession. Whether individually or collectively, on the family level, on the community level or on the national level, health is the yardstick by which strength and prosperity are measured, for, without health, there can be neither.

The current appeal of United Cerebral Palsy affords a timely reminder that the health of a very considerable portion of our population is affected by cerebral palsy. There are some 546,000 American children and adults who were born cerebral palsied; in addition, untold hundreds of thousands acquire the condition in later life—through automobile and industrial mishaps, certain illnesses, strokes, and combat wounds.

Although there is no "miracle drug" or any known cure for cerebral palsy, the condition of practically all the cerebral palsied can be improved. Instead of being burdens to their families and the community, the cerebral palsied can be helped to become self-sustaining, productive members of society.

In normal times, common sense should dictate that every effort be made to accord these handicapped thousands their rightful places in life. In the present national emergency when peak productivity is essential, it is a challenge to our national intelligence to halt this vast economic waste — not to mention the humanitarian aspects of the case.

The united, nation-wide attack presently being waged against this crippling enemy of mankind by United Cerebral Palsy deserves the support of every thoughtful citizen. A contribution to United Cerebral Palsy is a contribution to the public health, a contribution to national strength, a contribution to a great humanitarian cause.

Those who complain that the dollar doesn't do what it did in the old days should remember that they don't do as much for it as they once did.

TWO-PARTY CANDIDATE

The possibility that in 1952 the Democratic presidential nominee, General Eisenhower, may be running against the Republican candidate, General Eisenhower, is foreseen by Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, who has some support for the nomination himself. He thinks that each party might have its own vice-presidential choice and adopt its own platform, but agree on a common head.

Just once in American history was there a real possibility of anything like this, if the uncontested elections of Washington and Monroe are excluded. In 1868 General Grant's political affiliations were not well known. His memoirs stated later that in 1856, when the Republican party was formed, he had voted for the Democrat, James Buchanan. In 1860 he did not vote, but preferred the Southern Democratic nominee, John C. Breckinridge. The party had split into two factions. This suggested that he would be good Democratic timber. On war and post-war issues, however, Grant was more in sympathy with the Republicans, and eventually was nominated by them unanimously. Hostility to the war was still too strong among the Democrats to let them choose the great military hero of the day.

Few Americans indeed have been acceptable as presidential material to all sections and both parties.

We don't object to politics being regarded as a game as long as the rules are not made up as the game goes along.

FRENCH ELECTIONS HAD HOPE

It is welcome news that France is to hold its 1951 elections June 17 rather than next fall. French policy in the defense of Europe and other important world decisions have long been hampered by the need to keep one eye on the uncertain French electorate.

The strong hope both in France and elsewhere in the free world is that these elections will sharply reduce the Communist strength in the French Chamber of Deputies. For four years the Reds have been the biggest single party, unable to hold power themselves but strong enough to upset any coalition government when they wished.

This is the opportunity for the French to lay the foundations for a more stable government in the years ahead.

'These Days'

THE DOCTRINE OF PERFECTION

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q—Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done—what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945—what would you have done?

"A—I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q—For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A—I did not catch the question.

"Q—Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists—have gotten them together?

"A—Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q—That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A—It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

POSTURE IS IMPORTANT

Connected with most public and high schools and preparatory schools is a well-trained teacher of physical education. While teaching various group games is the major part of his work, the posture of the growing child is given an important place in the physical program.

In some schools a shadowgraph of the posture of each boy and girl is taken and the rest of the class votes the posture standing of the boy and girl, from A, excellent, to E, poor. At the end of the year, another shadowgraph is made and the class again grades the standing. This shows the boy and girl, and the whole class, the improvement or lack of improvement in posture obtained during the year.

What is good standing posture in the school child? In The Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. Jean Macnamara, whom I have quoted before, states that good standing posture in the school child includes the following points: (1) The child stands at his full height. (2) He holds his head up and his chin in. (3) The chest is held high and the abdomen does not protrude. (4) The lower part of the back is almost straight. (5) The legs are straight with knees only slightly bent (only 5 degrees). (6) The buttocks is tucked under and the weight is borne evenly on both lower limbs.

Good posture follows: (1) protection from deforming positions during infancy and childhood; (2) good general health and nutrition; (3) adequate rest; (4) freedom from infections; (5) good sight and hearing; (6) wearing properly fitted clothing and shoes; (7) use of furniture adapted to the size of the child and use of a firm bed and mattress; (8) freedom for variety of movement and interest; (9) happiness, confidence and vanity; (10) coaching and encouragement in maintenance of good posture.

At most schools the entire staff of teachers watch the posture of the pupils and coach and encourage the careless ones which, from experience, are usually the ones least interested in games and general athletics.

Sitting posture is important; head should be up, chest held high, legs from buttocks to knees should occupy two-thirds of the seat of bench, lower legs should be straight down and feet resting flat on the floor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

Washington—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplus liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Here is the continued rollcall of the fabulous Greeks and the shipping empire they have amassed—largely at the expense of Uncle Sam:

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line, has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York city.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owners of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callimanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2-½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2-¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia de Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation Cia Lama de Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags. On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Dracoulis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sopholocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjipateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London. J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G. Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

Truth About How MacArthur Was Dismissed Comes Out; Disclosures Made

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 16—Now the truth about how General MacArthur was fired begins to come out.

With commendable candor, General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, revealed in his testimony that he thinks a different method of relieving General MacArthur of his command should have been adopted. He made these significant disclosures:

1. That the Joint Chiefs of Staff did not know what the method of changing the command would be nor the timing of it.

2. That he told the joint chiefs that the President was concerned about something on April 5—the day General MacArthur's letter to Representative Martin became public—and would probably ask for a "military opinion."

3. That some one at the White House or the Department of State told him the President was "concerned."

Thus the joint chiefs were, in effect, told that the President wanted to remove MacArthur and they were asked to go along or to offer their dissent. They concurred, as all high military officers do nowadays lest they themselves come under discipline.

Now Secretary of Defense Marshall had also testified that the decision as to the method of relieving General MacArthur and the timing was a matter in which only five persons participated—Messrs. Truman, Marshall, Bradley, Harriman and Acheson.

General Bradley's exact answer as to whether he approved of the method of making the change in command was this:

"I think, frankly, it would have been better had it been handled in a little different way, and it was intended to be handled a different way and then the decision was made to handle it differently."

This isn't too clear but it indicates that what the President wanted done was done—and that the decision was largely, if not altogether, the President's own. That's why it was misleading for the statement to be issued by the Pentagon on the day General MacArthur addressed Congress to the effect that the President's "action" — by which it was assumed peremptory dismissal was meant—was based on the unanimous recommendation of the principal civilian and military advisers "including the joint chiefs of staff." The record now shows that they were asked to concur and they did concur in the change of command, but that they did not recommend summary dismissal.

The Bradley testimony, in answer to questions from senators, made it clear that there were no disagreements between the joint chiefs of staff and General MacArthur in carrying out military directives and that they themselves, in their January 12 message concerning possible evacuation of Korea, steered clear of all decisions on so-called "political" or "policy" questions.

General Bradley in his testimony disclosed another important piece of information. It was that the United States government did not have any information from any reliable source—that is, from its own intelligence or foreign government intelligence—indicating an intention by Red China to intervene in Korea. So President Truman probably put undue emphasis on his statement to a press conference recently that he had relied primarily on General MacArthur's prediction that the Red Chinese would not intervene. Little by little, the facts are slowly coming out.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Las Vegas, Nev., May 15—Being on the ground, and having my satchel with me, I called on Al Cahlan, the editor of the Review-Journal, to show him documentary proof that an eastern letterhead group had hosed about $8,000 into Nevada in the last election. The people of Nevada, of course, knew nothing of this attempt to nullify their votes. Mr. Cahlan said over and over, "Well, what do you know—?" as he thumbed through copies of reports to the clerk of the House of Representatives in Washington. To be sure, it is quite legal for private societies to do this, but I keep saying that if it is wrong for rich corporations to do it, then the same law ought to forbid the same sort of frustration or nullification of the ballot by rich eastern persons who get their heads together and write checks to achieve secret purposes in states where they don't live.

The Committee on National Affairs, of 100 East 50th street, New York, which is actually the Waldorf Tower, sent $5,000 to John Conlon, of Las Vegas, for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr. Franklin was Senator Pat McCarran's opponent in the Democratic primary. Pat beat him easily and now it is going to come up his turn to put some pointed questions to Arthur J. Goldsmith, the Kapok dragon of the Waldorf Tower, whose private apartment actually is the headquarters of the Committee on National Affairs and a lot of other letterhead bunds which use secret slush funds to swing elections, with nobody the wiser in the states thus invaded. Senator McCarran is going to have charge of an equivalent in the Senate of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Such things as the Committee on National Affairs have to report contributions received above $100, and their disbursements for political purposes, to the clerk of the House. And the clerk has got to let you see them but he doesn't have to let you take pictures of them. The upshot is that such groups get the protection of a secrecy which Congress did not intend them to enjoy because you have to copy the reports in detail.

This is such hard, tedious work that few of us are willing to do it.

The roster of this Waldorf Tower thing is a familiar list of weary, dreary old letterhead names. I find George Fielding Eliot, Frederick G. McKee, of Pittsburgh, Dr. L. M. Birkhead, Russell W. Davenport, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Edgar Ansel Mowrer, Newbold Morris, and Mrs. William Dick Sporborg. What do they mean to you? Or to anyone else? The late Buchanan committee of the House, which investigated "lobbying," would not investigate this Waldorf Tower gang, whose reason for supporting Pat McCarran's opponent was to bounce old Pat out of the Senate because he put through the anti-Communist immigration bill and then put it through again after Red-Herring Harry Truman had vetoed it. Yes, and old Pat demanded recognition of the government of Spain whereas most of his opposition had cheered Stalin and Tito. There was never any room to doubt that Pat was anti-Communist.

This organization called the Committee on National Affairs with the disguised New York address, reported that it had sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, "for the campaign of George E. Franklin, Jr.," and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for Franklin. Washoe county is Reno. Mr. Franklin was a combat flier with a good record, but that would hardly explain why his election over Pat McCarran was so important to Mrs. Hannah Troy, 530 7th avenue, N. Y., that she tossed $200 into the kitty, or to Leon Falk, Jr., Farmers' Bank Bldg., Pittsburgh, that he threw in a hundred.

Mr. Goldsmith, the papiermache dragon whom I am supposed to be afraid of, gave $350. Mr. and Mrs. Max Ascoli, 23 Gramercy Park, gave $200 each. John Hay Whitney gave $200. Marshall Field gave $100. But the biggest checks came from Lessing J. and

Keating Says U. S. Car Driver Fined

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R.-N. Y.), who for the second time has produced information calculated to embarrass the Democratic occupants of the White House, says he has no "pipe line."

"But," he adds, "I have a lot of friends in government."

Yesterday Keating told the House a government-owned limousine, bearing President Truman's sister, was stopped for speeding at 70 to 75 miles an hour through Hopewell, N. Y., last Saturday.

The driver of the car, whom Keating named as Grady A. Stowe, a special agent assigned to guard a member of the President's family, was fined $20 by a justice of the peace.

Stowe, Keating said, wasn't able to produce a driver's license. He told authorities according to Keating's report, that "the President will be distressed if his sister is detained."

Prior to his disclosure of the speeding incident Keating predicted some weeks ago that a White House employe who was the recipient of a much-publicized mink coat, would be discharged. She was Mrs. E. Merl Young, whose husband was accused by a Senate committee of "influencing" Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loan policy. The mink coat was paid for, as a loan to Young, by a lawyer for a New York furrier seeking an RFC loan.

The White House denied the report, but accepted Mrs. Young's resignation about two weeks later.

Mystery Car Found

Theories Advanced

Several theories have been advanced. One is that the car may have been a "hot" car, stolen from some distant point and ditched. This theory is advanced since the mileage on the speedometer indicates the car was practically new. It is also possible the car was involved in an accident and went over the bank and was not removed by the owner. How long the car might have been in the water is not known, but Oakland cars have not been manufactured in many years.

At the point where the car was found it is possible the vehicle ran off the cliff and came to rest well off shore. At the point opposite there is a considerable cliff bordering the lake. The auto is situated some distance beyond the Black Creek bridge and about opposite the Black Swan Inn.

There are no available records of a car having gone off the road at this point.

Jebb Promises

clude transport materials in the ban.

Subordinated Support

Jebb told the Bar Association he had "often heard it alleged that we had subordinated our support for the United Nations to our own commercial interests in Hong Kong."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he declared.

"In these days, we are deriving very little direct benefit from trade with China and it would be ludicrous to suggest that, when the whole existence of the western world is at stake, we should give priority to such commercial interests."

He said that Hong Kong depended on transit trade and that if all trade—outside of war materials—were cut off with Red China, "we should lose a certain amount of useful imports from China, a vast unemployment problem would be created, and civil unrest would arise over a large area in the Far East.

"A valuable outpost would disappear, one which has the advantage of demonstrating to the (Communist) Chinese the benefits of freedom of life under free institutions. And finally, a large number of Chinese Communist troops who are contained by our own garrison in the colony would be free to take part in the Korean war."

Japan Trades, He Says

He said that even Japan, whose trade is controlled by the U. S., has continued trading with Communist China to get Chinese coal.

Jebb also pointed out that Britain not only has thousands of troops, fliers and sailors in Korea, but is also fighting communism in Malaya and in the Middle East, as well as garrisoning part of Germany.

Jebb dismissed as minor the difference between the U. S. and Britain over Britain's recognition of Communist China.

"We all know there just is not going to be any change (in Chinese representation in the U.N.) until and unless there is a ceasefire in Korea and some agreed settlement is negotiated," he said.

Senators Excuse

House April 6. Five days later, President Truman announced the dismissal of MacArthur from his Far Eastern commands.

During the committee argument, Russell pointed out that MacArthur, when before the senators, had declined to answer any questions about his private conference with President Truman at Wake Island last October. No issue was made of MacArthur's refusal.

Indirectly, Russell suggested that if Bradley was to be required to tell of his conference with Mr. Truman, then MacArthur would have to be brought back and required to tell of the private Wake Island conference.

Russell said "all of the witnesses" would have to be "marched back" if Wiley's position was sustained.

Ross Sues for $20,414

Albany, N. Y. ,May 16 (AP)—Benjamin F. Ross is suing New York for $20,414, because he claims, the state allowed a bobsled "to go down the slide with a brakeman who was unable to retain his position." In a suit filed yesterday in the Court of Claims, Ross said he was tossed from the sled after the brakeman fell off. Ross, 40, of Albany, said the mishap occurred last February 25 on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run near Lake Placid, and that the sled was operated by state employes. Ross was hospitalized and two other men were treated for injuries.

77 per cent. But the government could not take more than 67 per cent of a corporation's total income in all kinds of taxes—normal, surtax and excess profits tax. The present ceiling is 62 per cent.

Excise taxes: Whisky, gin, brandy and rum, increased from $9 per 100-proof gallon to $10.50. Beer tax up from $8 a barrel to $9. Wine taxes increased by from two to 25 cents a gallon, depending on percentage of alcohol.

Would Hike Cigarettes

Cigarette tax up a penny a pack, from seven to eight cents. No change on cigars, chewing tobacco or snuff.

New passenger cars and motorcycles, ten per cent at manufacturers' level instead of seven per cent. Buses, trucks, automobile parts and accessories up from five to eight per cent. Gasoline tax raised from 1½ cents a gallon to two cents.

Television and radio sets, phonographs, phonograph records and musical istruments increased from ten per cent (manufacturers' level) to 15 per cent. Electric razors, dishwashers, clothes dryers, power mowers and a number of other home appliances added to list of articles bearing ten per cent tax.

AEC Says Energy

the millenium of cheap industrial power from the charged heart of the atom is still a good way down the street, not just around the corner. The AEC said contracts are being signed with four industrial groups to make studies which will help decide if it is possible to put the atom to work on a paying, economic basis. Other questions to be answered are: How much work would be required to design and construct the necessary plant, and could the work be carried out in the next few years?

One Possible Use

The AEC spokesman gave one example of a possible industrial use for the atom:

A chemical company wants to convert large western deposits of phosphates into fertilizer and other products. Electric power is not immediately available nearby.

Scientists have indicated atomic energy might be first used industrially to generate big amounts of electricity where water or other generating energy, such as coal, is not close at hand. Cities with power shortages might also benefit.

Military Seizes

country again finds itself in the dilemma of saving democracy or delivering the power to those who fight it in an effort to kill it.

"For this reason, I am delivering the high office of constitutional president of the republic, conferred upon me by the people, in the hands of the armed forces, the titular instution of the country which conserves its traditions. I ask Bolivians to gather around the national flag to save Bolivia in these difficult hours, so that united, and God willing, democracy and Republican instutions may be preserved."

His resignation was dated today.

Keating Says U. S. Car Driver Fined

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R.-N. Y.), who for the second time has produced information calculated to embarrass the Democratic occupants of the White House, says he has no "pipe line."

"But," he adds, "I have a lot of friends in government."

Yesterday Keating told the House a government-owned limousine, bearing President Truman's sister, was stopped for speeding at 70 to 75 miles an hour through Hopewell, N. Y., last Saturday.

The driver of the car, whom Keating named as Grady A. Stowe, a special agent assigned to guard a member of the President's family, was fined $20 by a justice of the peace.

Stowe, Keating said, wasn't able to produce a driver's license. He told authorities according to Keating's report, that "the President will be distressed if his sister is detained."

Prior to his disclosure of the speeding incident Keating predicted some weeks ago that a White House employe who was the recipient of a much-publicized mink coat, would be discharged. She was Mrs. E. Meri Young, whose husband was accused by a Senate committee of "influencing" Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loan policy. The mink coat was paid for, as a loan to Young, by a lawyer for a New York furrier seeking an RFC loan.

The White House denied the report, but accepted Mrs. Young's resignation about two weeks later.

Mystery Car Found

Theories Advanced

Several theories have been advanced. One is that the car may have been a "hot" car, stolen from some distant point and ditched. This theory is advanced since the mileage on the speedometer indicates the car was practically new. It is also possible the car was involved in an accident and went over the bank and was not removed by the owner. How long the car might have been in the water is not known, but Oakland cars have not been manufactured in many years.

At the point where the car was found it is possible the vehicle ran off the cliff and came to rest well off shore. At the point opposite there is a considerable cliff bordering the lake. The auto is situated some distance beyond the Black Creek bridge and about opposite the Black Swan Inn.

There are no available records of a car having gone off the road at this point.

Jebb Promises

clude transport materials in the ban.

Subordinated Support

Jebb told the Bar Association he had "often heard it alleged that we had subordinated our support for the United Nations to our own commercial interests in Hong Kong."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he declared.

"In these days, we are deriving very little direct benefit from trade with China and it would be ludicrous to suggest that, when the whole existence of the western world is at stake, we should give priority to such commercial interests."

He said that Hong Kong depended on transit trade and that if all trade—outside of war materials—were cut off with Red China, "we should lose a certain amount of useful imports from China, a vast unemployment problem would be created, and civil unrest would arise over a large area in the Far East.

"A valuable outpost would disappear, one which has the advantage of demonstrating to the (Communist) Chinese the benefits of freedom of life under free institutions. And finally, a large number of Chinese Communist troops who are contained by our own garrison in the colony would be free to take part in the Korean war."

Japan Trades, He Says

He said that even Japan, whose trade is controlled by the U. S., has continued trading with Communist China to get Chinese coal.

Jebb also pointed out that Britain not only has thousands of troops, fliers and sailors in Korea, but is also fighting communism in Malaya and in the Middle East, as well as garrisoning part of Germany.

Jebb dismissed as minor the difference between the U. S. and Britain over Britain's recognition of Communist China.

"We all know there just is not going to be any change (in Chinese representation in the U.N.) until and unless there is a ceasefire in Korea and some agreed settlement is negotiated," he said.

Senators Excuse

House April 6. Five days later, President Truman announced the dismissal of MacArthur from his Far Eastern commands.

During the committee argument, Russell pointed out that MacArthur, when before the senators, had declined to answer any questions about his private conference with President Truman at Wake Island last October. No issue was made of MacArthur's refusal.

Indirectly, Russell suggested that if Bradley was to be required to tell of his conference with Mr. Truman, then MacArthur would have to be brought back and required to tell of the private Wake Island conference.

Russell said "all of the witnesses" would have to be "marched back" if Wiley's position was sustained.

Ross Sues for $20,414

Albany, N. Y. ,May 16 (AP)—Benjamin F. Ross is suing New York for $20,414, because he claims, the state allowed a bobsled "to go down the slide with a brakeman who was unable to retain his position." In a suit filed yesterday in the Court of Claims, Ross said he was tossed from the sled after the brakeman fell off. Ross, 40, of Albany, said the mishap occurred last February 25 on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run near Lake Placid, and that the sled was operated by state employes. Ross was hospitalized and two other men were treated for injuries.

House Committee

77 per cent. But the government could not take more than 67 per cent of a corporation's total income in all kinds of taxes—normal, surtax and excess profits tax. The present ceiling is 62 per cent.

Excise taxes: Whisky, gin, brandy and rum, increased from $9 per 100-proof gallon to $10.50. Beer tax up from $8 a barrel to $9. Wine taxes increased by from two to 25 cents a gallon, depending on percentage of alcohol.

Would Hike Cigarettes

Cigarette tax up a penny a pack, from seven to eight cents. No change on cigars, chewing tobacco or snuff.

New passenger cars and motorcycles, ten per cent at manufacturers' level instead of seven per cent. Buses, trucks, automobile parts and accessories up from five to eight per cent. Gasoline tax raised from 1½ cents a gallon to two cents.

Television and radio sets, phonographs, phonograph records and musical istruments increased from ten per cent (manufacturers' level) to 15 per cent. Electric razors, dishwashers, clothes dryers, power mowers and a number of other home appliances added to list of articles bearing ten per cent tax.

AEC Says Energy

the millenium of cheap industrial power from the charged heart of the atom is still a good way down the street, not just around the corner. The AEC said contracts are being signed with four industrial groups to make studies which will help decide if it is possible to put the atom to work on a paying, economic basis. Other questions to be answered are: How much work would be required to design and construct the necessary plant, and could the work be carried out in the next few years?

One Possible Use

The AEC spokesman gave one example of a possible industrial use for the atom:

A chemical company wants to convert large western deposits of phosphates into fertilizer and other products. Electric power is not immediately available nearby.

Scientists have indicated atomic energy might be first used industrially to generate big amounts of electricity where water or other generating energy, such as coal, is not close at hand. Cities with power shortages might also benefit.

Military Seizes

country again finds itself in the dilemma of saving democracy or delivering the power to those who fight it in an effort to kill it.

"For this reason, I am delivering the high office of constitutional president of the republic, conferred upon me by the people, in the hands of the armed forces, the titular instution of the country which conserves its traditions. I ask Bolivians to gather around the national flag to save Bolivia in these difficult hours, so that united, and God willing, democracy and Republican instutions may be preserved."

Manufacturers Have Woes . . .

States would get "very close to" 6,000,000 tons of newsprint this year—1,010,000 tons from U. S. mills, 4,775,000 tons from Canada and 200,000 tons from overseas.

The consumption of United States publishers last year totaled 5,936,941 tons and estimates of 1951 consumption in this country have reached as high as 6,100,000 tons.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association showed how daily newspaper circulation in both United States and Canada has grown through the years. This growth, which naturally means more newsprint used, has taken place despite increased subscription and newsstand prices.

The ANPA figures showed the average circulation in the two countries was 57,000,000 copies a day for the six-month period ended last Sept. 30.

This was a gain of more than 1,000,000 copies a day over 1949 and of more than 27,500,000 copies a day over 1920.

The second major problem in the newsprint field is price. Prices vary according to location but the New York tag is $106 a ton.

This is the highest in almost 30 years and compares with an all-time top of $120 in the 20's and a low of about $40 in the depression years.

The price was hiked generally $6 a ton in late 1950 and there have been reports in Washington recently that another $9 boost is in the wind.

Some of the large Canadian newsprint producers have said they do not anticipate such a move at this time. But there were a number of producers who felt that the $6 increase in 1950 was not large enough to absorb their rising costs.

Newsprint prices of United States producers have been frozen since the general freeze order Jan. 26. But Canadian-made paper is not subject to price regulation since it is sold in most cases directly to American consumers under contract terms.

In the grey market prices of as high as $300 a ton have been reported. Such operators charge all the traffic will bear.

But most publishing sources agree that there is very little grey market newsprint and that anyone has trouble finding as much as a carload lot that isn't taken.

They also agree that the grey market is a very insignificant part of the picture and has been resorted to mostly by someone who now and then needs a comparatively few tons badly to patch out supplies at intervals.

The $6 increase in newsprint prices already has meant another $35,400,000 added to the cost of publishing newspapers in the United States on the basis of an annual consumption last year of 5,900,000.

Newsprint manufacturers complain that their costs are rising too.

They have a tight situation on raw materials also. R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said the best analysis of the pulpwood situation over the next 12 months is that "we will have a very tight fit."

He added if greater supplies of sulphur, an essential material in making newsprint, cannot be obtained, capacity production cannot be maintained.

John H. Hinman, president of International Paper Company, said of the sulphur shortage:

"So far our companies have maintained their production by drawing on reserve stocks but new sources of supply must be developed if the demand for pulp and paper is to be met."

There was another factor that might reduce the supply of newsprint available from Canada, Fowler said, U. S. price control.

"Your present price freeze does not apply to imports of newsprint from Canada," he said, "but if a price ceiling were imposed by your government limiting what a publisher in the U. S. can pay for his newsprint, I think that would legally operate to suspend all your contracts with Canadian mills."

He made the statement at the ANPA annual meeting and he said that if such a regulation came he had no doubt Canadian suppliers would "struggle to keep newsprint flowing to you, despite the legal suspension of contracts."

"But," he added, "the Canadian suppliers and the Canadian government are under heavy pressures to provide newsprint desperately needed in many countries throughout the world, and at the present time, the strongest argument against meeting those overseas claims is the existence of valid binding contracts with publishers in the United States."

Says Balance Threatened

New York, May 16 (AP) — The "balance of power" between government and citizens of interests, says former President Herbert Hoover, is threatened by lack of resources among private institutions. "If we are going to allow the government to take over and support our institutions," Mr. Hoover said yesterday, "we are going to lose something of American life of infinite importance—and that is the reliance of the citizen on the citizen, as distniguished from the government." He added that "we cannot maintain a proper balance of power in the United States unless we are to have these independent institutions functioning, and functioning in full."

Key Provides Clue

New York, May 16 (AP)—A key in the pocket of a man found dead on a street corner has led to discovery of a $30,000 estate in bank deposits. The body of Louis Housmann, 70, a Manhattan leather worker, was found April 15. Yesterday it was revealed in Surrogates Court that he had records of his estate tucked away in a safe deposit box. Along with the bank books, the deposit box included papers mentioning Mrs. Louis Huester (of 1228 Crease street) Philadelphia, a sister. There was no will. So Surrogate George Frankenthaler granted Mrs. Huester administration of the estate. The money will go to her and a nephew and niece of Housmann.

RETURNING GROUP GIFT

A regular reader of this column tells me: "I have never seen advice for returning gifts given at showers or for weddings by a group of friends. Also a present from the office. These things should undoubtedly be returned the same as any other real gifts after the wedding plans fall through, but how does one go about it when a number of people are involved? To whom should it be returned and what could a group do with it?"

The only advice I can give is to write to the one you know best in the group and ask her (or him) what to do.

Annoying Interruptions

Dear Mrs. Post: What can be done to check a relative who constantly interrupts the conversation? I think it's very rude of her but so far have sat quietly by and suffered.

Answer: You might ask quite bluntly: "Will you let Mary (or whoever she is interrupting) finish . . . and then urge whoever was talking, to continue.

Thanks You for Kindness

Dear Mrs. Post: I was visiting out of town and on two different occasions was invited to lunch. I will very likely never be able to make any substantial return for these invitations. I'd like to show the extent of my appreciation. May it be (a) by a note of thanks or (b) ought I send flowers?

Answer: A few flowers are always lovely, but a thank-you note is quite sufficient.

Bride is Forty

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm being married next month. I'm in my late forties and have never married before. My mother is living and in fact we are living together. Should the engraved invitations be in her name, or if in my own what would be the wording?

Answer: The fact that you have never been married makes it correct for your mother to send the invitations.

Monday Frost Hit Some Ulster Crops

Some apple trees, a few grape vines and tomato plants in the low areas of the county were damaged by Monday's frost, according to reports received at the Ulster County Farm Bureau.

Reports to date indicate that the total damage for the county is not serious, but some damage was reported by growers of the Delicious and Cortland varieties. A few vegetable growers also reported tomato vines hit, and some new growth on grape vines in the lower areas was reported affected.

Peterborough, Ont. (AP)—Young lovers should be sure they're suitably matched before they tie the knot, said Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor while holding open house on their diamond wedding anniversary. "They want to be sure to make the right choice like I did," said Mrs. Taylor.

Manufacturers Have Woes . . .

States would get "very close to" 6,000,000 tons of newsprint this year—1,010,000 tons from U. S. mills, 4,775,000 tons from Canada and 200,000 tons from overseas.

The consumption of United States publishers last year totaled 5,936,941 tons and estimates of 1951 consumption in this country have reached as high as 6,100,000 tons.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association showed how daily newspaper circulation in both United States and Canada has grown through the years. This growth, which naturally means more newsprint used, has taken place despite increased subscription and newsstand prices.

The ANPA figures showed the average circulation in the two countries was 57,000,000 copies a day for the six-month period ended last Sept. 30.

This was a gain of more than 1,000,000 copies a day over 1949 and of more than 27,500,000 copies a day over 1920.

The second major problem in the newsprint field is price. Prices vary according to location but the New York tag is $106 a ton.

This is the highest in almost 30 years and compares with an all-time top of $120 in the 20's and a low of about $40 in the depression years.

The price was hiked generally $6 a ton in late 1950 and there have been reports in Washington recently that another $9 boost is in the wind.

Some of the large Canadian newsprint producers have said they do not anticipate such a move at this time. But there were a number of producers who felt that the $6 increase in 1950 was not large enough to absorb their rising costs.

Newsprint prices of United States producers have been frozen since the general freeze order Jan. 26. But Canadian-made paper is not subject to price regulation since it is sold in most cases directly to American consumers under contract terms.

In the grey market prices of as high as $300 a ton have been reported. Such operators charge all the traffic will bear.

But most publishing sources agree that there is very little grey market newsprint and that anyone has trouble finding as much as a carload lot that isn't taken.

They also agree that the grey market is a very insignificant part of the picture and has been resorted to mostly by someone who now and then needs a comparatively few tons badly to patch out supplies at intervals.

The $6 increase in newsprint prices already has meant another $35,400,000 added to the cost of publishing newspapers in the United States on the basis of an annual consumption last year of 5,900,000.

Newsprint manufacturers complain that their costs are rising too.

They have a tight situation on raw materials also. R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said the best analysis of the pulpwood situation over the next 12 months is that "we will have a very tight fit."

He added if greater supplies of sulphur, an essential material in making newsprint, cannot be obtained, capacity production cannot be maintained.

John H. Hinman, president of International Paper Company, said of the sulphur shortage:

"So far our companies have maintained their production by drawing on reserve stocks but new sources of supply must be developed if the demand for pulp and paper is to be met."

There was another factor that might reduce the supply of newsprint available from Canada, Fowler said, U. S. price control.

"Your present price freeze does not apply to imports of newsprint from Canada," he said, "but if a price ceiling were imposed by your government limiting what a publisher in the U. S. can pay for his newsprint, I think that would legally operate to suspend all your contracts with Canadian mills."

He made the statement at the ANPA annual meeting and he said that if such a regulation came he had no doubt Canadian suppliers would "struggle to keep newsprint flowing to you, despite the legal suspension of contracts."

"But," he added, "the Canadian suppliers and the Canadian government are under heavy pressures to provide newsprint desperately needed in many countries throughout the world, and at the present time, the strongest argument against meeting those overseas claims is the existence of valid binding contracts with publishers in the United States."

Says Balance Threatened

New York, May 16 (AP) — The "balance of power" between government and citizens of interests, says former President Herbert Hoover, is threatened by lack of resources among private institutions. "If we are going to allow the government to take over and support our institutions," Mr. Hoover said yesterday, "we are going to lose something of American life of infinite importance—and that is the reliance of the citizen on the citizen, as distniguished from the government." He added that "we cannot maintain a proper balance of power in the United States unless we are to have these independent institutions functioning, and functioning in full."

Key Provides Clue

New York, May 16 (AP)—A key in the pocket of a man found dead on a street corner has led to discovery of a $30,000 estate in bank deposits. The body of Louis Housmann, 70, a Manhattan leather worker, was found April 15. Yesterday it was revealed in Surrogates Court that he had records of his estate tucked away in a safe deposit box. Along with the bank books, the deposit box included papers mentioning Mrs. Louis Huester (of 1228 Crease street) Philadelphia, a sister. There was no will. So Surrogate George Frankenthaler granted Mrs. Huester administration of the estate. The money will go to her and a nephew and niece of Housmann.

Blind Help Each Other

New York (AP)—"Let the blind lead the blind." That is the motto of an organization made up entirely of blind people including the board of directors, officers, and members. It's called, "The Associated Blind, Inc." The organization was founded 14 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Selis, both blind, who were annoyed by blind groups which had sighted people as leaders. They believed that sighted people couldn't fully appreciate the problems of the blind and started their own organization.

Airmen Swamp Chapels

San Antonio (AP)—The men of the U. S. Air Force are turning to religion. An average of 12,000 airmen now attend the 115 services offered by Lackland Air Force Base chaplains in the ten chapels on the base. There are more than 30 chaplains, representing all faiths. Sunday services are held from early morning until late evening. Because the chapels won't hold the crowds, two theatres and a large assembly tent are used for religious services.

For Future Security

Pittsburgh (AP)—A young Pittsburgh minister thinks the 40,000 evergreen trees he has planted will keep him in his old age. The Rev. Stewart P. Robinson, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and his wife planted 20,000 of the trees themselves on a farm the couple owns near Delhi, N. Y. The other 20,000 were planted by a professional.

Opening lead—♣ 10

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand was played in a recent team match and the slam in spades was bid at both tables. However, it should be stated that one of the North players did not consider his hand worth an opening bid.

In both rooms the opening lead was the ten of clubs, won in the South hand. Each declarer drew three rounds of trumps, finessed the queen of diamonds, and laid down the ace of diamonds. Then there was a big difference.

In the first room West played the five of diamonds on the first round of that suit and dropped the jack when dummy led the ace of diamonds. Declarer decided to ruff a diamond in the hope that West had only the king left. If that plan failed he could later stake success on a heart finesse.

Since the diamonds actually fell favorably, the first declarer made all 13 tricks.

In the second room West dropped the king of diamonds when dummy led the ace. This persuaded the declarer at that table that the two remaining diamonds were held by East. In that case it could do no good to ruff a diamond. A better plan, he thought, was to take a heart finesse and to use the ace of clubs for a second heart finesse.

Hence he abandoned the diamonds and finessed the ten of hearts. West naturally won with the jack and returned a club. Dummy won with the ace and returned a heart so that South could finesse the queen. This also lost, and the slam was set.

What is the moral of our little tale? It can be very simple or very complicated.

In the average bridge game, West should drop the king in this situation when he wants declarer to abandon the suit. Most declarers will assume that the suit is split 4-2 rather than 3-3. It should be noted, of course, that it costs nothing to drop the king when you also have the jack.

If South and West are both experts, there is no such thing as a "correct" play. It is merely a guessing game.

Since there are very few all-expert games, it's not a bad idea to remember West's little stratagem for future use.

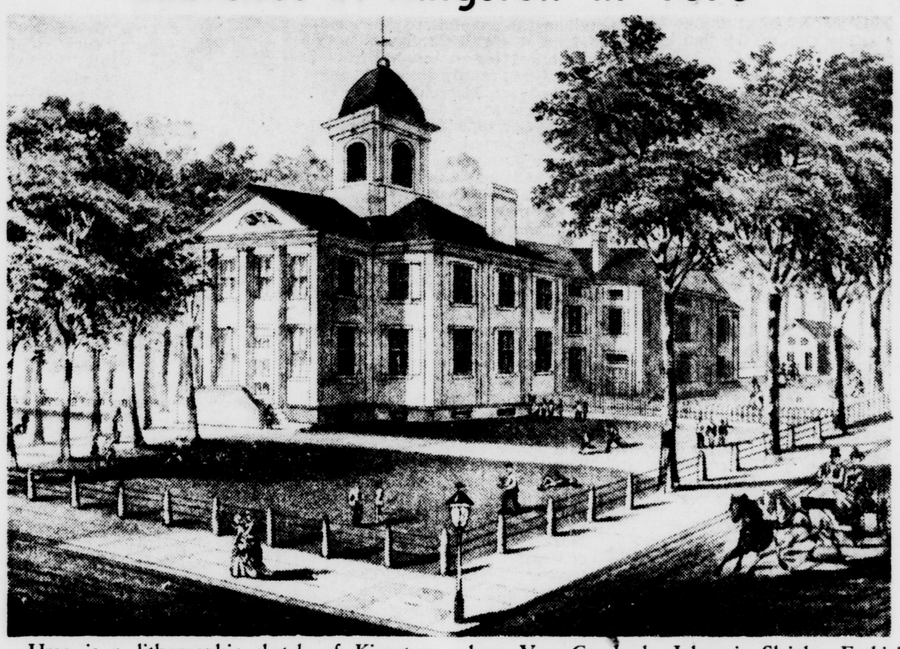
Sketches of Kingston in 1875



Here is a lithographic sketch of Kingston Academy, which from the year 1830 occupied the present site of Academy Green. The sketch was reproduced from the "County Atlas of Ulster," published in 1875.

The original building was of two stories but down through the years increased population and demands for higher education made necessary its enlargement. The building was remodeled into a three-story structure and other additions were made from time to time to meet increasing enrollment.

Thousands of men and women were educated in Kingston Academy, which continued to the year 1915, when it merged with Ulster Academy in the new Kingston High School, which was opened in September of that year. Many of the graduates of Kingston Academy have taken front rank in higher institutions of learning and many afterwards became prominent in professional, commercial and political lines and many have rendered notable service to their country.

The Academy, however, was started long before the erection of the building on the present site of the Academy Green. Clearwater's History of Ulster County in 1907 published the following on Kingston Academy:

On October 11, 1773, accommodations were secured and two teachers were hired to instruct students in the classics, sciences, mathematics and English. Thus was planted the germ from which Kingston Academy sprang.

The next year, 1774, "The Trustees of the Freeholders and Commonalty of the Town of Kingston," purchased a house and lot on the southwest corner of John and Crown streets, and selected John Addison as the first principal of Kingston Academy. The names of the founders were Derick Wynkoop, Joseph Gasherie, Johannis Persen, Silvester Salisbury, Christopher Tappen, Adam Persen, Johannis DuBois, Abraham Van Gaasbeek, Johannis Sleight, Ezekiel Masten and Wilhelmus Houghtaling.

On October 16, 1777, the building was burned by the British Army, in command of General John Vaughan, but in less than five months it was rebuilt, and the students continued their work as though nothing had happened. A copy of an old rate bill of that period bears the names of 93 students who were members of the English department. The first commencement exercises of the Academy were held in the spring of 1778 at the Bogardus tavern.

In January, 1791, it was resolved by the Trustees that the corporation become a member of the University of the State of New York. At this time the Academy was closed for a year on account of the small attendance.

After several applications it was finally incorporated by the Regents of the University, February 3, 1795. In addition to the regular tuition fees, each student was required to furnish two loads of fire wood, or its cash equivalent.

Soon after the act of incorporation a room was set apart for the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic. In February, 1804, the trustees applied to the legislature for permission to found a college, but this was denied, and the fund in hand for the purpose was deeded to the Academy; this deed conveyed 800 acres of land, including the present Academy site.

The Academy was devoted to boys and young men exclusively, no women being admitted. In 1823 co-education was introduced and some elementary subjects were allowed. In 1830 a small building was erected on the present site, and to this, additions have been made from time to time.

As early as 1862 the matter of adopting the graded school system was discussed. This question continued to be agitated until 1864, when the Academy was formally turned over to the Kingston Board of Education.

Health for All

Spring Fever

Spring fever—that lazy, listless feeling that attacks many of us during the first warm days of spring—is a common ailment at this time.

The "disease" can attack people of all ages and occupations, with varying degrees of severity. In the younger age groups, it frequently attacks students faced with study for end-term exams. Among adult victims are those who work near parks or amid other naturally scenic surroundings.

Symptoms include extreme lethargy, a revulsion for routine duties, and great difficulty in concentrating.

What most of us know as "spring fever" is a temporary condition, lasting a few days at the most. Usually it is the result of the body's attempt to adjust to a warmer season after months of cold winter.

Sometimes lethargy and fatigue at this time of year come because we actually are tired and the body is signalling that it needs a rest from routine work. When we say we "need a vacation," we are speaking the truth.

Fatigue and inertia can result when a person's diet lacks sufficient vitamins and minerals for physical fitness, and this can happen even when a person has a good appetite and eats a great deal. When this is the reason why a person lacks "pep," a well-balanced diet of good, nourishing foods will give the body enough of the right kind of fuel to keep energy high.

Some of us, particularly adults who work indoors, don't get enough fresh air and exercise. A short, brisk walk in the open air every day—now that the weather is more pleasant—can go a long way toward keeping the body toned up and warding off a feeling of loginess.

However, there are times when we make light of listlessness and lethargy as "spring fever" when they actually indicate something more serious. Often that "tired feeling" is a symptom of illness, sometimes of serious disease and infection, and demands immediate medical attention.

The person suffering from chronic, excessive fatigue should lose no time in getting to see his doctor for a thorough physical check-up, including a chest X-ray, since unexplainable tiredness can be one of the symptoms of tuberculosis and a chest X-ray can find TB in an early stage.

Opening lead—♣ 10

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand was played in a recent team match and the slam in spades was bid at both tables. However, it should be stated that one of the North players did not consider his hand worth an opening bid.

In both rooms the opening lead was the ten of clubs, won in the South hand. Each declarer drew three rounds of trumps, finessed the queen of diamonds, and laid down the ace of diamonds. Then there was a big difference.

In the first room West played the five of diamonds on the first round of that suit and dropped the jack when dummy led the ace of diamonds. Declarer decided to ruff a diamond in the hope that West had only the king left. If that plan failed he could later stake success on a heart finesse.

Since the diamonds actually fell favorably, the first declarer made all 13 tricks.

In the second room West dropped the king of diamonds when dummy led the ace. This persuaded the declarer at that table that the two remaining diamonds were held by East. In that case it could do no good to ruff a diamond. A better plan, he thought, was to take a heart finesse and to use the ace of clubs for a second heart finesse.

Hence he abandoned the diamonds and finessed the ten of hearts. West naturally won with the jack and returned a club. Dummy won with the ace and returned a heart so that South could finesse the queen. This also lost, and the slam was set.

What is the moral of our little tale? It can be very simple or very complicated.

In the average bridge game, West should drop the king in this situation when he wants declarer to abandon the suit. Most declarers will assume that the suit is split 4-2 rather than 3-3. It should be noted, of course, that it costs nothing to drop the king when you also have the jack.

If South and West are both experts, there is no such thing as a "correct" play. It is merely a guessing game.

Since there are very few all-expert games, it's not a bad idea to remember West's little stratagem for future use.

Here is a lithographic sketch of Kingston Academy, which from the year 1830 occupied the present site of Academy Green. The sketch was reproduced from the "County Atlas of Ulster," published in 1875.

The original building was of two stories but down through the years increased population and demands for higher education made necessary its enlargement. The building was remodeled into a three-story structure and other additions were made from time to time to meet increasing enrollment.

Thousands of men and women were educated in Kingston Academy, which continued to the year 1915, when it merged with Ulster Academy in the new Kingston High School, which was opened in September of that year. Many of the graduates of Kingston Academy have taken front rank in higher institutions of learning and many afterwards became prominent in professional, commercial and political lines and many have rendered notable service to their country.

The Academy, however, was started long before the erection of the building on the present site of the Academy Green. Clearwater's History of Ulster County in 1907 published the following on Kingston Academy:

On October 11, 1773, accommodations were secured and two teachers were hired to instruct students in the classics, sciences, mathematics and English. Thus was planted the germ from which Kingston Academy sprang.

The next year, 1774, "The Trustees of the Freeholders and Commonalty of the Town of Kingston," purchased a house and lot on the southwest corner of John and Crown streets, and selected John Addison as the first principal of Kingston Academy. The names of the founders were Derick Wynkoop, Joseph Gasherie, Johannis Persen, Silvester Salisbury, Christopher Tappen, Adam Persen, Johannis DuBois, Abraham Van Gaasbeek, Johannis Sleight, Ezekiel Masten and Wilhelmus Houghtaling.

On October 16, 1777, the building was burned by the British Army, in command of General John Vaughan, but in less than five months it was rebuilt, and the students continued their work as though nothing had happened. A copy of an old rate bill of that period bears the names of 93 students who were members of the English department. The first commencement exercises of the Academy were held in the spring of 1778 at the Bogardus tavern.

In January, 1791, it was resolved by the Trustees that the corporation become a member of the University of the State of New York. At this time the Academy was closed for a year on account of the small attendance.

After several applications it was finally incorporated by the Regents of the University, February 3, 1795. In addition to the regular tuition fees, each student was required to furnish two loads of fire wood, or its cash equivalent.

Soon after the act of incorporation a room was set apart for the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic. In February, 1804, the trustees applied to the legislature for permission to found a college, but this was denied, and the fund in hand for the purpose was deeded to the Academy; this deed conveyed 800 acres of land, including the present Academy site.

The Academy was devoted to boys and young men exclusively, no women being admitted. In 1823 co-education was introduced and some elementary subjects were allowed. In 1830 a small building was erected on the present site, and to this, additions have been made from time to time.

As early as 1862 the matter of adopting the graded school system was discussed. This question continued to be agitated until 1864, when the Academy was formally turned over to the Kingston Board of Education.

Health for All

Spring Fever

Spring fever—that lazy, listless feeling that attacks many of us during the first warm days of spring—is a common ailment at this time.

The "disease" can attack people of all ages and occupations, with varying degrees of severity. In the younger age groups, it frequently attacks students faced with study for end-term exams. Among adult victims are those who work near parks or amid other naturally scenic surroundings.

Symptoms include extreme lethargy, a revulsion for routine duties, and great difficulty in concentrating.

What most of us know as "spring fever" is a temporary condition, lasting a few days at the most. Usually it is the result of the body's attempt to adjust to a warmer season after months of cold winter.

Sometimes lethargy and fatigue at this time of year come because we actually are tired and the body is signalling that it needs a rest from routine work. When we say we "need a vacation," we are speaking the truth.

Fatigue and inertia can result when a person's diet lacks sufficient vitamins and minerals for physical fitness, and this can happen even when a person has a good appetite and eats a great deal. When this is the reason why a person lacks "pep," a well-balanced diet of good, nourishing foods will give the body enough of the right kind of fuel to keep energy high.

Some of us, particularly adults who work indoors, don't get enough fresh air and exercise. A short, brisk walk in the open air every day—now that the weather is more pleasant—can go a long way toward keeping the body toned up and warding off a feeling of loginess.

However, there are times when we make light of listlessness and lethargy as "spring fever" when they actually indicate something more serious. Often that "tired feeling" is a symptom of illness, sometimes of serious disease and infection, and demands immediate medical attention.

The person suffering from chronic, excessive fatigue should lose no time in getting to see his doctor for a thorough physical check-up, including a chest X-ray, since unexplainable tiredness can be one of the symptoms of tuberculosis and a chest X-ray can find TB in an early stage.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 16 (AP)—Stocks made little or no progress today in an irregular market.

Prices covered a flexible range of around $2 either way with many leaders fluctuating tightly on either side of the line by only a few cents.

The performance of the market carried no indication of a definite trend—either a rebound from yesterday's break or a continuation of the sharp slide.

There was some inkling of recovery in early dealings. The overall picture at that time, however, looked ragged and lacked conviction. By the end of the second hour losses sprinkled the list more generously than before and heightened the irregular appearance.

Volume of business was moderately heavy but there was no apparent acceleration of the pace when prices turned up or down.

Oils, which started the fall yesterday, made a perfect picture of extreme irregularity today. Cities Service at one time moved through a range of a few cents lower to more than $2 higher while Gulf Oil gained a major fraction and Standard Oil (N.J.) lost a like amount. Superior Oil of California was off 18 at 407.

States is nothing but a paper tiger." The Red China broadcast said the war will continue until "we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea."

In Best Positions

American troops, somewhat bored with waiting, have had time in a two and a half week lull to thoroughly bolster their defenses. A division spokesman said the allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet. He said they're confident and in good spirits.

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported that while allied officers differed on just when the Reds will strike they agreed:

"The Chinese are loaded and cocked and can explode southward any time they want."

The Chinese sharpened their probing attacks Wednesday morning, concentrating on the central front. They have moved in considerable strength across the Pukhan and Soyang rivers on either side of Chunchon.

One bugle blowing attack drove allies from their positions east of Chunchon before artillery broke up the Chinese force.

Korean Reds hit southwest of Inje, after reoccupying the highway town on the eastern front.

Skirmishing Increases

Skirmishing stepped up on the western front, too, with several sharp clashes about 17 miles north of Seoul. The Reds turned antitank guns on one armored American reconnaissance patrol.

"It looks as if they are just about ready and will be on their way down to us pretty soon," one officer said.

Randolph reported all signs seemed to point to the final moves before a typical Chinese offensive.

Fighting early Wednesday was heavier than the customary patrol actions. But none of it reached battle size.

Bugle blowing, whistle tooting Chinese struck at 1:30 a. m. east of Chunchon. U.N. troops withdrew under the grenade-throwing attack supported by automatic rifle fire.

After the UN withdrawal, big American guns opened up, inflicting heavy casualties on the Reds.

Driven From Chunchon

The Reds penetrated Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, but were driven out.

Communists also used artillery heavily in the eastern sector, supporting an unsuccessful attack east of Inje. Heavy use of artillery is customary before a Communist offensive.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the largest Red attack Wednesday was an early morning assault by two battalions south of Yonda in the Inje area. This attack by about 1,500 men forced South Koreans to withdraw. Republican troops later counterattacked and regained their positions.

The early Egyptians are said to have worshipped the cabbage.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 16 (AP)—Stocks made little or no progress today in an irregular market.

Prices covered a flexible range of around $2 either way with many leaders fluctuating tightly on either side of the line by only a few cents.

The performance of the market carried no indication of a definite trend—either a rebound from yesterday's break or a continuation of the sharp slide.

There was some inkling of recovery in early dealings. The overall picture at that time, however, looked ragged and lacked conviction. By the end of the second hour losses sprinkled the list more generously than before and heightened the irregular appearance.

Volume of business was moderately heavy but there was no apparent acceleration of the pace when prices turned up or down.

Oils, which started the fall yesterday, made a perfect picture of extreme irregularity today. Cities Service at one time moved through a range of a few cents lower to more than $2 higher while Gulf Oil gained a major fraction and Standard Oil (N.J.) lost a like amount. Superior Oil of California was off 18 at 407.

Reds Drive . . .

States is nothing but a paper tiger." The Red China broadcast said the war will continue until "we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea."

American troops, somewhat bored with waiting, have had time in a two and a half week lull to thoroughly bolster their defenses. A division spokesman said the allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet. He said they're confident and in good spirits.

Korean Reds hit southwest of Inje, after reoccupying the highway town on the eastern front.

Bugle blowing, whistle tooting Chinese struck at 1:30 a. m. east of Chunchon. U.N. troops withdrew under the grenade-throwing attack supported by automatic rifle fire.

Driven From Chunchon

The Reds penetrated Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, but were driven out.

Communists also used artillery heavily in the eastern sector, supporting an unsuccessful attack east of Inje. Heavy use of artillery is customary before a Communist offensive.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the largest Red attack Wednesday was an early morning assault by two battalions south of Yonda in the Inje area. This attack by about 1,500 men forced South Koreans to withdraw. Republican troops later counterattacked and regained their positions.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 16 (AP)—Stocks made little or no progress today in an irregular market.

Prices covered a flexible range of around $2 either way with many leaders fluctuating tightly on either side of the line by only a few cents.

The performance of the market carried no indication of a definite trend—either a rebound from yesterday's break or a continuation of the sharp slide.

There was some inkling of recovery in early dealings. The overall picture at that time, however, looked ragged and lacked conviction. By the end of the second hour losses sprinkled the list more generously than before and heightened the irregular appearance.

Volume of business was moderately heavy but there was no apparent acceleration of the pace when prices turned up or down.

Oils, which started the fall yesterday, made a perfect picture of extreme irregularity today. Cities Service at one time moved through a range of a few cents lower to more than $2 higher while Gulf Oil gained a major fraction and Standard Oil (N.J.) lost a like amount. Superior Oil of California was off 18 at 407.

Reds Drive . . .

States is nothing but a paper tiger." The Red China broadcast said the war will continue until "we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea."

In Best Positions

American troops, somewhat bored with waiting, have had time in a two and a half week lull to thoroughly bolster their defenses. A division spokesman said the allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet. He said they're confident and in good spirits.

AP Correspondent John Randolph reported that while allied officers differed on just when the Reds will strike they agreed:

"The Chinese are loaded and cocked and can explode southward any time they want."

The Chinese sharpened their probing attacks Wednesday morning, concentrating on the central front. They have moved in considerable strength across the Pukhan and Soyang rivers on either side of Chunchon.

One bugle blowing attack drove allies from their positions east of Chunchon before artillery broke up the Chinese force.

Korean Reds hit southwest of Inje, after reoccupying the highway town on the eastern front.

Skirmishing Increases

Skirmishing stepped up on the western front, too, with several sharp clashes about 17 miles north of Seoul. The Reds turned anti-tank guns on one armored American reconnaissance patrol.

"It looks as if they are just about ready and will be on their way down to us pretty soon," one officer said.

Randolph reported all signs seemed to point to the final moves before a typical Chinese offensive.

Fighting early Wednesday was heavier than the customary patrol actions. But none of it reached battle size.

Bugle blowing, whistle tooting Chinese struck at 1:30 a. m. east of Chunchon. U.N. troops withdrew under the grenade-throwing attack supported by automatic rifle fire.

After the UN withdrawal, big American guns opened up, inflicting heavy casualties on the Reds.

Driven From Chunchon

The Reds penetrated Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, but were driven out.

Communists also used artillery heavily in the eastern sector, supporting an unsuccessful attack east of Inje. Heavy use of artillery is customary before a Communist offensive.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the largest Red attack Wednesday was an early morning assault by two battalions south of Yonda in the Inje area. This attack by about 1,500 men forced South Koreans to withdraw. Republican troops later counterattacked and regained their positions.

The early Egyptians are said to have worshipped the cabbage.

Boys Are Arrested After False Alarm

Police arrested two boys, one 14 and the other 15 years old following a false alarm last night from Box 4321 at Washington avenue and Pearl street.

Officers Louis Sapp, Jr., and Special Officer Meyer Levy were dispatched to the scene when it was reported that three teen-agers were seen running over Pearl toward Green street following the alarm at 11:55 p. m. They picked up the two boys and a girl who was released. The boys were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Firemen were called at 11:07 a. m., today to the Bull Market on Smith avenue where a fire in a fuse box had damaged only the box.

Six More Cases Settled in Court

Six additional cases were announced settled in Supreme Court Tuesday afternoon. One case, No. 157, Ramon Chura against Murray Merl, a property damage action, was transferred to Albany county for trial. Roy L. Featherstone appears for plaintiff and Brown & Gallagher for the defendant.

A judgment for plaintiff by stipulation was made in an ejectment action brought by David Davis and another against Anna Mott, also known as Anna DeMott. Connelly and Connelly appeared for plaintiff and William A. Kaercher for defendant.

A jury was taken in No. 130, Winifred Costello and anothed against Vernon Styles, a negligence action. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant. Following selection of a jury court recessed until today.

Cases announced settled were:

No. 167, Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., against Vincent Dasiukiewicy, negligence. Rusk & Rusk for plaintiff and Herbert F. Hastings for defendant.

No. 98, Mabel Carpenter, as administratrix etc., vs. Martin A. Schopinski, personal injuries. Spitz & Levine for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Shady May Day Is Joy to Children

Woodstock, May 16—The first May Day festival ever held in Shady was given Saturday on the school grounds, between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. under the sponsorship of the Kings Daughters of Shady. The community party for all of the children of Shady was planned by a committee headed by Mrs. Evelyn Stone.

Owing to the intermittent rainfall the maypole had to be eliminated, but during the morning hours the children participated in competitive games and races. Every child who attended won a prize, so that each went away happily bearing a memento of the occasion.

A picnic lunch was served in the school building for approximately 40 children and a number of parents who came in addition to the committee. It was decided by the committee that the event had been so successful that plans would be made to repeat the festival next year.

Mrs. Daniel C. Kleine, president, announced that the Kings Daughters have scheduled their annual fair and supper to be held on Wednesday, July 18.

The regular meeting of the Kings Daughters of Shady will be changed from June 7 to June 14, to be held at the home of Mrs. Martin MacDaniel. All members are invited to attend.

200 in Attendance At Testimonial for 3 Local Knights

More than 200 Knights of Columbus assembled for last night's testimonial dinner to three 50-year members of Kingston Council, 275 and prominent speakers paid tribute to their records as fraternal associates.

The three guests of honor were Past Grand Knight Joseph F. Sullivan, Col. Frank L. Meagher and John H. Schatzel, who in his youthful days was interested in the promotion of baseball teams sponsored by the Knights.

Speakers Praise Three

As the trio sat at the head table, orators from within Kingston Council recounted their activities that were molded into staunch support of the organization that has a shining record among fraternities of the community dating back 55 years.

The dinner was prepared by Knights under the direction of Harold Grunenwald as chairman of the committee and was served by ladies from Court Santa Maria, 164, Catholic Daughters of America with Mrs. Vincent A. Gorman as chairman.

General chairman of the testimonial committee was Joseph F. Saccoman, past grand knight.

Joseph J. Murphy, another past grand knight, as master of ceremonies introduced the speakers.

James V. Geary, present grand knight, gave the address of welcome, and complimented the 50-year members for their interest in the council over that span of time.

Two knights occupying positions of prominence among the ranks of local lawyers paid tribute to their fraternal brothers.

Cashin, Cook Speak

County Judge John M. Cashin reminisced about the early days of Kingston Council, and the prominent part played by the three honored guests in promoting projects of the order. He recalled that his father, the late Martin J. Cashin, was a member of the first class initiated into the council.

Former County Judge Andrew J. Cook went back to 1911 when he as deputy grand knight was a member of the degree team with Grand Knight Sullivan and Col. Meagher as chancellor. He recalled that under Sullivan's direction the team gained much prominence and traveled to many communities for initiatory purposes.

Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the Court of Appeals sent a congratulatory message to his three fraternal brothers, including his regrets at being absent from the occasion because of official duties.

Bernard A. Feeney, a past grand knight, also complimented the trio in a letter and remarked that he would have been present except for important business.

Patrick T. Murphy, with appropriate remarks, fastened the pins to the lapels of his fellow knights. The honor was accorded him as a half-century member, an occasion he celebrated last year with John V. O'Connor and William B. Byrne, who attended last night's testimonial.

Past Grand Knight Sullivan gave the response and in his talk urged the younger members of Kingston council to carry on its projects and interests.

Two members of the clergy were among the speakers, the Rev. James A. Dunnigan, chaplain of the local council and pastor of St. Ann's Church, Sawkill, who gave the benediction, and the Rev. Joseph J. O'Rourke, pastor of Holy Name Church, Wilbur, who gave the invocation.

There was entertainment by the Catskill Mountaineers, John Cecelia, youthful accordionist; Tommy Murray with his comedy skit on an old soldier and the Old Timers, a quartet composed of Joseph F. Saccoman, Harry Matthews, John Bruck, Jack Hoffman and Bob Kelly, with Tony Turck as accompanist.

200 in Attendance At Testimonial for 3 Local Knights

More than 200 Knights of Columbus assembled for last night's testimonial dinner to three 50-year members of Kingston Council, 275 and prominent speakers paid tribute to their records as fraternal associates.

The three guests of honor were Past Grand Knight Joseph F. Sullivan, Col. Frank L. Meagher and John H. Schatzel, who in his youthful days was interested in the promotion of baseball teams sponsored by the Knights.

Speakers Praise Three

As the trio sat at the head table, orators from within Kingston Council recounted their activities that were molded into staunch support of the organization that has a shining record among fraternities of the community dating back 55 years.

The dinner was prepared by Knights under the direction of Harold Grunenwald as chairman of the committee and was served by ladies from Court Santa Maria, 164, Catholic Daughters of America with Mrs. Vincent A. Gorman as chairman.

General chairman of the testimonial committee was Joseph F. Saccoman, past grand knight.

Joseph J. Murphy, another past grand knight, as master of ceremonies introduced the speakers.

James V. Geary, present grand knight, gave the address of welcome, and complimented the 50-year members for their interest in the council over that span of time.

Two knights occupying positions of prominence among the ranks of local lawyers paid tribute to their fraternal brothers.

Cashin, Cook Speak

County Judge John M. Cashin reminisced about the early days of Kingston Council, and the prominent part played by the three honored guests in promoting projects of the order. He recalled that his father, the late Martin J. Cashin, was a member of the first class initiated into the council.

Former County Judge Andrew J. Cook went back to 1911 when he as deputy grand knight was a member of the degree team with Grand Knight Sullivan and Col. Meagher as chancellor. He recalled that under Sullivan's direction the team gained much prominence and traveled to many communities for initiatory purposes.

Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the Court of Appeals sent a congratulatory message to his three fraternal brothers, including his regrets at being absent from the occasion because of official duties.

Bernard A. Feeney, a past grand knight, also complimented the trio in a letter and remarked that he would have been present except for important business.

Gilday Presents Pins

Andrew T. Gilday, also a past grand knight, presented 50-year pins to the guests of honor, and paid tribute to their active interest in Kingston council.

Patrick T. Murphy, with appropriate remarks, fastened the pins to the lapels of his fellow knights. The honor was accorded him as a half-century member, an occasion he celebrated last year with John V. O'Connor and William B. Byrne, who attended last night's testimonial.

Past Grand Knight Sullivan gave the response and in his talk urged the younger members of Kingston council to carry on its projects and interests.

Two members of the clergy were among the speakers, the Rev. James A. Dunnigan, chaplain of the local council and pastor of St. Ann's Church, Sawkill, who gave the benediction, and the Rev. Joseph J. O'Rourke, pastor of Holy Name Church, Wilbur, who gave the invocation.

There was entertainment by the Catskill Mountaineers, John Cecelia, youthful accordionist; Tommy Murray with his comedy skit on an old soldier and the Old Timers, a quartet composed of Joseph F. Saccoman, Harry Matthews, John Bruck, Jack Hoffman and Bob Kelly, with Tony Turck as accompanist.

The sun casts a shadow wherever it shines in the United States since at no place does it shine from directly overhead.

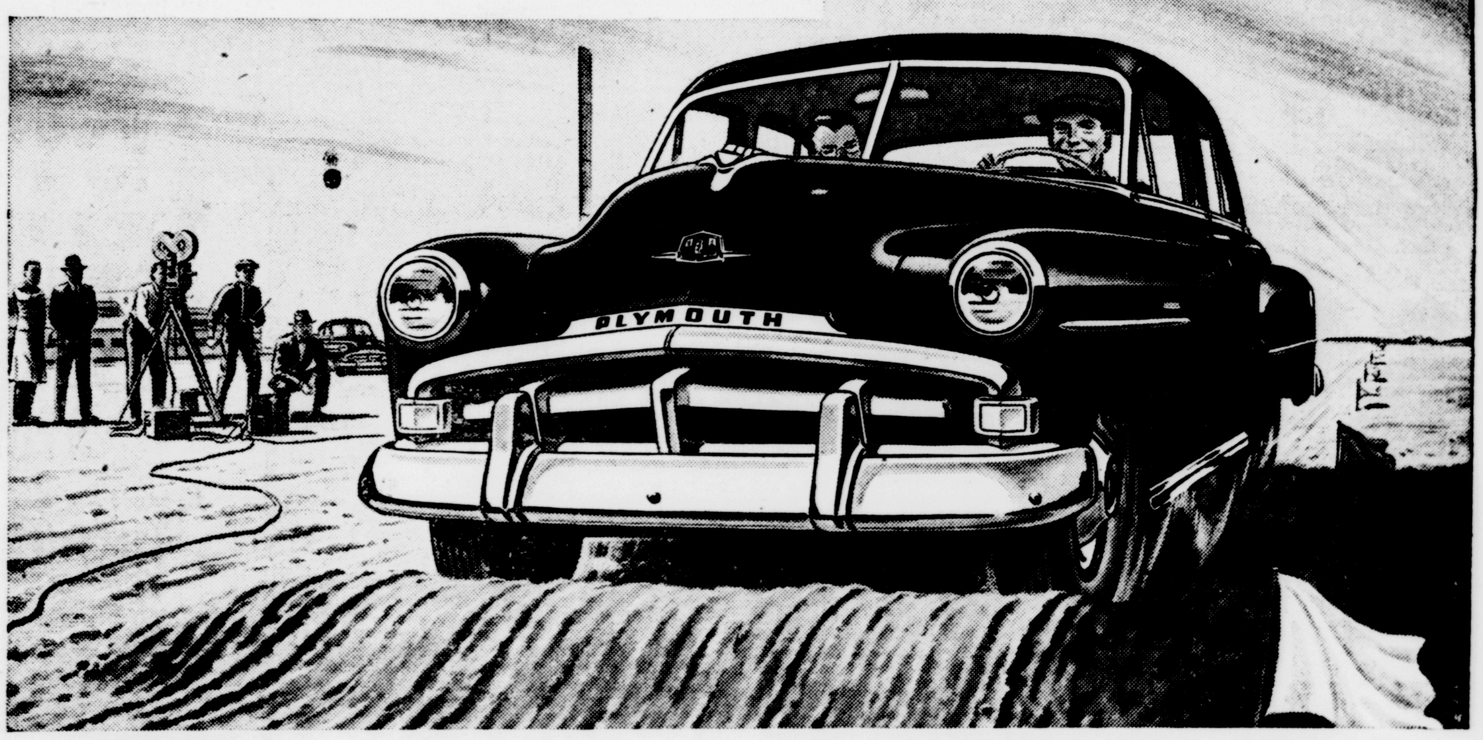
Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps



MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCahill, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.

"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" IS SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

Travel Prospectus and Smiles

Cynthia Steketee (left) and Beatrice Newkirk, against a background of maps and travel posters, look over the prospectus for their summer trip to the Belgium-Netherlands. The Kingston High School juniors are among 16 students from the entire United States to be selected by the American Field Service for European hospitality scholarships. Both were chosen here by John Henry Martin, principal, and a faculty committee. Their passage will be paid by Prisma, the high school service society. (Freeman Photo)

Two KHS Juniors Win Hospitality Scholarships Abroad

Beatrice Newkirk and Cynthia Steketee, Bebe and Cindy for short, have hardly been able to eat or sleep for a week now ever since that fateful Wednesday, May 9 when 20 eager fingers ripped open identical letters from the American Field Service which began:

"I am delighted to tell you that the American Field Service Committee has elected you to go to Belgium-Netherlands under our hospitality scholarships."

For Bebe and Cindy it was undoubtedly the most exciting chapter to date in an already many chaptered book. Cindy, the daughter of Mrs. Emile Taiclet and the late Louis Steketee, green eyes sparkling, began ticking off the steps on her fingers.

"Prisma, you know, the high school girls' service club . . . we sell magazine subscriptions and things to get in . . . well Prisma nominated six girls for the scholarships. Out of the six four were elected to put in applications to go abroad. Then a faculty committee with the principal, Mr. Martin, selected Bebe and me."

Wrote Three Essays

"Afterwards," Bebe, Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk's daughter broke in, "our applications were sent to the American Field Service in New York. They have the last say."

Originally the girls had to write three essays. The first told about themselves, their hobbies and interests. In the second they explained just why they wanted to go to a foreign country of their choice, while in the third they told how they could promote international understanding among their own age group if they were selected.

Holland Appealing

Holland, the country they wish to visit, appeals strongly to both girls, particularly the Hague, which they look upon with a sort of hallowed reverence, although they're not a bit sure they won't wind up in Belgium. Holland is fascinating to Cindy because it has reputedly the highest educational standards in Europe. For Bebe, truly her father's daughter, government and the workings of a smooth sailing monarchy, are the chief attractions. And, of course, there's always the old world charm of cobbled streets, century old houses, canals, and fields of flowers.

Live With Families

Once in Europe, Prisma will pay their traveling expenses over and back, the girls will stay with families who have invited them, through the American Field Service. Probably both will run across some member in "their family" who has received the same hospitality here. During their two month European stay they will adhere fairly rigidly to the schedule of the family they are assigned to, with only occasional side trips.

Sailing date, June 25, will find Bebe and Cindy in New York boarding a Navy C-3, the Nelly. Made especially for student travel, it boasts double deckers, snack bars, and other teen-age prerequisities. The Nelly, both agree, is bound to be "terrific."

Before reaching Bebe and Cindy's destination, the Nelly will nose into LeHavre and Southampton to deposit other students travelers at their foreign destinations. The return voyage is scheduled for August 25.

"There really isn't so very much time" Cindy explains excitedly, "with regents coming up, and passport photos, and passports."

"And don't forget those typhoid shots," Bebe adds a little gloomily.

Nor would either of the blond 16-year-olds be quite normal if they weren't wondering what clothes to bring, luggage limitations, and "If we'll be seasick," Hearing them talk you can almost smell salt spray, and feel the gentle roll of the promenade deck beneath your feet.

Marks No Criterion

Like other Prisma scholarship winners, Bebe and Cindy were chosen, not so much for their marks, or their ability to speak a foreign language, (Neither speaks German or the Dutch and Belgium dialects) but for their "well rounded personalities" and their ability "to adjust to new and strange situations." Both are taking the responsibility of being ambassadors" seriously.

"There's a little Dutch girl here at the high school" Bebe explains. "Her name is Hetty Vos, and she's only been in this country a month. She has a terrible time with English but she's giving us lessons in Dutch."

"After all," Cindy adds, "we do think we ought to be able to say a few things, like house, and street."

School 5 Mothers To See Two Films

Two films, Breast Cancer, and The Story of Menstruation, will be shown before members of the Mothers' Club of School No. 5 when the group holds its regular meeting Thursday at 2 p. m. in the library.

Guest speaker during the meeting will be Dr. Robert Broad, Ulster county health commissioner, who will show the cancer film.

Approximately 20,000 lives have been saved through the help of this film, the American Cancer Society has estimated. The society also stresses the proven fact that women themselves detect the first signs of cancer, and believes that this type of malignant growth can be conquered by women's own initiative.

Arrangements for the film were made through the Ulster County Branch of the American Cancer Society.

Both were chosen here by John Henry Martin, principal, and a faculty committee. Their passage will be paid by Prisma, the high school service society. (Freeman Photo)

Two KHS Juniors Win Hospitality Scholarships Abroad

Beatrice Newkirk and Cynthia Steketee, Bebe and Cindy for short, have hardly been able to eat or sleep for a week now ever since that fateful Wednesday, May 9 when 20 eager fingers ripped open identical letters from the American Field Service which began:

"I am delighted to tell you that the American Field Service Committee has elected you to go to Belgium-Netherlands under our hospitality scholarships."

For Bebe and Cindy it was undoubtedly the most exciting chapter to date in an already many chaptered book. Cindy, the daughter of Mrs. Emile Taiclet and the late Louis Steketee, green eyes sparkling, began ticking off the steps on her fingers.

"Prisma, you know, the high school girls' service club . . . we sell magazine subscriptions and things to get in . . . well Prisma nominated six girls for the scholarships. Out of the six four were elected to put in applications to go abroad. Then a faculty committee with the principal, Mr. Martin, selected Bebe and me."

Wrote Three Essays

"Afterwards," Bebe, Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk's daughter broke in, "our applications were sent to the American Field Service in New York. They have the last say."

Originally the girls had to write three essays. The first told about themselves, their hobbies and interests. In the second they explained just why they wanted to go to a foreign country of their choice, while in the third they told how they could promote international understanding among their own age group if they were selected.

Holland Appealing

Holland, the country they wish to visit, appeals strongly to both girls, particularly the Hague, which they look upon with a sort of hallowed reverence, although they're not a bit sure they won't wind up in Belgium. Holland is fascinating to Cindy because it has reputedly the highest educational standards in Europe. For Bebe, truly her father's daughter, government and the workings of a smooth sailing monarchy, are the chief attractions. And, of course, there's always the old world charm of cobbled streets, century old houses, canals, and fields of flowers.

Live With Families

Once in Europe, Prisma will pay their traveling expenses over and back, the girls will stay with families who have invited them, through the American Field Service. Probably both will run across some member in "their family" who has received the same hospitality here. During their two month European stay they will adhere fairly rigidly to the schedule of the family they are assigned to, with only occasional side trips.

Sailing date, June 25, will find Bebe and Cindy in New York boarding a Navy C-3, the Nelly. Made especially for student travel, it boasts double deckers, snack bars, and other teen-age prerequisities. The Nelly, both agree, is bound to be "terrific."

Before reaching Bebe and Cindy's destination, the Nelly will nose into LeHavre and Southampton to deposit other students travelers at their foreign destinations. The return voyage is scheduled for August 25.

"There really isn't so very much time" Cindy explains excitedly, "with regents coming up, and passport photos, and passports."

"And don't forget those typhoid shots," Bebe adds a little gloomily.

Nor would either of the blond 16-year-olds be quite normal if they weren't wondering what clothes to bring, luggage limitations, and "If we'll be seasick," Hearing them talk you can almost smell salt spray, and feel the gentle roll of the promenade deck beneath your feet.

Marks No Criterion

Like other Prisma scholarship winners, Bebe and Cindy were chosen, not so much for their marks, or their ability to speak a foreign language, (Neither speaks German or the Dutch and Belgium dialects) but for their "well rounded personalities" and their ability "to adjust to new and strange situations." Both are taking the responsibility of being ambassadors" seriously.

"There's a little Dutch girl here at the high school" Bebe explains. "Her name is Hetty Vos, and she's only been in this country a month. She has a terrible time with English but she's giving us lessons in Dutch."

"After all," Cindy adds, "we do think we ought to be able to say a few things, like house, and street."

Hindu Speaker Will Address Dinner Club On Today's Women

NILIMA BURN-PERRY

A woman whom heredity has formed into a thorough mixture of east and west, will address the Kingston National Dinner Club Thursday, when it holds its final meeting of the '51-'52 season at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Miss Nilima Burn-Perry, the daughter of a Scotch father and a Hindu mother has announced that she will speak on that always fascinating subject, Women Today . . . And Always.

Born in Calcutta, Miss Burn-Perry, who has perfect command of the English language, is said to depict human life and nature as a common denominator for understanding: something which is pretty much the same whether it is found in Iowa, or India.

Miss Burn-Perry, who was educated at Parjeeling, has long been associated with westerners, and more particularly, Americans. During World War 2 she was confidential secretary to the commanding officer of the first contingent of the American army in Calcutta. Like many American women, she is also blessed with an adventurous streak, and once flew over China's notorious "hump" with the commanding officer of an advance section of the American army in China. Later she was transferred back to Calcutta where she became secretary to the commanding officer of the new base which was set up there.

Thursday night, however, Miss Burn-Perry will not recall her war experiences. She feels her topic is far more timeless, and universal than World War 2.

Congress Advocates Ban

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Congress went on record yesterday to advocate a ban by the free world on shipment of war materials to Communist China. Both the Senate and the House, by unanimous voice votes with in a few hours, approved a resolution calling on the United Nations General Assembly to vote such a ban. Such action by the UN, of course, would have only moral force since the organization has no enforcement powers. The House also passed a resolution saying the Chinese Communist government should not be admitted to UN membership.

State Department officials said today that is the propaganda line being followed also by Red China to explain away the failure of the offensive to make much headway against United Nations' forces.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

It was sad to see School No. 5 with the broken smoked windows. Destruction is so quickly done while re-building and repairing takes so much money and time. And of course, any items of sentimental or artistic value sometimes can never be replaced. No doubt there were items in School No. 5 which went up in smoke never to be replaced again. Another building which makes me sad is what once was the Presbyterian Church at Wurts and Abeel streets. Did you ever stop to admire those beautiful circular windows when they were whole and see them now? Too bad that they could not have been taken out to grace another church or building, for the light filtering through their lovely design and colored glass is too exquisite for me to describe. If I remember correctly the windows of the Trinity Methodist Church a block up on Wurts street were valued at around $25,000. So no doubt the Presbyterian windows were also of like cost.

Nothing of artistic or historical value is ever really thrown out if displayed for sale. I notice at the local rummage sales, there is always some one to fall in love with some item, such as old spice jars, bone dishes, etc. They want it enough to buy it and take it home to perhaps wash it, polish it or preserve it to give it 20 or more years. That is the wonderful part about rummage sales, trash to one, is a buy to another with the money going towards a good cause.

The following from one of the columns of the Weekly Freeman of April 22, 1886: "A horned owl has been shot by a Rhinebeck man A Saugerties man has voted at every election for the past 70 years." It is said that now people live longer than they did years ago. Next item reads: "A Troy woman has just died at age of 100 years, 11 months and 15 days. . . . Electric lights illuminated Yonkers for the first time on Friday night last. . . . A Vassar College girl wears a diamond ring, the gift of ex-President Arthur. . . . Lightning cut a metal cuspidor in two, at Yorktown, during a recent storm."

In another item they described a "rug swindle" which was being worked along the Hudson river and in Kingston. The newspaper reporter explained: "A rug peddler will call at a house and sell a good rug at a fair price, and in a few days later a confederate calls, says the rug was stolen, and rather than have any trouble the rug is generally surrendered and sold again." In those days you could shop at Stebbins, Brodhead and Van Wagenen at 16-18 Strand and 21 Ferry street, a large department store. They sold good body Brussels carpets, of the very best grade, as well as reasonable in price. They also had tapestry and ingrain carpets, curtain poles, portieres, in patterns and by the yard. Remember those portieres dark, heavy, either maroon, green or brown, and some had long fringe? Dark figured wall paper, dark furniture, dark rugs. Nowadays everyone wants lot of light, big picture windows, blond wood furniture, beige colored rugs, bright colored plastics. Sometimes I wonder which is more restful.

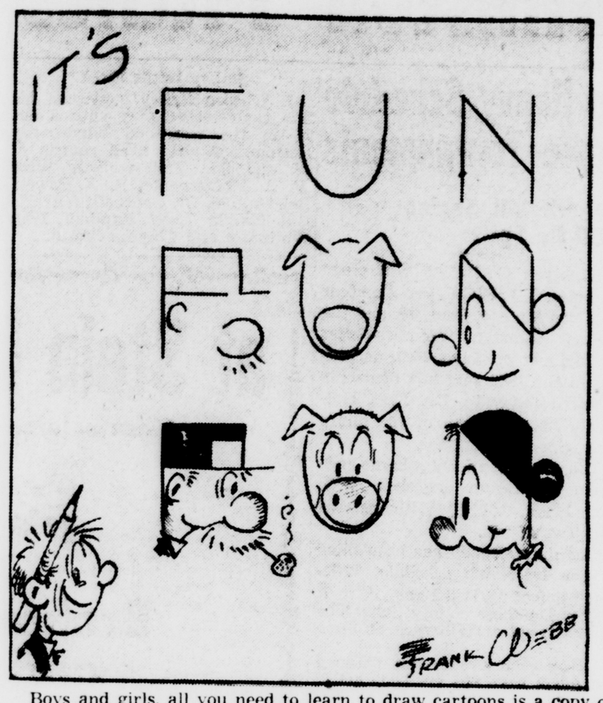
'LET'S DRAW' With Frank Webb



Boys and girls, all you need to learn to draw cartoons is a copy of The Daily Freeman, a soft pencil and some white paper along with the desire to learn to draw. Follow Frank Webb's lessons day by day, which will begin tomorrow.

As Pegler Sees It

Edith G. Rosenwald, of Jenkintown and Alverthorpe, Pa., respectively, who gave $2,200 and $3,000, respectively. Mrs. Stanley L. Richter, of West Lake Farm, Danbury, Conn., gave $1,650 to a half dozen of these letterhead slush-funds. That makes me wonder because I used to live up thataway, and I just don't remember any farmer lady of that name around there. I keep wondering why Sun-Bonnet Sue, of West Lake Farm, Danbury, Conn., would sacrifice her egg-money to lick Senator Pat McCarran so far away.

George Fielding Eliot, Dr. L. M. Birkhead, Russell W. Davenport, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and most of the other tired old letterhead names contributed nothing but their dignity, such as it is. Eliot is a professional gasbag bloviating for hire. Old Birkhead is a mildewed Bible-whacker who works the democracy gag. That is the kind of potato-peeler he sells from his pitch. It's a living.

Mr. Cahlan, the editor of the Review-Journal, was about to fold away his notes when his eyes bugged and he said, "Well, I be dam! George E. Marshall got $2,582.44!"

Mr. Marshall was the candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, and Mr. Cahlan said Marshall never told him a word about any money from the Waldorf Tower. But this meant that the dragon worked both ends against the middle.

After this I happened to speak to Senator Molly Malone of Nevada, a Republican, about this use of eastern slush-funds in the cactus and keno state. Senator Malone said it naturally made his people sore to be done this way in secrecy by city people on the seaboard far away. But, practically, it wasn't so bad, after all.

"Both of their candidates got licked so their $8,500 was wasted and Nevada always welcomes fresh money," Senator Malone said. "But our folks won't like it. I know that for sure. Nevada folks are people and citizens just as good as New York people."

Jacoby on Canasta

Prepare for a Long Siege

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

No matter what school of play you and your opponents follow there will be many cases in which the discard pile will reach such a size that you will be forced to fight for it. If you lose a substantial majority of these fights, you will lose at Canasta.

The reason will not be bad luck, it will be that your are playing badly. Of course, on some occasions it will be just bad luck. The point to remember is that if it happens often it must be bad play.

One cause, of course, is poor memory. If you have an odd jack in your hand and hang on to it desperately in spite of the fact that six jacks have already been discarded, that is too bad. Such extreme cases don't occur too often, but it is of the highest importance to remember which cards have been discarded, who threw them, and when they were thrown.

The poor player sometimes creates his own difficulties by his early play. For example, suppose each side needs 120 points. Our hero starts with a bad hand. After drawing he holds A-K Q-Q 10-9-7 6-6 5-4-2.

The poor player decides to hold all his high cards, and his first discard is the seven, the five or the four. He continues by getting rid of his odd low cards. Now, he draws more high cards and lets his pair of sixes go.

Eventually, we find him holding A-A K-K Q-Q 10 9-9 8 2-2. Maybe the eight is safe so he throws it, and his next draw is a king. No one has melded and every one of his cards except the two deuces is dynamite.

His best play in this spot is to meld. 2-A-A K-K-K, 2-Q-Q or 2-9-9 and to throw the ten. Then, even though the opponents grab the pile, his side should be able to go out with a net loss of a thousand or maybe two thousand points. It is very near the end of the stock, he may throw his deuces and hope to last the whole hand.

However, he has built his own troubles by not throwing a high card at the start. Suppose his first discard was a king. If the next man took it, there would be no great loss.

If not, he would have established other kings as potential safe discards. Then when he reached this stage he would probably still have his two sixes left and the chances are that he would be sure of their being safe discards.

The point is that when you have a poor hand you must prepare for a long siege. It may not develop, but then your preparations will cost you nothing of any importance. If the long siege does develop, your foresight will often make the difference between losing the pile and holding out successfully.

In such a campaign make your dangerous discards early — not late. As the pile gets bigger your discards should become safer.

Good Canasta players are as much in demand these days as good dancers. It's no fun for others when you confuse and hold up play because you don't know the rules. Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

It was sad to see School No. 5 with the broken smoked windows. Destruction is so quickly done while re-building and repairing takes so much money and time. And of course, any items of sentimental or artistic value sometimes can never be replaced. No doubt there were items in School No. 5 which went up in smoke never to be replaced again. Another building which makes me sad is what once was the Presbyterian Church at Wurts and Abeel streets. Did you ever stop to admire those beautiful circular windows when they were whole and see them now? Too bad that they could not have been taken out to grace another church or building, for the light filtering through their lovely design and colored glass is too exquisite for me to describe. If I remember correctly the windows of the Trinity Methodist Church a block up on Wurts street were valued at around $25,000. So no doubt the Presbyterian windows were also of like cost.

Nothing of artistic or historical value is ever really thrown out if displayed for sale. I notice at the local rummage sales, there is always some one to fall in love with some item, such as old spice jars, bone dishes, etc. They want it enough to buy it and take it home to perhaps wash it, polish it or preserve it to give it 20 or more years. That is the wonderful part about rummage sales, trash to one, is a buy to another with the money going towards a good cause.

The following from one of the columns of the Weekly Freeman of April 22, 1886: "A horned owl has been shot by a Rhinebeck man A Saugerties man has voted at every election for the past 70 years." It is said that now people live longer than they did years ago. Next item reads: "A Troy woman has just died at age of 100 years, 11 months and 15 days. . . . Electric lights illuminated Yonkers for the first time on Friday night last. . . . A Vassar College girl wears a diamond ring, the gift of ex-President Arthur. . . . Lightning cut a metal cuspidor in two, at Yorktown, during a recent storm."

In another item they described a "rug swindle" which was being worked along the Hudson river and in Kingston. The newspaper reporter explained: "A rug peddler will call at a house and sell a good rug at a fair price, and in a few days later a confederate calls, says the rug was stolen, and rather than have any trouble the rug is generally surrendered and sold again." In those days you could shop at Stebbins, Brodhead and Van Wagenen at 16-18 Strand and 21 Ferry street, a large department store. They sold good body Brussels carpets, of the very best grade, as well as reasonable in price. They also had tapestry and ingrain carpets, curtain poles, portieres, in patterns and by the yard. Remember those portieres dark, heavy, either maroon, green or brown, and some had long fringe? Dark figured wall paper, dark furniture, dark rugs. Now-a-days everyone wants lot of light, big picture windows, blond wood furniture, beige colored rugs, bright colored plastics. Sometimes I wonder which is more restful.

'LET'S DRAW' With Frank Webb

Boys and girls, all you need to learn to draw cartoons is a copy of The Daily Freeman, a soft pencil and some white paper along with the desire to learn to draw. Follow Frank Webb's lessons day by day, which will begin tomorrow.

As Pegler Sees It

Edith G. Rosenwald, of Jenkintown and Alverthorpe, Pa., respectively, who gave $2,200 and $3,000, respectively. Mrs. Stanley L. Richter, of West Lake Farm, Danbury, Conn., gave $1,650 to a half dozen of these letterhead slush-funds. That makes me wonder because I used to live up thataway, and I just don't remember any farmer lady of that name around there. I keep wondering why Sun-Bonnet Sue, of West Lake Farm, Danbury, Conn., would sacrifice her egg-money to lick Senator Pat McCarran so far away.

George Fielding Eliot, Dr. L. M. Birkhead, Russell W. Davenport, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and most of the other tired old letterhead names contributed nothing but their dignity, such as it is. Eliot is a professional gasbag bloviating for hire. Old Birkhead is a mildewed Bible-whacker who works the democracy gag. That is the kind of potato-peeler he sells from his pitch. It's a living.

Mr. Cahlan, the editor of the Review-Journal, was about to fold away his notes when his eyes bugged and he said, "Well, I be dam! George E. Marshall got $2,582.44!"

Mr. Marshall was the candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, and Mr. Cahlan said Marshall never told him a word about any money from the Waldorf Tower. But this meant that the dragon worked both ends against the middle.

After this I happened to speak to Senator Molly Malone of Nevada, a Republican, about this use of eastern slush-funds in the cactus and keno state. Senator Malone said it naturally made his people sore to be done this way in secrecy by city people on the seaboard far away. But, practically, it wasn't so bad, after all.

"Both of their candidates got licked so their $8,500 was wasted and Nevada always welcomes fresh money," Senator Malone said. "But our folks won't like it. I know that for sure. Nevada folks are people and citizens just as good as New York people."

Jacoby on Canasta

Prepare for a Long Siege

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

No matter what school of play you and your opponents follow there will be many cases in which the discard pile will reach such a size that you will be forced to fight for it. If you lose a substantial majority of these fights, you will lose at Canasta.

The reason will not be bad luck, it will be that your are playing badly. Of course, on some occasions it will be just bad luck. The point to remember is that if it happens often it must be bad play.

One cause, of course, is poor memory. If you have an odd jack in your hand and hang on to it desperately in spite of the fact that six jacks have already been discarded, that is too bad. Such extreme cases don't occur too often, but it is of the highest importance to remember which cards have been discarded, who threw them, and when they were thrown.

The poor player sometimes creates his own difficulties by his early play. For example, suppose each side needs 120 points. Our hero starts with a bad hand. After drawing he holds A-K Q-Q 10-9-7 6-6 5-4-2.

The poor player decides to hold all his high cards, and his first discard is the seven, the five or the four. He continues by getting rid of his odd low cards. Now, he draws more high cards and lets his pair of sixes go.

Eventually, we find him holding A-A K-K Q-Q 10 9-9 8 2-2. Maybe the eight is safe so he throws it, and his next draw is a king. No one has melded and every one of his cards except the two deuces is dynamite.

His best play in this spot is to meld. 2-A-A K-K-K, 2-Q-Q or 2-9-9 and to throw the ten. Then, even though the opponents grab the pile, his side should be able to go out with a net loss of a thousand or maybe two thousand points. It is very near the end of the stock, he may throw his deuces and hope to last the whole hand.

However, he has built his own troubles by not throwing a high card at the start. Suppose his first discard was a king. If the next man took it, there would be no great loss.

If not, he would have established other kings as potential safe discards. Then when he reached this stage he would probably still have his two sixes left and the chances are that he would be sure of their being safe discards.

The point is that when you have a poor hand you must prepare for a long siege. It may not develop, but then your preparations will cost you nothing of any importance. If the long siege does develop, your foresight will often make the difference between losing the pile and holding out successfully.

In such a campaign make your dangerous discards early — not late. As the pile gets bigger your discards should become safer.

Good Canasta players are as much in demand these days as good dancers. It's no fun for others when you confuse and hold up play because you don't know the rules. Jacoby on Canasta

Prepare for a Long Siege

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

No matter what school of play you and your opponents follow there will be many cases in which the discard pile will reach such a size that you will be forced to fight for it. If you lose a substantial majority of these fights, you will lose at Canasta.

The reason will not be bad luck, it will be that your are playing badly. Of course, on some occasions it will be just bad luck. The point to remember is that if it happens often it must be bad play.

One cause, of course, is poor memory. If you have an odd jack in your hand and hang on to it desperately in spite of the fact that six jacks have already been discarded, that is too bad. Such extreme cases don't occur too often, but it is of the highest importance to remember which cards have been discarded, who threw them, and when they were thrown.

The poor player sometimes creates his own difficulties by his early play. For example, suppose each side needs 120 points. Our hero starts with a bad hand. After drawing he holds A-K Q-Q 10-9-9 6-6 5-4-2.

The poor player decides to hold all his high cards, and his first discard is the seven, the five or the four. He continues by getting rid of his odd low cards. Now, he draws more high cards and lets his pair of sixes go.

Eventually, we find him holding A-A K-K Q-Q 10 9-9 8 2-2. Maybe the eight is safe so he throws it, and his next draw is a king. No one has melded and every one of his cards except the two deuces is dynamite.

His best play in this spot is to meld. 2-A-A K-K-K, 2-Q-Q or 2-9-9 and to throw the ten. Then, even though the opponents grab the pile, his side should be able to go out with a net loss of a thousand or maybe two thousand points. It is very near the end of the stock, he may throw his deuces and hope to last the whole hand.

However, he has built his own troubles by not throwing a high card at the start. Suppose his first discard was a king. If the next man took it, there would be no great loss.

If not, he would have established other kings as potential safe discards. Then when he reached this stage he would probably still have his two sixes left and the chances are that he would be sure of their being safe discards.

The point is that when you have a poor hand you must prepare for a long siege. It may not develop, but then your preparations will cost you nothing of any importance. If the long siege does develop, your foresight will often make the difference between losing the pile and holding out successfully.

In such a campaign make your dangerous discards early — not late. As the pile gets bigger your discards should become safer.

Good Canasta players are as much in demand these days as good dancers. It's no fun for others when you confuse and hold up play because you don't know the rules. Amsterdam Wins Series Opener, 4-2; Ormiston Pitches Tonight

Wenning Drops Tough Decision To Rugmakers

Unearned Markers Account for Loss

Manager Hank Camelli this morning nominated right hander Jack Ormiston as the pitching choice against the Amsterdam Rugmakers in the final game of the two-game set with the Yankee hirelings tonight at 8 p. m. at municipal stadium.

Overnight, the Colonial skipper had a chance to ponder the old baseball saw that everything happens to a losing ball club—and all of it is generally bad.

He got a well pitched game from Big Bob Wenning last night, but the final results were the same: Amsterdam 4, Kingston 2, for the Colonial's 12th loss in 13 Can-Am starts.

Take that first inning, for instance. With one out Bella singled to left and Fronduto sliced a double along the right field foul line, putting runners on second and third. Willie Casanova, the No. 4 slugger, rapped a ground ball to shortstop Carl Harris, who neglected to bluff Bella back to third. His late throw barely nipped Casanova but Bella scored. Fronduto continued to third and arrived there at about the same time Bob Oliner's throw got to Tom Luce. It was a bang-bang play that would have been the third out, but the umpire ruled the runner safe. A lively rhubarb followed but the decision stood (naturally) and Fronduto shortly scored the second run on Johnny Jones' smash to second.

Amsterdam picked up another cheapie in the fourth on a fumble and bad throw. Wenning wild pitched home the fourth Rugmaker tally in the fifth.

Dick Ostrander, the Rugmaker starter who went the distance, was backed by gilt-edged support, the infield choking off three Kingston threats with sparkling double plays. He wild pitched Joe Kern home with Kingston's first run in the opening frame.

Hopes soared in the fifth when Joe Kern blasted a triple to deep left center and promptly rode home on Carl Harris' clothesline single to left center. But Luce and Lou Kramberg, returning to action after a two-day layoff because of back ailment, were easy outs. Al Greene dumped a single to short center but Bob Oliner bounced out to the second baseman.

A double play snuffed out Colonial hopes in the sixth when Tony Gomez led off with a single and Jack Allen was safe on John DiFresco's boot. Bob Wenning missed two tries to bunt then forced Gomez at third. Kern ended the inning by jamming into a double play.

Wenning pitched well enough to win under ordinary circumstances, yielding only three scattered hits over the last eight innings. Ostrander, who left nine stranded, was in frequent trouble but DPs or the Colonials' failure to come through with the clutch hit saved him.

Harris and Allen delivered two hits each for the Colonials. Johnny Jones, the Amsterdam first sacker, clouted a single and double, drove in two runs and scored another.

COLONIAL CAPERS: The weather was the finest to date and several old "regulars" made their first appearance of the season in the grandstand. Paul Krichell, famous Yankee scout and farm system supervisor, watched the Yankee hirelings from the grandstand. The Rugmakers had "only 25" ballplayers in uniform. Tom Luce played a great game at third and his one-handed pickup of Fronduto's smash in the second inning was the fielding gem of the contest. Pete Elko, hard hitting Can-Am League veteran who is without a job, saw the game from the stands. He had a pre-game talk with Manager Hank Camelli. The management has announced May 21 and May 28 as Ladies' Nights. The distaff rooters will be admitted to the grandstand on payment of service charge only. Tony Gomez, Colonial left fielder, has a peculiar fielding mannerism, lifting his right leg every time he catches a fly ball. Pitcher Al Thomas, who made only one start for the Colonials, has been returned to the St. Hyacinthe club of the Canadian Provincial League.

Colonials Get Two

Manager Hank Camelli of the Colonials this morning announced the arrival of two new Colonial players on option from the Albany Senators of the Eastern League.

Third baseman, Walter Bremer, a .384 hitter in the Class D Florida-Georgia League in 1950, and Frank Seeley, a right handed pitcher with Bristol in the Colonial League in 1950, are the newcomers. Both are expected to be in uniform for tonight's finale against the Amsterdam Rugmakers at municipal stadium.

Bremer, who can play third base or the outfield, was a member of the Waycross, Ga., club last season.

Seeley appeared in 26 games for the Owls, chiefly in relief roles, had a won and lost record of 7 and 3 and an earned-run average of 3.52. He pitched 92 innings, yielded 91 hits, walked 46 and struck out 49.

Two left hand pitchers on option from the St. John's, Quebec club of the Canadian-Provincial League, are expected to arrive in the next few days, Camelli said.

Ted Williams cracked his 300th home run. Only nine others had accomplished this feat.

Ewell Blackwell and Vern Bickford hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that produced only three hits in the Cincinnati-Boston game. Blackwell allowed one hit to win, 1-0. Only twice before in the last 50 years have there been games in which fewer hits were made.

Yet, these exploits had to take a back seat yesterday to a bizarre stunt pulled by a rookie manager who once was billed as the "switch-hitting, ambidextrous pitcher from Waxahachie" (Tex.).

This is how Paul Rapier Richards, in his first year as leader of the Chicago White Sox, stole the baseball thunder.

With his team leading the Red Sox, 7-6, and southpaw swinging Ted Williams leading off for Boston in the last half of the ninth, he replaced righthander Harry Dorish with lefty Billy Pierce. But Dorish did not go to the bench. Instead, Richards benched third baseman Orestes Minoso and moved pitcher Dorish there. Pierce got Williams on a high pop fly to the shortstop behind second. Richards then returned Dorish to the mound, Pierce back to the bench and sent Floyd Baker to third.

The Red Sox got their tying run anyway, but the White Sox won in the 11th when Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer for a 9-7 triumph. Williams' 300th and seventh of the season came in the fourth.

Babe Ruth once left the mound for right field for one batter, then returned. He was pitching for the Red Sox.

Blackwell threw a one-hitter in one of the tightest pitching battles ever waged. Bickford, the loser, allowed only two hits the two righthanders, shooting for their second big league no-hitters, went into the fifth before Bob Elliott doubled off Blackwell for the first hit of the game.

Bickford surrendered his first hit in the sixth—a double by Connie Ryan. Cincinnati's second hit won the game. It was a home run by catcher John Pramesa.

Blackwell pitched a pair of one-hitters last year.

The major league record for the fewest hits made by both teams in one game is two.

The victory moved the Reds out of the cellar into sixth place. Back again into the basement fell the New York Giants who dropped a 7-3 decision to Bill Werle and the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn strengthened its first place hold with an 8-4 victory over the Cubs in Chicago. Two homers by Gil Hodges, a grand slammer by Duke Snider and another round tripper by Jackie Robinson, accounted for all but one of Brooklyn's runs.

A pinch single by Bill Nicholson with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Philadelphia Phils two runs and a 5-4 victory over the Cards in St. Louis. The win moved the Phils into a third place tie with Pittsburgh.

Detroit handed Sandy Consuegra his first loss as the Tigers pounded out 14 hits for a 12-4 victory over Washington. Hal Newhouser spaced nine hits for his third win.

The St. Louis Browns won a free-swinging battle from the Athletics in Philadelphia, 11-8. Gus Zernial hit two homers for the Athletics for the second straight game. Ned Garver was the winner. He has won five of the seven St. Louis victories.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

A pitcher who tosses a two-hitter usually can count on a win, but Oneonta's Bill Zonner knows it's not a sure thing.

Zonner allowed only two safeties in a Canadian-American League game at Pittsfield last night, but lost, 5-2. Neither of the hits figured in the scoring—but he walked 14, hit two batters and had five wild pitches. Arnie Spence slugged a homer for Oneonta with one on base.

At Gloversville, the home club used four pitchers in an attempt to halt the Rome attack, but lost to the Colonels, 11-1. The Colonels had 10 hits and were helped by four Gloversville errors. Bob Linskey scattered five hits for the win. Bernie Krauss, Gloversville starter, was the loser.

Kingston dropped its 12th game in 13 starts, by a 4-2 decision to Amsterdam. Three of the Rugger runs at Kingston were unearned. Dick Ostrander was the winning pitcher.

Ivy League Nixes Freshmen Athletes

New York, May 16 (AP)—With the exception of the Ivy League, freshmen in the eastern college athletic conference may compete in varsity sports during the 1951-52 school year.

The ECAC action, made possible by a mail vote of its 91 members, was announced yesterday. It will apply until June, 1952.

The Ivy League — Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton and Yale—had voted not to make freshmen eligible regardless of any ECAC action. Navy, an ECAC member, wouldn't say yes or no.

Five other conferences have made freshmen eligible. They are the Big Ten, Southern, Southeastern, Big Seven and Missouri Valley conferences. The Southwest Conference voted last Saturday to continue its ban on freshman competition.

Salt Lake City Rex Layne, 197, Lewiston, Utah, stopped Ed Cameron, 189, Miami, Fla., 5.

Fishing Good At Sturgeon Pool

Fishing life and conditions are in good shape at Sturgeon Pool, near Rifton, despite the draining of 45 feet of water to clear the debris of the recent floods, District Game Protector Bill Goodman said today.

The report on Sturgeon Pool was issued in response to several inquiries at the local conservation office. Goodman pointed out that the 45-foot drainage still leaves about 67 feet of water in the main channel and fish life was safe and sound. The normal height at the pool is 112 feet. He also pointed out that fish have a tendency to move upstream away from any diversionary channels.

Twaalfskill Series Will Be Split

Wiltwyck Golf Club will stage its annual ENYGA Pro-Amateur event on Sunday, Sept. 30, and the second annual Member-Guest tournament on June 9-10, according to the 1951 schedule of events released today by Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., chairman of the club's tournament committee.

The schedule includes home-and-home inter-club matches with Red Hook, I.B.M., Williamstown and Twaalfskill.

One date already has been filled in the inter-club schedule, Wiltwyck defeating Red Hook, 17 to 7, on the Dutchess county links. The return is set at Wiltwyck on June 3.

Other club events are planned but dates have not yet been set.

In order to avoid the usual congestion during the Twaalfskill match, it has been decided to divide the field, with half playing at each club and switching to the opposite battleground the following week. The teams will assemble after the matches for the social meeting and scoreboard tabulations at Twaalfskill on June 17 and at Wiltwyck on June 24.

The inter-club schedule follows:

Manager Hank Camelli this morning nominated right hander Jack Ormiston as the pitching choice against the Amsterdam Rugmakers in the final game of the two-game set with the Yankee hirelings tonight at 8 p. m. at municipal stadium.

Overnight, the Colonial skipper had a chance to ponder the old baseball saw that everything happens to a losing ball club—and all of it is generally bad.

He got a well pitched game from Big Bob Wenning last night, but the final results were the same: Amsterdam 4, Kingston 2, for the Colonial's 12th loss in 13 Can-Am starts.

Take that first inning, for instance. With one out Bella singled to left and Fronduto sliced a double along the right field foul line, putting runners on second and third. Willie Casanova, the No. 4 slugger, rapped a ground ball to shortstop Carl Harris, who neglected to bluff Bella back to third. His late throw barely nipped Casanova but Bella scored. Fronduto continued to third and arrived there at about the same time Bob Oliner's throw got to Tom Luce. It was a bang-bang play that would have been the third out, but the umpire ruled the runner safe. A lively rhubarb followed but the decision stood (naturally) and Fronduto shortly scored the second run on Johnny Jones' smash to second.

Amsterdam picked up another cheapie in the fourth on a fumble and bad throw. Wenning wild pitched home the fourth Rugmaker tally in the fifth.

Dick Ostrander, the Rugmaker starter who went the distance, was backed by gilt-edged support, the infield choking off three Kingston threats with sparkling double plays. He wild pitched Joe Kern home with Kingston's first run in the opening frame.

Hopes soared in the fifth when Joe Kern blasted a triple to deep left center and promptly rode home on Carl Harris' clothesline single to left center. But Luce and Lou Kramberg, returning to action after a two-day layoff because of back ailment, were easy outs. Al Greene dumped a single to short center but Bob Oliner bounced out to the second baseman.

A double play snuffed out Colonial hopes in the sixth when Tony Gomez led off with a single and Jack Allen was safe on John DiFresco's boot. Bob Wenning missed two tries to bunt then forced Gomez at third. Kern ended the inning by jamming into a double play.

Wenning pitched well enough to win under ordinary circumstances, yielding only three scattered hits over the last eight innings. Ostrander, who left nine stranded, was in frequent trouble but DPs or the Colonials' failure to come through with the clutch hit saved him.

Harris and Allen delivered two hits each for the Colonials. Johnny Jones, the Amsterdam first sacker, clouted a single and double, drove in two runs and scored another.

COLONIAL CAPERS: The weather was the finest to date and several old "regulars" made their first appearance of the season in the grandstand. Paul Krichell, famous Yankee scout and farm system supervisor, watched the Yankee hirelings from the grandstand. The Rugmakers had "only 25" ballplayers in uniform. Tom Luce played a great game at third and his one-handed pickup of Fronduto's smash in the second inning was the fielding gem of the contest. Pete Elko, hard hitting Can-Am League veteran who is without a job, saw the game from the stands. He had a pre-game talk with Manager Hank Camelli. The management has announced May 21 and May 28 as Ladies' Nights. The distaff rooters will be admitted to the grandstand on payment of service charge only. Tony Gomez, Colonial left fielder, has a peculiar fielding mannerism, lifting his right leg every time he catches a fly ball. Pitcher Al Thomas, who made only one start for the Colonials, has been returned to the St. Hyacinthe club of the Canadian Provincial League.

Colonials Get Two

Manager Hank Camelli of the Colonials this morning announced the arrival of two new Colonial players on option from the Albany Senators of the Eastern League.

Third baseman, Walter Bremer, a .384 hitter in the Class D Florida-Georgia League in 1950, and Frank Seeley, a right handed pitcher with Bristol in the Colonial League in 1950, are the newcomers. Both are expected to be in uniform for tonight's finale against the Amsterdam Rugmakers at municipal stadium.

Bremer, who can play third base or the outfield, was a member of the Waycross, Ga., club last season.

Seeley appeared in 26 games for the Owls, chiefly in relief roles, had a won and lost record of 7 and 3 and an earned-run average of 3.52. He pitched 92 innings, yielded 91 hits, walked 46 and struck out 49.

Two left hand pitchers on option from the St. John's, Quebec club of the Canadian-Provincial League, are expected to arrive in the next few days, Camelli said.

The Scoreboard

Associated Press Sports Writer

Ted Williams cracked his 300th home run. Only nine others had accomplished this feat.

Ewell Blackwell and Vern Bickford hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that produced only three hits in the Cincinnati-Boston game. Blackwell allowed one hit to win, 1-0. Only twice before in the last 50 years have there been games in which fewer hits were made.

Yet, these exploits had to take a back seat yesterday to a bizarre stunt pulled by a rookie manager who once was billed as the "switch-hitting, ambidextrous pitcher from Waxahachie" (Tex.).

This is how Paul Rapier Richards, in his first year as leader of the Chicago White Sox, stole the baseball thunder.

With his team leading the Red Sox, 7-6, and southpaw swinging Ted Williams leading off for Boston in the last half of the ninth, he replaced righthander Harry Dorish with lefty Billy Pierce. But Dorish did not go to the bench. Instead, Richards benched third baseman Orestes Minoso and moved pitcher Dorish there. Pierce got Williams on a high pop fly to the shortstop behind second. Richards then returned Dorish to the mound, Pierce back to the bench and sent Floyd Baker to third.

The Red Sox got their tying run anyway, but the White Sox won in the 11th when Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer for a 9-7 triumph. Williams' 300th and seventh of the season came in the fourth.

Blackwell threw a one-hitter in one of the tightest pitching battles ever waged. Bickford, the loser, allowed only two hits the two righthanders, shooting for their second big league no-hitters, went into the fifth before Bob Elliott doubled off Blackwell for the first hit of the game.

Bickford surrendered his first hit in the sixth—a double by Connie Ryan. Cincinnati's second hit won the game. It was a home run by catcher John Pramesa.

Blackwell pitched a pair of one-hitters last year.

The major league record for the fewest hits made by both teams in one game is two.

The victory moved the Reds out of the cellar into sixth place. Back again into the basement fell the New York Giants who dropped a 7-3 decision to Bill Werle and the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn strengthened its first place hold with an 8-4 victory over the Cubs in Chicago. Two homers by Gil Hodges, a grand slammer by Duke Snider and another round tripper by Jackie Robinson, accounted for all but one of Brooklyn's runs.

A pinch single by Bill Nicholson with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Philadelphia Phils two runs and a 5-4 victory over the Cards in St. Louis. The win moved the Phils into a third place tie with Pittsburgh.

Detroit handed Sandy Consuegra his first loss as the Tigers pounded out 14 hits for a 12-4 victory over Washington. Hal Newhouser spaced nine hits for his third win.

The St. Louis Browns won a free-swinging battle from the Athletics in Philadelphia, 11-8. Gus Zernial hit two homers for the Athletics for the second straight game. Ned Garver was the winner. He has won five of the seven St. Louis victories.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

A pitcher who tosses a two-hitter usually can count on a win, but Oneonta's Bill Zonner knows it's not a sure thing.

Zonner allowed only two safeties in a Canadian-American League game at Pittsfield last night, but lost, 5-2. Neither of the hits figured in the scoring—but he walked 14, hit two batters and had five wild pitches. Arnie Spence slugged a homer for Oneonta with one on base.

At Gloversville, the home club used four pitchers in an attempt to halt the Rome attack, but lost to the Colonels, 11-1. The Colonels had 10 hits and were helped by four Gloversville errors. Bob Linskey scattered five hits for the win. Bernie Krauss, Gloversville starter, was the loser.

Kingston dropped its 12th game in 13 starts, by a 4-2 decision to Amsterdam. Three of the Rugger runs at Kingston were unearned. Dick Ostrander was the winning pitcher.

Ivy League Nixes Freshmen Athletes

New York, May 16 (AP)—With the exception of the Ivy League, freshmen in the eastern college athletic conference may compete in varsity sports during the 1951-52 school year.

The ECAC action, made possible by a mail vote of its 91 members, was announced yesterday. It will apply until June, 1952.

The Ivy League — Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton and Yale—had voted not to make freshmen eligible regardless of any ECAC action. Navy, an ECAC member, wouldn't say yes or no.

Five other conferences have made freshmen eligible. They are the Big Ten, Southern, Southeastern, Big Seven and Missouri Valley conferences. The Southwest Conference voted last Saturday to continue its ban on freshman competition.

Salt Lake City Rex Layne, 197, Lewiston, Utah, stopped Ed Cameron, 189, Miami, Fla., 5.

Fishing Good At Sturgeon Pool

Fishing life and conditions are in good shape at Sturgeon Pool, near Rifton, despite the draining of 45 feet of water to clear the debris of the recent floods, District Game Protector Bill Goodman said today.

The report on Sturgeon Pool was issued in response to several inquiries at the local conservation office. Goodman pointed out that the 45-foot drainage still leaves about 67 feet of water in the main channel and fish life was safe and sound. The normal height at the pool is 112 feet. He also pointed out that fish have a tendency to move upstream away from any diversionary channels.

Twaalfskill Series Will Be Split

Wiltwyck Golf Club will stage its annual ENYGA Pro-Amateur event on Sunday, Sept. 30, and the second annual Member-Guest tournament on June 9-10, according to the 1951 schedule of events released today by Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., chairman of the club's tournament committee.

The schedule includes home-and-home inter-club matches with Red Hook, I.B.M., Williamstown and Twaalfskill.

One date already has been filled in the inter-club schedule, Wiltwyck defeating Red Hook, 17 to 7, on the Dutchess county links. The return is set at Wiltwyck on June 3.

Other club events are planned but dates have not yet been set.

In order to avoid the usual congestion during the Twaalfskill match, it has been decided to divide the field, with half playing at each club and switching to the opposite battleground the following week. The teams will assemble after the matches for the social meeting and scoreboard tabulations at Twaalfskill on June 17 and at Wiltwyck on June 24.

The inter-club schedule follows:

Ted Williams cracked his 300th home run. Only nine others had accomplished this feat.

Ewell Blackwell and Vern Bickford hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel that produced only three hits in the Cincinnati-Boston game. Blackwell allowed one hit to win, 1-0. Only twice before in the last 50 years have there been games in which fewer hits were made.

Yet, these exploits had to take a back seat yesterday to a bizarre stunt pulled by a rookie manager who once was billed as the "switch-hitting, ambidextrous pitcher from Waxahachie" (Tex.).

This is how Paul Rapier Richards, in his first year as leader of the Chicago White Sox, stole the baseball thunder.

With his team leading the Red Sox, 7-6, and southpaw swinging Ted Williams leading off for Boston in the last half of the ninth, he replaced righthander Harry Dorish with lefty Billy Pierce. But Dorish did not go to the bench. Instead, Richards benched third baseman Orestes Minoso and moved pitcher Dorish there. Pierce got Williams on a high pop fly to the shortstop behind second. Richards then returned Dorish to the mound, Pierce back to the bench and sent Floyd Baker to third.

The Red Sox got their tying run anyway, but the White Sox won in the 11th when Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer for a 9-7 triumph. Williams' 300th and seventh of the season came in the fourth.

Babe Ruth once left the mound for right field for one batter, then returned. He was pitching for the Red Sox.

Blackwell threw a one-hitter in one of the tightest pitching battles ever waged. Bickford, the loser, allowed only two hits the two righthanders, shooting for their second big league no-hitters, went into the fifth before Bob Elliott doubled off Blackwell for the first hit of the game.

Bickford surrendered his first hit in the sixth—a double by Connie Ryan. Cincinnati's second hit won the game. It was a home run by catcher John Pramesa.

Blackwell pitched a pair of one-hitters last year.

The major league record for the fewest hits made by both teams in one game is two.

The victory moved the Reds out of the cellar into sixth place. Back again into the basement fell the New York Giants who dropped a 7-3 decision to Bill Werle and the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn strengthened its first place hold with an 8-4 victory over the Cubs in Chicago. Two homers by Gil Hodges, a grand slammer by Duke Snider and another round tripper by Jackie Robinson, accounted for all but one of Brooklyn's runs.

A pinch single by Bill Nicholson with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Philadelphia Phils two runs and a 5-4 victory over the Cards in St. Louis. The win moved the Phils into a third place tie with Pittsburgh.

Detroit handed Sandy Consuegra his first loss as the Tigers pounded out 14 hits for a 12-4 victory over Washington. Hal Newhouser spaced nine hits for his third win.

The St. Louis Browns won a free-swinging battle from the Athletics in Philadelphia, 11-8. Gus Zernial hit two homers for the Athletics for the second straight game. Ned Garver was the winner. He has won five of the seven St. Louis victories.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

A pitcher who tosses a two-hitter usually can count on a win, but Oneonta's Bill Zonner knows it's not a sure thing.

Zonner allowed only two safeties in a Canadian-American League game at Pittsfield last night, but lost, 5-2. Neither of the hits figured in the scoring—but he walked 14, hit two batters and had five wild pitches. Arnie Spence slugged a homer for Oneonta with one on base.

At Gloversville, the home club used four pitchers in an attempt to halt the Rome attack, but lost to the Colonels, 11-1. The Colonels had 10 hits and were helped by four Gloversville errors. Bob Linskey scattered five hits for the win. Bernie Krauss, Gloversville starter, was the loser.

Kingston dropped its 12th game in 13 starts, by a 4-2 decision to Amsterdam. Three of the Rugger runs at Kingston were unearned. Dick Ostrander was the winning pitcher.

Ivy League Nixes Freshmen Athletes

New York, May 16 (AP)—With the exception of the Ivy League, freshmen in the eastern college athletic conference may compete in varsity sports during the 1951-52 school year.

The ECAC action, made possible by a mail vote of its 91 members, was announced yesterday. It will apply until June, 1952.

The Ivy League—Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton and Yale—had voted not to make freshmen eligible regardless of any ECAC action. Navy, an ECAC member, wouldn't say yes or no.

Five other conferences have made freshmen eligible. They are the Big Ten, Southern, Southeastern, Big Seven and Missouri Valley conferences. The Southwest Conference voted last Saturday to continue its ban on freshman competition.

Salt Lake City Rex Layne, 197, Lewiston, Utah, stopped Ed Cameron, 189, Miami, Fla., 5.

Fishing Good At Sturgeon Pool

Fishing life and conditions are in good shape at Sturgeon Pool, near Rifton, despite the draining of 45 feet of water to clear the debris of the recent floods, District Game Protector Bill Goodman said today.

The report on Sturgeon Pool was issued in response to several inquiries at the local conservation office. Goodman pointed out that the 45-foot drainage still leaves about 67 feet of water in the main channel and fish life was safe and sound. The normal height at the pool is 112 feet. He also pointed out that fish have a tendency to move upstream away from any diversionary channels.

Twaalfskill Series Will Be Split

Wiltwyck Golf Club will stage its annual ENYGA Pro-Amateur event on Sunday, Sept. 30, and the second annual Member-Guest tournament on June 9-10, according to the 1951 schedule of events released today by Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., chairman of the club's tournament committee.

The schedule includes home-and-home inter-club matches with Red Hook, I.B.M., Williamstown and Twaalfskill.

One date already has been filled in the inter-club schedule, Wiltwyck defeating Red Hook, 17 to 7, on the Dutchess county links. The return is set at Wiltwyck on June 3.

Other club events are planned but dates have not yet been set.

In order to avoid the usual congestion during the Twaalfskill match, it has been decided to divide the field, with half playing at each club and switching to the opposite battleground the following week. The teams will assemble after the matches for the social meeting and scoreboard tabulations at Twaalfskill on June 17 and at Wiltwyck on June 24.

City League Sluggers Set All-Time Record With Five Home Runs

Wiltwycks Trip Boulevards In Home Run Derby

Rathbun Cracks Two; Drives in Five Runs

Lou Kantrowitz must have slipped a jackrabbit into the baseballs he's selling the City Baseball League.

The free-swinging young men who represent Wiltwyck Motors and Boulevard Gulf set what is believed to be an all-time twilight league record yesterday, when they stroked five circuit clouts in the course of Wiltwyck Motors' thrilling 9 to 6 victory over the Gulfmen.

The victory was the second straight for the Motormen who rallied with two out in the seventh to salvage the game.

Three teams—Chez Emile, Old Capitals and Wiltwyck Motors—now have two straight wins.

Rathbun Clouts Two

Bobby Rathbun, one-time Poughkeepsie Chief player in the Colonial League, led the home run derby with a pair of round trippers in his first two appearances at the plate in the league. Jadetz, Vogt and J. Minadeo stroked the others.

Joe Jordan, the Boulevard flinger, held a 6-5 lead over Ernie McCormick when the roof caved in without warning. He fanned the first two batters and then here's what happened:

J. Minadeo, the Wiltwyck second sacker, atoned for several fielding indiscretions, by pounding a drive over the left field fence to tie the score at 6-6. Roberts and Kite singled, the latter taking second on the throw to third. Rathbun, who had already knocked in five runs, was purposedly passed to load the bases and set up the force at every base. The strategy backfired, however, when Trapani doubled to left to drive in two runs to make it 8-6.

In semi-darkness now, Jordan was removed from the box and strong-armed Bill Tierney came on to wild pitch the fourth run across the plate. The Boulevard nightmare ended when Trapani was nailed trying to steal third base.

Dilly-Dallying

Umpires Bill Schwab and Bill Murphy had their hands full trying to prevent stalling tactics during Boulevard's turn in the seventh. The Gulfmen made a mild threat when Decker singled with two out and stole second. Jordan was a strikeout victim to end the contest.

Rathbun's first homer accounted for three Wiltwyck markers in the first inning. Two innings later he duplicated the feat with one aboard. Eddie Jadetz clouted a terrific drive over the left field fence in the Boulevard third and Allen Vogt blasted one over the right field barrier in the fifth.

Ernie McCormick and Jordan both pitched seven-hitters. The former fanned five and walked four, while Jordan had six strikeout victims and walked three.

Messinger's Memos: The prizes took a beating in this one. The five home runs are believed to be an all-time City League record. If the homers continue, and there seems to be no letup, the league will go broke purchasing baseballs. Of course, they can always move back the fences or take the jackrabbit out of the ball. The game was finished under protest in the last of the seventh when Manager Allen Vogt of the Boulevards claimed it was too dark to continue. Jack Watzka and Bud Swarthout, early-season Chez Emile hero, are the probable starters in tonight's Bowlodrome-Chez Emile battle.

Central Rec Names Johnson

Bill Johnson was elected president of the Central Rec Bowling League for the 1951-52 season during the loop's annual post-season banquet Tuesday night at the Pine Tree Inn, Spillway road.

Others to serve next year are Al Hoey, vice president; and Ray Houghtaling as secretary-treasurer.

Officers serving during the past campaign were Eltinge "Pop" Auchmoody, president; Frank Bartroff, vice president; and Ed Auchmoody, secretary-treasurer.

Several guests were present and lauded the achievements of Frank Grimaldi, Jr., who topped the league with a 298 single game and 732 triple and Chic Provenzano's Hamburger Paradise trundlers who captured first place.

Special awards of the night included a trophy to Provenzano from members of the pennant winning club and also a check from John "Red" Sangi to Grimaldi for his near perfect shot of 298.

Roy Houghtaling served as master of ceremonies for the affair.

Famous Trapshooter Dies at 84 in Ohio

Springfield, O., May 16 (AP)—Charles A. (Sparrow) Young, who probably won more local, state and national trapshooting championships than any other man, died last night.

The dean of trapshooters had entered every Grand American shoot at Vandalia, O., the world series of trapshooting, since the event was started 51 years ago.

Young won the Grand American Handicap in 1926, shooting 100 straight targets from the 23-yard line. In doing so he repeated the earlier feat of shooting 100 straight at Peru, Ind., in 1916.

Young suffered a heart attack at his home in Springfield yesterday afternoon.

Herring Goes

New York, May 16 (AP)—Jimmy Herring, a 19-year-old New York "veteran" of 50 pro fights, meets Artie Diamond of Middle Village, N. Y., tonight in an eight-round St. Nicholas Arena bout. The bout, restricted to eight rounds by Herring's youth, will be beamed to the nation on radio and television. It will start at 9 p. m. (E.S.T.).

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The magic number on any championship pitching staff must be at least three.

The Boston Braves won't make the grade in the National League, despite Spahn, Bickford and Sain, with Matt Surkont as the fourth starter.

The New York Giants could do it, with Jim Hearn supporting Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen and George Spencer or Sheldon Jones filling the fourth spot. Ditto the Brooklyn Dodgers behind Don Newcombe and Preacher Rowe. The New York Yankees are in a precarious position, if Allie Reynolds doesn't approach his all-time major league rating.

Matter of fact, it seems to this observer that there isn't a single standout ball club in either major league.

• Kiwus Big Star at Union:

Frank Kiwus, who we mentioned briefly yesterday, is one of the brightest track stars at Union College in recent years. The former K.H.S. sprint flash is running in varsity competition under the new intercollegiate ruling that makes freshmen eligible for varsity athletics for the duration of the emergency.

A star at K.H.S., Kiwus has quickly established himself as the best sprinter on the Union team. In his first meet against Rochester, Kiwus took seconds in both the 100-yard and the 220. From there on he became invincible and in four subsequent meets against major college competition, the local lad swept the 100 and 220-yard sprints each time out. That gave him an amazing total of 47 points in five meets.

Against Champlain, Kiwus set a new track record with a 22.5 burst in the 220-yard dash. His best time of the year in the "100" was 10.1 seconds against R.P.I. Both of these times were only a few seconds off the all-time Union College records set in 1926.

Kiwus, as a freshman, has three full years of eligibility ahead of him after the completion of this season. Coach Bill Ketz, after watching his performances to date, feels that Kiwus will develop into one of the all-time track greats at Union before he receives his sheepskin.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Elbert Johnson, the Wingdale, N. Y., trapshooting expert, who won the "200 targets" event at the recent national amateur meet at Travers Island, is the same Johnson who terrorized mid-Hudson batters with wicked spit-ball pitching for the Harlem Valley State Hospital nine in the middle 1930s. He was a great pitching star in the era of Spec Ellis, Dutch Ruge, Babe Volker, Spike Van Alstyne and others of that time. John Van Gonsic knocked off 92 targets in the "100" competition the first day of the meet. Bub Merrihew and Ed Sickler, of Kingston, and Eddie Modjeska of Tillson were other entries. Oneonta High School football players have petitioned the village Board of Education for permission to raise their own funds to keep football alive in the Otsego hills. The Oneonta Board recently announced discontinuance of high school football until further notice because of "budgetary problems." Mary Genarelli, formerly associated with the Governor Clinton, Stuyvesant and Kirkland hotels, has been retained as chef for Twaalfskill Golf Club this summer. The formal opening of the kitchen is set for Saturday, May 19. Middletown High and Newburgh Academy are both 4-0 in DUSO baseball.

That top-ranking Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., official wasn't kidding when he observed that the only difference between the Colonials and "four other clubs" (Gloversville must be out) is about $10,000 in cash potential. A slight exaggeration, perhaps, but the difference does show up on the field, if you'll take the trouble to check the latest Can-Am League standing.

KAA Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Athletic Association will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel tonight at 8 o'clock. President Bob Umpleby requests a large attendance, since final arrangements will be made for the Little League baseball program.

City League Sluggers Set All-Time Record With Five Home Runs

Wiltwycks Trip Boulevards In Home Run Derby

Rathbun Cracks Two; Drives in Five Runs

Lou Kantrowitz must have slipped a jackrabbit into the baseballs he's selling the City Baseball League.

The free-swinging young men who represent Wiltwyck Motors and Boulevard Gulf set what is believed to be an all-time twilight league record yesterday, when they stroked five circuit clouts in the course of Wiltwyck Motors' thrilling 9 to 6 victory over the Gulfmen.

The victory was the second straight for the Motormen who rallied with two out in the seventh to salvage the game.

Three teams Chez Emile, Old Capitals and Wiltwyck Motors—now have two straight wins.

Rathbun Clouts Two

Bobby Rathbun, one-time Poughkeepsie Chief player in the Colonial League, led the home run derby with a pair of round trippers in his first two appearances at the plate in the league. Jadetz, Vogt and J. Minadeo stroked the others.

Joe Jordan, the Boulevard flinger, held a 6-5 lead over Ernie McCormick when the roof caved in without warning. He fanned the first two batters and then here's what happened:

J. Minadeo, the Wiltwyck second sacker, atoned for several fielding indiscretions, by pounding a drive over the left field fence to tie the score at 6-6. Roberts and Kite singled, the latter taking second on the throw to third. Rathbun, who had already knocked in five runs, was purposedly passed to load the bases and set up the force at every base. The strategy backfired, however, when Trapani doubled to left to drive in two runs to make it 8-6.

In semi-darkness now, Jordan was removed from the box and strong-armed Bill Tierney came on to wild pitch the fourth run across the plate. The Boulevard nightmare ended when Trapani was nailed trying to steal third base.

Dilly-Dallying

Umpires Bill Schwab and Bill Murphy had their hands full trying to prevent stalling tactics during Boulevard's turn in the seventh. The Gulfmen made a mild threat when Decker singled with two out and stole second. Jordan was a strikeout victim to end the contest.

Rathbun's first homer accounted for three Wiltwyck markers in the first inning. Two innings later he duplicated the feat with one aboard. Eddie Jadetz clouted a terrific drive over the left field fence in the Boulevard third and Allen Vogt blasted one over the right field barrier in the fifth.

Ernie McCormick and Jordan both pitched seven-hitters. The former fanned five and walked four, while Jordan had six strikeout victims and walked three.

Messinger's Memos: The prizes took a beating in this one. The five home runs are believed to be an all-time City League record. If the homers continue, and there seems to be no letup, the league will go broke purchasing baseballs. Of course, they can always move back the fences or take the jackrabbit out of the ball. The game was finished under protest in the last of the seventh when Manager Allen Vogt of the Boulevards claimed it was too dark to continue. Jack Watzka and Bud Swarthout, early-season Chez Emile hero, are the probable starters in tonight's Bowlodrome-Chez Emile battle.

Several guests were present and lauded the achievements of Frank Grimaldi, Jr., who topped the league with a 298 single game and 732 triple and Chic Provenzano's Hamburger Paradise trundlers who captured first place.

Famous Trapshooter Dies at 84 in Ohio

Springfield, O., May 16 (AP)—Charles A. (Sparrow) Young, who probably won more local, state and national trapshooting championships than any other man, died last night.

The 84-year-old sportsman was known as "Mr. Trapshooting" because he had been shooting clay and other targets for 65 years.

The dean of trapshooters had entered every Grand American shoot at Vandalia, O., the world series of trapshooting, since the event was started 51 years ago.

Young won the Grand American Handicap in 1926, shooting 100 straight targets from the 23-yard line. In doing so he repeated the earlier feat of shooting 100 straight at Peru, Ind., in 1916.

Young suffered a heart attack at his home in Springfield yesterday afternoon.

Herring Goes

New York, May 16 (AP)—Jimmy Herring, a 19-year-old New York "veteran" of 50 pro fights, meets Artie Diamond of Middle Village, N. Y., tonight in an eight-round St. Nicholas Arena bout. The bout, restricted to eight rounds by Herring's youth, will be beamed to the nation on radio and television. It will start at 9 p. m. (E.S.T.).

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The magic number on any championship pitching staff must be at least three.

The Boston Braves won't make the grade in the National League, despite Spahn, Bickford and Sain, with Matt Surkont as the fourth starter.

The New York Giants could do it, with Jim Hearn supporting Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen and George Spencer or Sheldon Jones filling the fourth spot. Ditto the Brooklyn Dodgers behind Don Newcombe and Preacher Rowe. The New York Yankees are in a precarious position, if Allie Reynolds doesn't approach his all-time major league rating.

Matter of fact, it seems to this observer that there isn't a single standout ball club in either major league.

• Kiwus Big Star at Union:

Frank Kiwus, who we mentioned briefly yesterday, is one of the brightest track stars at Union College in recent years. The former K.H.S. sprint flash is running in varsity competition under the new intercollegiate ruling that makes freshmen eligible for varsity athletics for the duration of the emergency.

A star at K.H.S., Kiwus has quickly established himself as the best sprinter on the Union team. In his first meet against Rochester, Kiwus took seconds in both the 100-yard and the 220. From there on he became invincible and in four subsequent meets against major college competition, the local lad swept the 100 and 220-yard sprints each time out. That gave him an amazing total of 47 points in five meets.

Against Champlain, Kiwus set a new track record with a 22.5 burst in the 220-yard dash. His best time of the year in the "100" was 10.1 seconds against R.P.I. Both of these times were only a few seconds off the all-time Union College records set in 1926.

Kiwus, as a freshman, has three full years of eligibility ahead of him after the completion of this season. Coach Bill Ketz, after watching his performances to date, feels that Kiwus will develop into one of the all-time track greats at Union before he receives his sheepskin.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Elbert Johnson, the Wingdale, N. Y., trapshooting expert, who won the "200 targets" event at the recent national amateur meet at Travers Island, is the same Johnson who terrorized mid-Hudson batters with wicked spit-ball pitching for the Harlem Valley State Hospital nine in the middle 1930s. He was a great pitching star in the era of Spec Ellis, Dutch Ruge, Babe Volker, Spike Van Alstyne and others of that time. John Van Gonsic knocked off 92 targets in the "100" competition the first day of the meet. Bub Merrihew and Ed Sickler, of Kingston, and Eddie Modjeska of Tillson were other entries. Oneonta High School football players have petitioned the village Board of Education for permission to raise their own funds to keep football alive in the Otsego hills. The Oneonta Board recently announced discontinuance of high school football until further notice because of "budgetary problems." Mary Genarelli, formerly associated with the Governor Clinton, Stuyvesant and Kirkland hotels, has been retained as chef for Twaalfskill Golf Club this summer. The formal opening of the kitchen is set for Saturday, May 19. Middletown High and Newburgh Academy are both 4-0 in DUSO baseball.

That top-ranking Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., official wasn't kidding when he observed that the only difference between the Colonials and "four other clubs" (Gloversville must be out) is about $10,000 in cash potential. A slight exaggeration, perhaps, but the difference does show up on the field, if you'll take the trouble to check the latest Can-Am League standing.

Famous Trapshooter Dies at 84 in Ohio

Springfield, O., May 16 (AP)—Charles A. (Sparrow) Young, who probably won more local, state and national trapshooting championships than any other man, died last night.

The 84-year-old sportsman was known as "Mr. Trapshooting" because he had been shooting clay and other targets for 65 years.

The dean of trapshooters had entered every Grand American shoot at Vandalia, O., the world series of trapshooting, since the event was started 51 years ago.

Young won the Grand American Handicap in 1926, shooting 100 straight targets from the 23-yard line. In doing so he repeated the earlier feat of shooting 100 straight at Peru, Ind., in 1916.

Young suffered a heart attack at his home in Springfield yesterday afternoon.

Herring Goes

New York, May 16 (AP)—Jimmy Herring, a 19-year-old New York "veteran" of 50 pro fights, meets Artie Diamond of Middle Village, N. Y., tonight in an eight-round St. Nicholas Arena bout. The bout, restricted to eight rounds by Herring's youth, will be beamed to the nation on radio and television. It will start at 9 p. m. (E.S.T.).

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The magic number on any championship pitching staff must be at least three.

The Boston Braves won't make the grade in the National League, despite Spahn, Bickford and Sain, with Matt Surkont as the fourth starter.

The New York Giants could do it, with Jim Hearn supporting Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen and George Spencer or Sheldon Jones filling the fourth spot. Ditto the Brooklyn Dodgers behind Don Newcombe and Preacher Rowe. The New York Yankees are in a precarious position, if Allie Reynolds doesn't approach his all-time major league rating.

Matter of fact, it seems to this observer that there isn't a single standout ball club in either major league.

• Kiwus Big Star at Union:

Frank Kiwus, who we mentioned briefly yesterday, is one of the brightest track stars at Union College in recent years. The former K.H.S. sprint flash is running in varsity competition under the new intercollegiate ruling that makes freshmen eligible for varsity athletics for the duration of the emergency.

A star at K.H.S., Kiwus has quickly established himself as the best sprinter on the Union team. In his first meet against Rochester, Kiwus took seconds in both the 100-yard and the 220. From there on he became invincible and in four subsequent meets against major college competition, the local lad swept the 100 and 220-yard sprints each time out. That gave him an amazing total of 47 points in five meets.

Against Champlain, Kiwus set a new track record with a 22.5 burst in the 220-yard dash. His best time of the year in the "100" was 10.1 seconds against R.P.I. Both of these times were only a few seconds off the all-time Union College records set in 1926.

Kiwus, as a freshman, has three full years of eligibility ahead of him after the completion of this season. Coach Bill Ketz, after watching his performances to date, feels that Kiwus will develop into one of the all-time track greats at Union before he receives his sheepskin.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Elbert Johnson, the Wingdale, N. Y., trapshooting expert, who won the "200 targets" event at the recent national amateur meet at Travers Island, is the same Johnson who terrorized mid-Hudson batters with wicked spit-ball pitching for the Harlem Valley State Hospital nine in the middle 1930s. He was a great pitching star in the era of Spec Ellis, Dutch Ruge, Babe Volker, Spike Van Alstyne and others of that time. John Van Gonsic knocked off 92 targets in the "100" competition the first day of the meet. Bub Merrihew and Ed Sickler, of Kingston, and Eddie Modjeska of Tillson were other entries. Oneonta High School football players have petitioned the village Board of Education for permission to raise their own funds to keep football alive in the Otsego hills. The Oneonta Board recently announced discontinuance of high school football until further notice because of "budgetary problems." Mary Genarelli, formerly associated with the Governor Clinton, Stuyvesant and Kirkland hotels, has been retained as chef for Twaalfskill Golf Club this summer. The formal opening of the kitchen is set for Saturday, May 19. Middletown High and Newburgh Academy are both 4-0 in DUSO baseball.

That top-ranking Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., official wasn't kidding when he observed that the only difference between the Colonials and "four other clubs" (Gloversville must be out) is about $10,000 in cash potential. A slight exaggeration, perhaps, but the difference does show up on the field, if you'll take the trouble to check the latest Can-Am League standing.

KAA Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Athletic Association will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel tonight at 8 o'clock. President Bob Umpleby requests a large attendance, since final arrangements will be made for the Little League baseball program.

Split Winners

Yonkers, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Hi Bert and Virtuous Abbey took both halves of the Yonkers Raceway split $4,500 feature last night, the Sunnyside Trot. A crowd of 18,663 saw Hi Bert, driven by Joseph Bolduc, defeat S.S.M., and Princess Scotland in 2:09 4/5 to pay $26.50, $9.30 and $5.00. Virtuous Abbey, off at 3-5, finished strong in 2:08 to return $3.30, $3.00 and $2.60. Dick Williams was the winning driver.

Hudson Hornet Wins
tough test of power, stamina, durability!

NEWS FLASH!
Hudson Hornet adds two more "Firsts". Gardena, California, April 8, and Phoenix, Arizona, April 22, in Grand National Circuit races.

MARSHALL TEAGUE proves Miracle H-Power and "step-down" design are an unbeatable combination as he shows the way to 71 other drivers in National Championship Stock Car Race over rugged 160-mile Daytona course

BECAUSE it is built differently, the fabulous Hudson Hornet outran 71 entries to win the National Championship Stock Car Race.

"There's just nothing like this Hudson Hornet," said driver Teague. "It has everything. The low center of gravity you get with Hudson's 'step-down' design really paid off. And I've never known a sweeter engine."

For a sample of what put the Hudson Hornet out front—come in and drive this great car.

Standard trim and other specifications and accessories are subject to change without notice.

Orange Bowl Hike

Miami, Fla., May 16 (AP)—Orange Bowl football teams will get $90,000 each for the game on Jan. 1, 1952. The Orange Bowl committee yesterday raised the payment from $75,000 each and announced the action was in line with the NCAA's demand that participating teams get 75 per cent of the New Year's Day game receipts.

Rumba Crack Stirs Gavilan

Summit, N. J., May 16 (AP)—No rumba for Kid Gavilan until he wins the welterweight title Friday night in his fight with Johnny Bratton. The Keed is making the supreme sacrifice.

Word leaked back to his training camp that Bratton dismisses him as "just another rumba dancer." Gavilan was a little indignant.

"Look fran," he said. "I fight. No rumba. My legs have balance because I dance mucho. But no rumba until after fight."

Did the scleek Cuban expect to whip Bratton?

"I theenk so."

It was evident Gavilan was not impressed by what he had seen of Bratton. Turned out all he ever saw was on television against Charlie Fusari and Don Williams.

They told Gavilan that Bratton wanted him to carry the fight to him.

OK. I be after him."

Gavilan's handlers — and they are legion—claim he is most eager for this fight. Back home in Cuba they say he will be met by the presidential plane and band if he wins the title. He would be the first Cuban champ since Kid Chocolate.

City Softball League Opens With Ten Teams

Two-Round Schedule For 1951 Season

The 10-team City Softball League launches its 1951 season, with five games scheduled this evening at various parks in the city.

The league will play two complete rounds, with each team appearing in 18 games, according to Secretary Andy Murphy.

Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Block Park, the upper and lower diamonds at Hasbrouck Park; upper Forsyth Park and St. Mary's Park.

St. Mary's diamond will be used only temporarily since the Little League, sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association, will have exclusive use of the diamond when its program gets under way in July.

Game time will be 6:40 p. m., with all games scheduled for seven innings.

The first day's schedule:

Wednesday, May 16

Beichert's Studebakers vs. Chez Emile at lower Hasbrouck.

Subway Grill vs. Dukes at upper Hasbrouck.

Newkirk Aces vs. Barclay Knit at upper Forsyth.

Central Lunch vs. Hoppey's at St. Mary's.

Upstate Colleges Sever Relations After Dispute

Plattsburgh, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Champlain College has broken off athletic relations with Clarkson College after a dispute stemming from an umpire's action in a baseball game.

Paul L. Woerner, Champlain's director of athletics, announced the action yesterday. He said it resulted from the refusal of Clarkson coach Henry R. Hodge to continue a game halted by an argument with an umpire.

The game, at Champlain Monday, was awarded by plate umpire Edward Gallagher to Champlain by the forfeit score of 9-0. Champlain was leading, 7-3, at the time.

At Potsdam, Hodge, who also is Clarkson's director of athletics, said the breaking of athletic relations is a "culmination of a series of unfortunate incidents."

Smouldering Feud

He added that he hopes the two northern New York colleges could resume relations in "a year or two."

"We just feel," he said, "that it will be best to stop it for awhile—at least while the present students are in college."

The forfeit was the second in games between the colleges. In a football game in 1948, Clarkson was awarded a 1-0 victory when the Champlain squad left the field after a dispute over an offside penalty. The forfeit victory was upheld later by the NCAA's rules committee.

Woerner said Hodge took the Clarkson baseball team from the field in the sixth inning after the umpire ordered the Clarkson catcher from the game for allegedly using abusive language.

Hodge demanded the player be reinstated, but the umpire refused.

The forfeit victory was Champlain's first baseball triumph over Clarkson in the eight games between the rivals since 1946.

Car Overturns

State police at Lake Katrine received a report this morning that a car operated by Edward Wyant of 65 Wrentham street had been cut-off while proceeding on the Thruway west of Saugerties at an early hour today and overturned. The offending car was not identified. There was no injury.

Lapo Says Plans Progress for Vols' Convention in July

Reginald Lapo of Woodstock, president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association told its members at Saugerties last night that plans are progressing for the annual convention at Woodstock July 26, 27, and 28.

Convention plans will be further discussed by officers and directors of the association at a meeting at 8 p. m., Wednesday in central fire station, Kingston, he said.

The firemen were guests last night of the R. A. Snyder Fire Company in Saugerties. An estimated 250 attended.

The fire police patrol system was explained in further detail by Charles Draught, president of the Rockland County Fire Patrol Association. Several guests from Sullivan county attended the session.

The June meeting will be held at Glasco when the firemen will be guests of the Mulford Engine Company there.

Sues to Regain Money

New York, May 16 (AP) — A Philadelphia woman charges that she bought a lonely hearts business only to discover that it "introduced clients to one another for immoral purposes." Mollie Goodman said she bought the Philadelphia branch of Friendship Center, Inc., under false representation last Dec. 5. She filed suit yesterday in Federal Court against the center and Clara Lane, of 58 West 47 street, New York city charging fraud and asking the return of $4,750. She said she was told the business introduced socially single persons of the opposite sex with similar tastes, ages and cultural background to create enduring friendships leading to marriage.

F. R. Mendelssohn Dies

Baltimore, May 16 (AP)—Cellist Felix Robert Mendelssohn, great-grandnephew of the famous German composer, died on the concert stage last night. The 60-year-old musician was in the midst of Dohnany's concert piece in D major—a composition he introduced to the world in Berlin in 1918—when the bow went limp in his grasp and he collapsed. Attendants quickly rushed him to Mercy Hospital from the Cadoa Hall. But he was dead on arrival there. He began his musical career in his native Germany as an eight-year-old prodigy. In Berlin he wrote his most noted composition, the passion opera Christus.

Gets 10 Days in Jail

William Powchik, 45, a kitchen helper employed in Ellenville was arrested Tuesday on a charge of public intoxication and given 10 days in the county jail by Justice Benjamin Lonstein.

Tuesday's 89 Is No Record for May

Yesterday's high temperature of 89 degrees followed the coldest day in the city since April 21 as the mercury took a spurt of 41 degrees from the overnight low of 48 degrees at 3:45 a. m.

The temperature, while the highest for the year to date, was no special record for May. The highest record for the month was 96 on May 30, 1942, and two temperatures in the 90's preceded that. It was 92 degrees on May 3 and 90 on May 14 of that year, according to records of the city engineer's office.

The low Monday was 37 degrees in the city, but freezing temperatures were reported in several parts of the county. A low of 30 was reported at the headworks of the Ashokan reservoir. The noon high for that day was 66 degrees. The noon high today was 84 degrees.

The mercury yesterday reached 75 degrees at 10 a. m., and 82 at noon.

Orange Bowl Hike

Miami, Fla., May 16 (AP)—Orange Bowl football teams will get $90,000 each for the game on Jan. 1, 1952. The Orange Bowl committee yesterday raised the payment from $75,000 each and announced the action was in line with the NCAA's demand that participating teams get 75 per cent of the New Year's Day game receipts.

Rumba Crack Stirs Gavilan

Summit, N. J., May 16 (AP)—No rumba for Kid Gavilan until he wins the welterweight title Friday night in his fight with Johnny Bratton. The Keed is making the supreme sacrifice.

Word leaked back to his training camp that Bratton dismisses him as "just another rumba dancer." Gavilan was a little indignant.

"Look fran," he said. "I fight. No rumba. My legs have balance because I dance mucho. But no rumba until after fight."

Did the scleek Cuban expect to whip Bratton?

"I theenk so."

It was evident Gavilan was not impressed by what he had seen of Bratton. Turned out all he ever saw was on television against Charlie Fusari and Don Williams.

They told Gavilan that Bratton wanted him to carry the fight to him.

OK. I be after him."

Gavilan's handlers — and they are legion—claim he is most eager for this fight. Back home in Cuba they say he will be met by the presidential plane and band if he wins the title. He would be the first Cuban champ since Kid Chocolate.

City Softball League Opens With Ten Teams

Upstate Colleges Sever Relations After Dispute

Plattsburgh, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Champlain College has broken off athletic relations with Clarkson College after a dispute stemming from an umpire's action in a baseball game.

Paul L. Woerner, Champlain's director of athletics, announced the action yesterday. He said it resulted from the refusal of Clarkson coach Henry R. Hodge to continue a game halted by an argument with an umpire.

The game, at Champlain Monday, was awarded by plate umpire Edward Gallagher to Champlain by the forfeit score of 9-0. Champlain was leading, 7-3, at the time.

At Potsdam, Hodge, who also is Clarkson's director of athletics, said the breaking of athletic relations is a "culmination of a series of unfortunate incidents."

Smouldering Feud

He added that he hopes the two northern New York colleges could resume relations in "a year or two."

"We just feel," he said, "that it will be best to stop it for awhile—at least while the present students are in college."

The forfeit was the second in games between the colleges. In a football game in 1948, Clarkson was awarded a 1-0 victory when the Champlain squad left the field after a dispute over an offside penalty. The forfeit victory was upheld later by the NCAA's rules committee.

Woerner said Hodge took the Clarkson baseball team from the field in the sixth inning after the umpire ordered the Clarkson catcher from the game for allegedly using abusive language.

Hodge demanded the player be reinstated, but the umpire refused.

The forfeit victory was Champlain's first baseball triumph over Clarkson in the eight games between the rivals since 1946.

Two-Round Schedule For 1951 Season

The 10-team City Softball League launches its 1951 season, with five games scheduled this evening at various parks in the city.

The league will play two complete rounds, with each team appearing in 18 games, according to Secretary Andy Murphy.

Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Block Park, the upper and lower diamonds at Hasbrouck Park; upper Forsyth Park and St. Mary's Park.

St. Mary's diamond will be used only temporarily since the Little League, sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association, will have exclusive use of the diamond when its program gets under way in July.

Game time will be 6:40 p. m., with all games scheduled for seven innings.

The first day's schedule:

Wednesday, May 16

Beichert's Studebakers vs. Chez Emile at lower Hasbrouck.

Subway Grill vs. Dukes at upper Hasbrouck.

Newkirk Aces vs. Barclay Knit at upper Forsyth.

Central Lunch vs. Hoppey's at St. Mary's.

Car Overturns

State police at Lake Katrine received a report this morning that a car operated by Edward Wyant of 65 Wrentham street had been cut-off while proceeding on the Thruway west of Saugerties at an early hour today and overturned. The offending car was not identified. There was no injury.

Lapo Says Plans Progress for Vols' Convention in July

Reginald Lapo of Woodstock, president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association told its members at Saugerties last night that plans are progressing for the annual convention at Woodstock July 26, 27, and 28.

Convention plans will be further discussed by officers and directors of the association at a meeting at 8 p. m., Wednesday in central fire station, Kingston, he said.

The firemen were guests last night of the R. A. Snyder Fire Company in Saugerties. An estimated 250 attended.

The fire police patrol system was explained in further detail by Charles Draught, president of the Rockland County Fire Patrol Association. Several guests from Sullivan county attended the session.

The June meeting will be held at Glasco when the firemen will be guests of the Mulford Engine Company there.

Sues to Regain Money

New York, May 16 (AP) — A Philadelphia woman charges that she bought a lonely hearts business only to discover that it "introduced clients to one another for immoral purposes." Mollie Goodman said she bought the Philadelphia branch of Friendship Center, Inc., under false representation last Dec. 5. She filed suit yesterday in Federal Court against the center and Clara Lane, of 58 West 47 street, New York city charging fraud and asking the return of $4,750. She said she was told the business introduced socially single persons of the opposite sex with similar tastes, ages and cultural background to create enduring friendships leading to marriage.

F. R. Mendelssohn Dies

Baltimore, May 16 (AP)—Cellist Felix Robert Mendelssohn, great-grandnephew of the famous German composer, died on the concert stage last night. The 60-year-old musician was in the midst of Dohnany's concert piece in D major—a composition he introduced to the world in Berlin in 1918—when the bow went limp in his grasp and he collapsed. Attendants quickly rushed him to Mercy Hospital from the Cadoa Hall. But he was dead on arrival there. He began his musical career in his native Germany as an eight-year-old prodigy. In Berlin he wrote his most noted composition, the passion opera Christus.

Tuesday's 89 Is No Record for May

Yesterday's high temperature of 89 degrees followed the coldest day in the city since April 21 as the mercury took a spurt of 41 degrees from the overnight low of 48 degrees at 3:45 a. m.

The temperature, while the highest for the year to date, was no special record for May. The highest record for the month was 96 on May 30, 1942, and two temperatures in the 90's preceded that. It was 92 degrees on May 3 and 90 on May 14 of that year, according to records of the city engineer's office.

The low Monday was 37 degrees in the city, but freezing temperatures were reported in several parts of the county. A low of 30 was reported at the headworks of the Ashokan reservoir. The noon high for that day was 66 degrees. The noon high today was 84 degrees.

The mercury yesterday reached 75 degrees at 10 a. m., and 82 at noon.

Orange Bowl Hike

Miami, Fla., May 16 (AP)—Orange Bowl football teams will get $90,000 each for the game on Jan. 1, 1952. The Orange Bowl committee yesterday raised the payment from $75,000 each and announced the action was in line with the NCAA's demand that participating teams get 75 per cent of the New Year's Day game receipts.

Rumba Crack Stirs Gavilan

Summit, N. J., May 16 (AP)—No rumba for Kid Gavilan until he wins the welterweight title Friday night in his fight with Johnny Bratton. The Keed is making the supreme sacrifice.

Word leaked back to his training camp that Bratton dismisses him as "just another rumba dancer." Gavilan was a little indignant.

"Look fran," he said. "I fight. No rumba. My legs have balance because I dance mucho. But no rumba until after fight."

Did the scleek Cuban expect to whip Bratton?

"I theenk so."

It was evident Gavilan was not impressed by what he had seen of Bratton. Turned out all he ever saw was on television against Charlie Fusari and Don Williams.

They told Gavilan that Bratton wanted him to carry the fight to him.

OK. I be after him."

Gavilan's handlers — and they are legion—claim he is most eager for this fight. Back home in Cuba they say he will be met by the presidential plane and band if he wins the title. He would be the first Cuban champ since Kid Chocolate.

City Softball League Opens With Ten Teams

Upstate Colleges Sever Relations After Dispute

Plattsburgh, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Champlain College has broken off athletic relations with Clarkson College after a dispute stemming from an umpire's action in a baseball game.

Paul L. Woerner, Champlain's director of athletics, announced the action yesterday. He said it resulted from the refusal of Clarkson coach Henry R. Hodge to continue a game halted by an argument with an umpire.

The game, at Champlain Monday, was awarded by plate umpire Edward Gallagher to Champlain by the forfeit score of 9-0. Champlain was leading, 7-3, at the time.

At Potsdam, Hodge, who also is Clarkson's director of athletics, said the breaking of athletic relations is a "culmination of a series of unfortunate incidents."

Smouldering Feud

He added that he hopes the two northern New York colleges could resume relations in "a year or two."

"We just feel," he said, "that it will be best to stop it for awhile—at least while the present students are in college."

The forfeit was the second in games between the colleges. In a football game in 1948, Clarkson was awarded a 1-0 victory when the Champlain squad left the field after a dispute over an offside penalty. The forfeit victory was upheld later by the NCAA's rules committee.

Woerner said Hodge took the Clarkson baseball team from the field in the sixth inning after the umpire ordered the Clarkson catcher from the game for allegedly using abusive language.

Hodge demanded the player be reinstated, but the umpire refused.

The forfeit victory was Champlain's first baseball triumph over Clarkson in the eight games between the rivals since 1946.

Car Overturns

State police at Lake Katrine received a report this morning that a car operated by Edward Wyant of 65 Wrentham street had been cut-off while proceeding on the Thruway west of Saugerties at an early hour today and overturned. The offending car was not identified. There was no injury.

Two-Round Schedule For 1951 Season

The 10-team City Softball League launches its 1951 season, with five games scheduled this evening at various parks in the city.

The league will play two complete rounds, with each team appearing in 18 games, according to Secretary Andy Murphy.

Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Block Park, the upper and lower diamonds at Hasbrouck Park; upper Forsyth Park and St. Mary's Park.

St. Mary's diamond will be used only temporarily since the Little League, sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association, will have exclusive use of the diamond when its program gets under way in July.

Game time will be 6:40 p. m., with all games scheduled for seven innings.

The first day's schedule:

Wednesday, May 16

Beichert's Studebakers vs. Chez Emile at lower Hasbrouck.

Subway Grill vs. Dukes at upper Hasbrouck.

Newkirk Aces vs. Barclay Knit at upper Forsyth.

Central Lunch vs. Hoppey's at St. Mary's.

Lapo Says Plans Progress for Vols' Convention in July

Reginald Lapo of Woodstock, president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association told its members at Saugerties last night that plans are progressing for the annual convention at Woodstock July 26, 27, and 28.

Convention plans will be further discussed by officers and directors of the association at a meeting at 8 p. m., Wednesday in central fire station, Kingston, he said.

The firemen were guests last night of the R. A. Snyder Fire Company in Saugerties. An estimated 250 attended.

The fire police patrol system was explained in further detail by Charles Draught, president of the Rockland County Fire Patrol Association. Several guests from Sullivan county attended the session.

The June meeting will be held at Glasco when the firemen will be guests of the Mulford Engine Company there.

Sues to Regain Money

New York, May 16 (AP) — A Philadelphia woman charges that she bought a lonely hearts business only to discover that it "introduced clients to one another for immoral purposes." Mollie Goodman said she bought the Philadelphia branch of Friendship Center, Inc., under false representation last Dec. 5. She filed suit yesterday in Federal Court against the center and Clara Lane, of 58 West 47 street, New York city charging fraud and asking the return of $4,750. She said she was told the business introduced socially single persons of the opposite sex with similar tastes, ages and cultural background to create enduring friendships leading to marriage.

F. R. Mendelssohn Dies

Baltimore, May 16 (AP)—Cellist Felix Robert Mendelssohn, great-grandnephew of the famous German composer, died on the concert stage last night. The 60-year-old musician was in the midst of Dohnany's concert piece in D major—a composition he introduced to the world in Berlin in 1918—when the bow went limp in his grasp and he collapsed. Attendants quickly rushed him to Mercy Hospital from the Cadoa Hall. But he was dead on arrival there. He began his musical career in his native Germany as an eight-year-old prodigy. In Berlin he wrote his most noted composition, the passion opera Christus.

Tuesday's 89 Is No Record for May

Yesterday's high temperature of 89 degrees followed the coldest day in the city since April 21 as the mercury took a spurt of 41 degrees from the overnight low of 48 degrees at 3:45 a. m.

The temperature, while the highest for the year to date, was no special record for May. The highest record for the month was 96 on May 30, 1942, and two temperatures in the 90's preceded that. It was 92 degrees on May 3 and 90 on May 14 of that year, according to records of the city engineer's office.

The low Monday was 37 degrees in the city, but freezing temperatures were reported in several parts of the county. A low of 30 was reported at the headworks of the Ashokan reservoir. The noon high for that day was 66 degrees. The noon high today was 84 degrees.

The mercury yesterday reached 75 degrees at 10 a. m., and 82 at noon.

Three Hurt Slightly In Broadway Mishap

George Fisher, 37, of 224 Fair street, and Carl Thurin, 24, of 16 Prospect street, reported head injuries and Jerry Becker, 34, of 601 West 148th street, New York, reported a sprained back.

The police report at 12:55 a. m. said Hebert Anderson, 45, of 47 West O'Reilly street, headed west on Cornell street, had made a right turn into Broadway when he stopped to let someone out of the car which was struck in the rear by the sedan of John Quigley, 27, of 154 Downs stret. The latter also came out of Cornell street and turned right into Broadway.

The three injured men rode in Anderson's car, the report said. Both cars were towed from the scene. Officers Walter Fitzgerald and Walter Van Steenburgh investigated.

Summerless Year

The year 1816 is popularly known as the year without a summer because, in the northern states, there were frosts in every month of the year. Similar adverse weather conditions prevailed in many parts of Europe.

Horse Deductions Would Be Stopped

Washington, May 16 (AP)—As it shapes up now, the House tax bill holds some bad news for persons who operate horse breeding stables, fancy dairy farms or other enterprises as a hobby and seek to charge off losses against income from their regular business.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which is drafting the measure, has decided that is a "loophole" in the revenue laws and has tentatively voted to bar such deductions.

To get the deductions allowed on his income tax return, the taxpayer would have to establish "by a clear preponderance of the evidence that the business was conducted primarily for profit and not for his personal gratification."

Otherwise, the losses from such a hobby would not be deductible where there had been a net loss for three of the past five years, and an aggregate net loss of more than $20,000 during the five years.

city and along coast, in 50's in interior. Some cloudiness Thursday, not so warm as today, high 70-75.

Eastern New York—Increasing cloudiness and warm, high in mid-80's. Scattered showers likely in north portion this afternoon. Three Hurt Slightly In Broadway Mishap

Three men were injured slightly when one car struck the rear of another at Broadway and Cornell street early today.

George Fisher, 37, of 224 Fair street, and Carl Thurin, 24, of 16 Prospect street, reported head injuries and Jerry Becker, 34, of 601 West 148th street, New York, reported a sprained back.

The police report at 12:55 a. m. said Hebert Anderson, 45, of 47 West O'Reilly street, headed west on Cornell street, had made a right turn into Broadway when he stopped to let someone out of the car which was struck in the rear by the sedan of John Quigley, 27, of 154 Downs stret. The latter also came out of Cornell street and turned right into Broadway.

The three injured men rode in Anderson's car, the report said. Both cars were towed from the scene. Officers Walter Fitzgerald and Walter Van Steenburgh investigated.

Summerless Year

The year 1816 is popularly known as the year without a summer because, in the northern states, there were frosts in every month of the year. Similar adverse weather conditions prevailed in many parts of Europe.

Horse Deductions Would Be Stopped

Washington, May 16 (AP)—As it shapes up now, the House tax bill holds some bad news for persons who operate horse breeding stables, fancy dairy farms or other enterprises as a hobby and seek to charge off losses against income from their regular business.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which is drafting the measure, has decided that is a "loophole" in the revenue laws and has tentatively voted to bar such deductions.

To get the deductions allowed on his income tax return, the taxpayer would have to establish "by a clear preponderance of the evidence that the business was conducted primarily for profit and not for his personal gratification."

Otherwise, the losses from such a hobby would not be deductible where there had been a net loss for three of the past five years, and an aggregate net loss of more than $20,000 during the five years.
